County Sales Tax Limitation, Reactions

By HUGH REYNOLDS

A county sales tax, if approved at the Dec. 14 meeting of the board of supervisors would be a maximum of three per cent and could not go into effect until March 14, at the earliest.

The Freeman contacted the State Sales Tax Bureau in Albany and learned the following. If a tax were approved at the board's Dec. 14 meeting, and chairman Peter J. Savago (R-New Paltz) doubts it, the law would have to go to Albany for 90 days for review.

This is to insure that the local law meets all the requirements of the state sales tax law. For instance, a county may not impose a sales tax on any item that the state does not tax, such as food or medicine. However, the county is not obligated to impose a tax on everything the state does. As an example, Ulster County might choose to place its tax only on restaurants and hotels. This would place the burden of the tax on tourists who use those facilities.

The Freeman endeavored to learn if there were any comparative figures on other counties which have a sales tax that would give local government officials an idea how much of a tax would be needed in Ulster.

The spokesman from the state office said this was almost impossible. He said there are no figures available on the amount of state sales tax (2 per cent) collected in Ulster last year since all counties without their own taxes are lumped into one figure.

The Freeman then asked if there were any counties similar to population as Ulster from which a guideline could be drawn.

It was explained that this was also difficult since mere population was not an accurate yardstick. The official said that there are cases of counties with almost the same population that have turned in vastly different sales tax totals. Many factors have to be taken into consideration. For instance, two counties could be the same in population but one of them might do a large tourist business. The sales tax take from the county with tourists would probably be much higher than the county without tourist attractions.

As far as rates go, five per cent is the maximum. This means the county could charge as high a three per cent, which along with the present two per cent state levy, would realize the maximum.

There are various combinations of taxes as far as the city and county go. In one case, the county could level a flat three per cent and by agreement with the city give a certain amount back. In another case, the county could levy a two per cent tax and the city one per cent. The system would have to be worked out in any law passed and approved by Albany.

A Freeman poll indicated that businessmen take a dim view of sales taxes while politicians tend to favor it. Frank Kolts president of the Kingston Uptown Businessmen's Association, polled his members yesterday and said he found them mostly opposed.

S. James Matthews, president of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, said serious study was needed on any tax measure but added that two years ago when the state sales tax was under discussion, chamber members were overwhelmingly against it.

Government leaders go from being open-minded to solidly in favor of a county sales tax.

Supervisor Douglas Dye (R-Kingston), majority leader of the board of supervisors, said he had previously opposed a sales tax but now had an "open mind" towards it. He said he felt the exhaustion of real estate as a tax source was fast approaching.

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan of Kingston thinks a sales tax is "a must" and "the sooner the better." Garraghan doesn't think the exhaustion of real estate as a tax source is fast approaching, he thinks it's here already.

B52s Saturate DMZ Sector To Counter Red Thrusts

SAIGON (AP)—American B52 Stratofortresses unloaded 150,000 pounds of bombs over the demilitarized zone today to counter possible fresh North Vietnamese thrusts after the second straight day of clashes between U.S. and Communist troops below the DMZ.

The eight-engine bombers blasted suspected Communist troop concentrations four miles northeast of the U.S. Marine outpost at Con Thien in a follow-up of a B52 raid Thursday on Red troop and artillery positions six miles north of Con Thien.

Hit Amphib Tractors

The latest clash along the frontier came Friday when North Vietnamese troops opened up on a column of U.S. Marine amphibious tractors 5½ miles east of the artillery base at Gio Linh. The Communists slammed 50 rounds from 60mm mortars into the column along with machine gun and small arms fire, killing one Marine and wounding 13.

The Marines fought back with artillery and mortars, and the Navy destroyer Leary in the Tonkin Gulf off North Vietnam joined in blasting the Communist positions. The Navy said the Leary knocked out several Communist mortars. There was no report on Communist casualties.

The Marine amphibious tractors came under fire while they trundled along the South China Sea coast about two miles south of the DMZ.

Other Marine units, meanwhile, reported uncovering 14 more Communist bodies from a four-hour battle Thursday some two miles north-northeast of the outpost of Con Thien and only 200 yards south of the buffer zone.

15 Marines Killed

In Thursday's action, the Marines charged through a savage barrage of enemy machine gun and mortar fire to drive North Vietnamese troops from bunkers. The finding of the 14 bodies raised to 40 the number of enemy killed in this battle, headquarters said. Marine casualties were put at 15 dead and 51 wounded. The Marines also reported capturing 17 individual and nine crew-served weapons plus one 60mm mortar, 1,000 rounds of small-arms ammunition and 111 rounds of 82mm mortar.

New action flared briefly near Dak To in the central highlands, scene of a three-week battle that ended Thanksgiving Day when U.S. paratroopers captured Hill 875.

U.S. Headquarters said Communist gunners poured mortars and heavy artillery rockets into an artillery base nine miles west-northwest of Dak To which supports paratroopers of the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade. One American was killed and 10 wounded in the three-hour barrage Friday night.

The attack began with 82mm mortar fire interspersed with a heavier caliber fire estimated to be 120mm mortar or 122mm rocket rounds, the U.S. Command said.

U.S. units countered with mortars, artillery, helicopter gunships and air strikes by tactical fighter-bombers on the suspected Communist firing positions, but enemy casualties were not known.

Sixty-nine miles south of Saigon in the swampy Mekong Delta U.S. Navy river patrol boats and a helicopter gunship teamed up with Vietnamese militiamen to crush a Viet Cong assault on a government outpost Friday. The allied forces reported killing 19 guerrillas.

At another outpost 35 miles northwest of Saigon, South Vietnamese troops got help from U.S. Army gunship choppers and Air Force AC47s fitted out with Gatling guns. Eighteen Communist bodies were found after the two-hour fray.

Firemen Vote $400 Yearly Hike

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

Kingston firemen voted yesterday to accept a $400 yearly pay raise, $150 clothing allowance, and a four-week vacation after 10 years of service.

The across the board increase means that every fireman will get the $400 a year increase regardless of rank.

Firemen now start at $5,100 and the increase will start them at $5,500. The $9,500 chief's salary will be raised to $9,900.

'Substantial Majority'

Robert Gollnick, president of Local 461 of the Uniformed Fire Fighters Association, said that the vote taken at the Central Station passed the proposal with a "substantial majority."

He called the new contract with the City "satisfactory."

Gollnick also said, "I hope the Common Council passes it."

The firemen's contract is a higher settlement than that given to Kingston's policemen.

Police had voted on a $300 across the board increase, a $100 clothing allowance increase, and four weeks paid vacation after 12 years of service.

The vote was taken between the hours of 4 and 8 p. m., and came after a meeting between the UFFA local and the Kingston fire commissioners held earlier in the week.

The session was recommended by the Kingston Public Employment Relation Board after a Monday meeting with the fire commissioners.

The firemen had reached an impasse with commissioners over wages and vacation time. They were offered a wage package in the area of $23,000 but they were asking for a $750 across the board raise, a $47,000-plus request.

The firemen had been offered three weeks paid vacation time after 10 years of service but they held out for the four-week total.

Close to $30,000 Tab

With about 64 firemen currently serving the city, the $400 increase will cost the city, at first figuring, $25,600.

According to Orrie R. Riehl, City treasurer, however, there are additional costs that would have to be considered such as a raise in social security payments and retirement benefits.

"This would bring the total somewhat close to $30,000," said Riehl.

John Crespino Jr. newly elected head of the local Police Benevolent Association, would not comment on the firemen increase and its difference from that of the police raises.

The fact is, however, that the Common Council has not yet voted on the increases and it is all subject to the Council's approval. No contract has yet been drawn up, nothing has been put in writing.

An informed source said that what seems likely is that the police "will ask for another meeting," regarding the increases, "after Crespino takes office" in 1968.

Two Area Highway Fatals, Man Critical in 209 Crash

By LYNN MULVANEY

Two fatal accidents in Dutchess and Columbia counties and a head-on collision on Rt. 209, south of Stone Ridge which leaves a Vermont man in critical condition all took place between 6 and 8:30 last night.

A charge of criminally negligent homicide will be lodged against Herbert Craver of Catskill, arrested for driving while intoxicated following a head-on collision in Wappingers Falls involving a sheriff's deputy car and Craver's car in which there were three passengers.

Four of the five persons were hospitalized. Olga Horton, 26 of Beacon died of a broken neck, according to Dutchess County Sheriff's Dept.

In Greenport, Columbia County, James Allen, 17, of Hudson, was killed at 6 p. m. when the car he was riding went off the road and hit a tree, state police reported.

The head-on collision in Stone Ridge occurred on Rt. 209 about a mile south of Rt. 213.

Edward Henry Martin, 57, of Waterbury, Vt., suffered internal injuries and facial lacerations. He is listed in critical condition at Benedictine Hospital.

Margaret Bonilla, 21, of Stone Ridge, sustained a possible fracture of the knee and is listed as fair.

A passenger in the car driven by Miss Bonilla, William Miller, of Kerhonkson, was treated at the hospital and released.

According to Ellenville State Police, Martin was traveling south on 209 and Miss Bonilla north, when at 7:30 p. m., Martin's car is reported to have crossed to the left lane and collided head-on with the car driven by Miss Bonilla.

A summons was issued Martin for failure to keep right and to Miss Bonilla for unsafe tires. The two will appear before Judge Harry Scarpati later.

Troopers Wayne Lawrence and Douglas Dymond investigated.

In the Wappingers Falls fatality, the sheriff's office reports that the driver of one of the two cars involved, Deputy Sheriff Donald Williams, 29, of Fishkill, is in Beacon Highland Hospital suffering from a lacerated finger and abrasions of the leg.

Passengers in the Craver car were George Manor, 23, of Stormville, suffering from lacerations of the face and Carmele Mancuso, 43, of Fishkill, being treated for internal injuries.

According to a report of the sheriff's department, the deputy sheriff's car was traveling south on Rt. 9 when the car driven by Craver approached from the opposite direction in the wrong lane. The two met head-on.

Police Restore Calm At Auditorium Game

By ED PALLADINO

City police were called to the Municipal Auditorium Friday after two members of the Fashion Institute (New York) basketball team tried to attack several of the Ulster Community College players.

Ulster captured the contest, 106-82, to remain unbeaten after three games.

Other details may be found on sports pages.

The players, identified as Sam Chandler and Clarence Grant, were rebuffed by police. They uttered obscene remarks to officials Bob Foster and Leo Darling and also berated the spectators.

Though no blows were reported struck, police remained at the auditorium until both teams had departed. The Fashion club spent the evening at the Gov. Clinton Hotel and is scheduled to play tonight at Sullivan Community College.

There were no arrests and no injuries were reported.

It was the second incident in as many years with the New York school. Last season, Coach Raoul Nacinovich pulled the team off the floor, claiming the officials were "homers."

Neal Brandow, the man who chairs Greene County Republicans, will also be the chairman of the GOP congressional group which will attempt to choose a winning candidate for next fall's battle for congress.

The Brandow selection could be significant from a leadership standpoint, because it stirs the question from some quarters: is Ulster and Dutchess leadership so weak that Republicans have to rely on the chairman of Greene county, next to the fifth smallest in population, to provide direction?

20 Year Tenure

One Ulster GOPer suggested that Brandow was chosen because of his seniority—he has been a county leader out in Greene for about 20 years.

ANOTHER REPUBLICAN said that the congressional organization is so small that almost anyone could have the job if he asked for it.

At any rate, Brandow has the job of heading a group that may have the task of selecting the next congressman from the five-county 28th congressional district and he and his group are now beginning to collect the lists of names of Republican hopefuls.

One chap who has an edge is Ham Fish Jr. He has been campaigning for the job since his defeat by Resnick last year. More than a few GOPers feel that Fish has already been rejected by the voters in an area that traditionally supports Republicans and many of them are convinced that Fish is a loser.

THEY FIND the young-looking Millbrook attorney basically humorless, unable to get the support of the Conservative party, and alienated from the Jewish vote by virtue of Hamilton Fish Sr.'s reported flirtation with high Nazi officials just before World War II.

ANOTHER FELLOW who would like to have the nomination, but appears at this time unwilling to fight for it, is public relations man John Barry, of Catskill, former campaign chairman for Fish.

Personality

Barry has been called politically astute, possessing that inevitable sense of humor, and it is said that he has the personality Fish supposedly lacked.

Interestingly, Barry's wife, Jane—a successful novelist—has written a book entitled "Grass Roots." It is currently awaiting publication and details the Fish-Aldrich primary battle of '66 and the following election campaign between Fish and Congressman Resnick.

Another potential candidate unwilling to fight for the nomination is Lee Sillin, president of Central Hudson. There are, again, a goodly number of Republicans who would want Sillin to make the run what with his respectable image and his successful business career behind him, but Sillin will not go into a tough primary battle, and may not want the job.

ONE MAN who may wage warfare for the nomination, however, is George Gordon Liddy, assistant district attorney in Dutchess County and a former FBI agent.

One group that has made overtures to Liddy is United

Wickham Guest Speaker

Dutchess Man Honored at Parley

By JEAN F. DOLAN

The New York State Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts delegates concluded a three-day meeting in Kingston at a luncheon session Friday in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Guest speaker at the final session was Don Wickham, commissioner of the State Department of Agriculture and Markets who outlined the important responsibilities of Soil and Water District directors to the landowners in the state. He urged community planning of land use with consideration of urbanization as well as agricultural needs.

Harold Wright of Pawling, Dutchess County district chairman and a past president of the state organization, was named Conservation Man of the Year for his many contributions to conservation-related projects across the state. A scroll was accepted by Albert Cole of Dutchess County, a member of the state soil and water committee on behalf of Wright who was unable to attend.

State Senator Bernard Smith of Suffolk County encouraged the group in the development of the conservation activities relating to the preservation and creative usefulness in the use of the state's soil and water resources.

State Associations of Conservation Districts president, Philips Comings of Bainbridge, Chenango County, and vice president, Ben English of Washington County will submit a bill to the state legislature to provide state reimbursement to counties that share in the cost of providing a conservation field technician.

Other major pieces of legislation developed by the conservation association are to provide a state-wide conservation education program, to encourage more extensive uses of soil surveys in planning for land use, and to develop community plans on a watershed basis.

County Sales Tax Limitation, Reactions

Firemen Vote $400 Yearly Hike

Kingston firemen voted yesterday to accept a $400 yearly pay raise, $150 clothing allowance, and a four-week vacation after 10 years of service.

The across the board increase means that every fireman will get the $400 a year increase regardless of rank.

Firemen now start at $5,100 and the increase will start them at $5,500. The $9,500 chief's salary will be raised to $9,900.

'Substantial Majority'

Robert Golinick, president of Local 461 of the Uniformed Fire Fighters Association, said that the vote taken at the Central Station passed the proposal with a "substantial majority."

He called the new contract with the City "satisfactory."

Golinick also said, "I hope the Common Council passes it."

The firemen's contract is a higher settlement than that given to Kingston's policemen.

Police had voted on a $300 across the board increase, a $100 clothing allowance increase, and four weeks paid vacation after 12 years of service.

The vote was taken between the hours of 4 and 8 p. m., and came after a meeting between the UFFA local and the Kingston fire commissioners held earlier in the week.

The session was recommended by the Kingston Public Employment Relation Board after a Monday meeting with the fire commissioners.

The firemen had reached an impasse with commissioners over wages and vacation time. They were offered a wage package in the area of $23,000 but they were asking for a $750 across the board raise, a $47,000-plus request.

Two Area Highway Fatals, Man Critical in 209 Crash

Troopers Wayne Lawrence and Douglas Dymond investigated.

In the Wappingers Falls fatality, the sheriff's office reports that the driver of one of the two cars involved, Deputy Sheriff Donald Williams, 29, of Fishkill, is in Beacon Highland Hospital suffering from a lacerated finger and abrasions of the leg.

Passengers in the Craver car were George Manor, 23, of Stormville, suffering from lacerations of the face and Carmele Mancuso, 43, of Fishkill, being treated for internal injuries.

According to a report of the sheriff's department, the deputy sheriff's car was traveling south on Rt. 9 when the car driven by Craver approached from the opposite direction in the wrong lane. The two met head-on.

Interestingly, Barry's wife, Jane—a successful novelist—has written a book entitled "Grass Roots." It is currently awaiting publication and details the Fish-Aldrich primary battle of '66 and the following election campaign between Fish and Congressman Resnick.

Another potential candidate unwilling to fight for the nomination is Lee Sillin, president of Central Hudson. There are, again, a goodly number of Republicans who would want Sillin to make the run what with his respectable image and his successful business career behind him, but Sillin will not go into a tough primary battle, and may not want the job.

ONE MAN who may wage warfare for the nomination, however, is George Gordon Liddy, assistant district attorney in Dutchess County and a former FBI agent.

One group that has made overtures to Liddy is United

PERMANENT TREE — A permanent Christmas tree was planted yesterday at the corner of Broadway and Henry Streets by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the city department of public works and Orvil Norman, owner of Kingston Garden Center. The 35-foot tree was growing in Stone Ridge before it took up residence in the city. Ceremonies will mark the lighting of the tree. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Wickham Guest Speaker

Dutchess Man Honored at Parley

By JEAN F. DOLAN

The New York State Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts delegates concluded a three-day meeting in Kingston at a luncheon session Friday in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Guest speaker at the final session was Don Wickham, commissioner of the State Department of Agriculture and Markets who outlined the important responsibilities of Soil and Water District directors to the landowners in the state. He urged community planning of land use with consideration of urbanization as well as agricultural needs.

Harold Wright of Pawling, Dutchess County district chairman and a past president of the state organization, was named Conservation Man of the Year for his many contributions to conservation-related projects across the state. A scroll was accepted by Albert Cole of Dutchess County, a member of the state soil and water committee on behalf of Wright who was unable to attend.

State Senator Bernard Smith of Suffolk County encouraged the group in the development of the conservation activities relating to the preservation and creative usefulness in the use of the state's soil and water resources.

State Associations of Conservation Districts president, Philips Comings of Bainbridge, Chenango County, and vice president, Ben English of Washington County will submit a bill to the state legislature to provide state reimbursement to counties that share in the cost of providing a conservation field technician.

Other major pieces of legislation developed by the conservation association are to provide a state-wide conservation education program, to encourage more extensive uses of soil surveys in planning for land use, and to develop community plans on a watershed basis.

Will Present Handel's Messiah At Saugerties

JACK PAYNE

The Christmas portion of Handel's Messiah will be presented by the 42-voice choir of the Baptist Bible Seminary of Johnson City in the First Baptist Church of Saugerties Dec. 3 at 7 p.m.

There will be both organ and piano accompaniment. A brass ensemble will be with the group to play prelude music. The soloists are Donna Krieger, soprano; Lynette Youmans, also; LaVerne Whitman, tenor; and Chuck Cole, bass. The tenor is a voice instructor at the school.

The choir is under the direction of Jack Payne, MM. The choir prepares Christmas and spring musicals, a spring tour and a limited number of other appearances.

The public may attend.

STANLEY LEYDEN

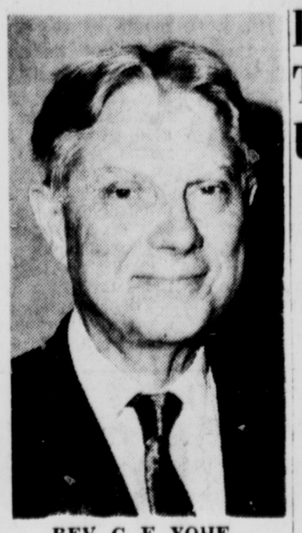
Man of Action Film Slated at Youth Meeting

Director of the Ulster County Community Action Committee, Stanley Leyden, will be the featured speaker at the meeting of the merged youth groups of the Clinton Avenue and St. James Methodist Churches this Sunday evening in the Clinton Avenue Church at 6 p.m.

Leyden will show a film, Man of Action, produced by Urban America, which gives a description of the type of community action going on in neighborhoods of Kingston and Ulster County.

Man of Action is a fitting description of Leyden himself. He has been a moving force in Ulster County since his arrival here earlier this year, encouraging the formation of groups of concerned citizens to do something about the problems of housing, employment and discrimination that contribute to urban blight. Notable is his inspiration in Rondout and the neghborhood program of the 10th Ward, centered at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church.

Sunday evening he is addressing himself to the youth of the churches to encourage responsible action such as has been manifested by the students of the State University at New Paltz who are participating in a tutorial and recreational program at the Clinton Avenue Church three days each week. Interested and concerned youth from other churches may attend.



REV. C. F. YOHE

Chaplain to Be Guest Speaker For 3 Sundays

The guest preacher at the Reformed Church of the Comforter for the next three Sundays will be the Rev. Clair Frederick Yohe of Highland.

The Rev. Mr. Yohe is a native of Iowa. He came East to attend school at Drew University in Madison, N. J. where he received a BD, STM. He also received an AB from Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa.

The Rev. Mr. Yohe was admitted to the old New York East Annual Conference of the Methodist Church in 1931. He has served churches on Long Island, Connecticut and in New York City. He was chaplain in the Army during World War II and saw service in Europe where he was wounded in action.

He is now retired from the active pastoral ministry and is presently institutional chaplain for the Kingston Area Council of Churches.

District Head To Be Guest at Uptown Church

REV. JOHN CARRINGTON

This Sunday, St. James Methodist Church will have as guest minister for the day the Rev. John E. Carrington.

He wil preach at the 11 a.m. service, his topic being, In the Days of Herod. Following the service a fellowship hour will be held at which the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Carrington will be guests.

The Rev. Mr. Carrington was recently appointed as district superintendent of the Hudson North District of the Methodist Church by Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke of the New York Area. He resides at 220 Albany Avenue, Kingston.

He is a graduate of New York University in 1950 and Drew Theological Seminary in 1952. He has held pastorate in Westfield and Summit, N. J., and in the Bronx and Jamaica. He has also served as chaplain of Harlem Hospital in New York City.

Had Great Time

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Robert L. Butterworth of Tacoma, Wash., says he's "had a great time" in college.

He has had a series of odd jobs, been active in fraternity affairs and has found time to climb mountains and spend a summer fishing in Alaska.

Born in Ontario, and still a Canadian citizen, Butterworth also has been named the University of Washington political science department's outstanding student. He has had straight-A grades the past four quarters.

Butterworth will be graduated from the University of Washington this month—at age 19.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, Dec. 2, the 336th day of 1967. There are 29 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1823, President James Monroe stated the Monroe Doctrine against European expansion in the Western Hemisphere.

On this date—

In 1805, the armies of Napoleon were victorious in the Battle of Austerlitz.

In 1812, James Madison was re-elected as U.S. president, defeating De Witt Clinton.

In 1960, the Archbishop of Canterbury visited Pope John XXIII. It was the first time in more than five centuries that the spiritual head of the Anglican church had visited a pope.

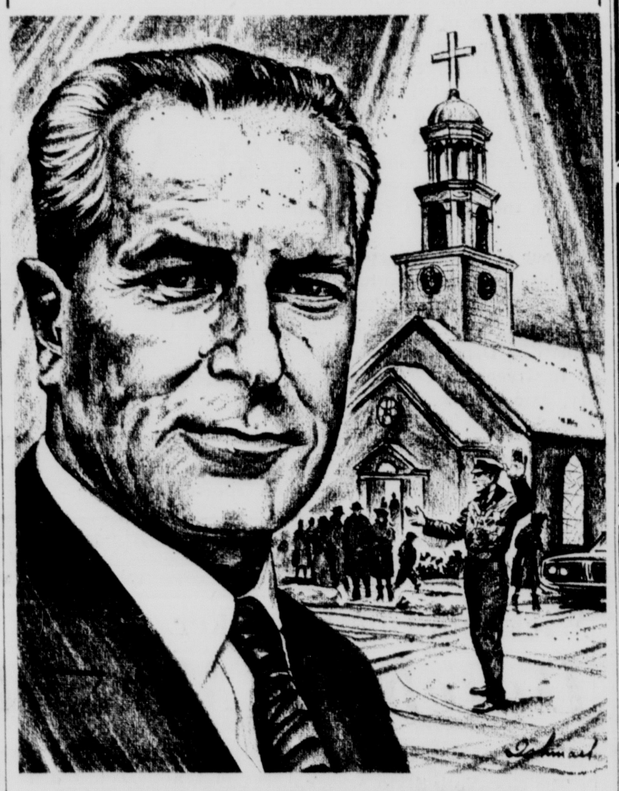
Ten years ago — President Dwight D. Eisenhower met with his cabinet and practiced golf shots on the White House lawn —just one week after suffering a mild stroke.

Five years ago — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant said he hoped the spirit of compromise that marked negotiations between the United States and the Soviet Union during the Cuban crisis would be extended to settle other world issues.

One year ago — President Lyndon B. Johnson was told by his chief economic adviser that continued prosperity and easing of inflationary pressures were in prospect for the coming year.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL



ONE WHO SERVES ON CHRISTMAS—1

Christmas Eve is one night of the year unlike all others in the Christian world. When we are with our families either at home or at church, we tend to forget that there are many dedicated people who work Christmas Eve so the rest of us can enjoy the holy night.

James Mancusi, Chief of Police at Mamaroneck, N.Y., is one of those dedicated persons. He has spent many a Christmas in his 25 years as a law officer, either on the beat, at the desk, or handling traffic for those at church.

Chief Mancusi says, "Seeing the families in their homes and out gives a sense of pride in the job because we know they wouldn't be as safe as they are if we weren't there." Also, Chief Mancusi reports there is less crime on the night before Christmas. "I can't remember any crimes of violence or burglary in our town on a Christmas Eve," he adds. "The peace on earth and good will toward men theme seems to get through to people—even the most hardened individual."

Highlights of Week in Area Churches

Will Present Handel's Messiah At Saugerties

JACK PAYNE

The Christmas portion of Handel's Messiah will be presented by the 42-voice choir of the Baptist Bible Seminary of Johnson City in the First Baptist Church of Saugerties Dec. 3 at 7 p.m.

There will be both organ and piano accompaniment. A brass ensemble will be with the group to play prelude music. The soloists are Donna Krieger, soprano; Lynette Youmans, also; LaVerne Whitman, tenor; and Chuck Cole, bass. The tenor is a voice instructor at the school.

The choir is under the direction of Jack Payne, MM. The choir prepares Christmas and spring musicals, a spring tour and a limited number of other appearances.

The public may attend.

STANLEY LEYDEN

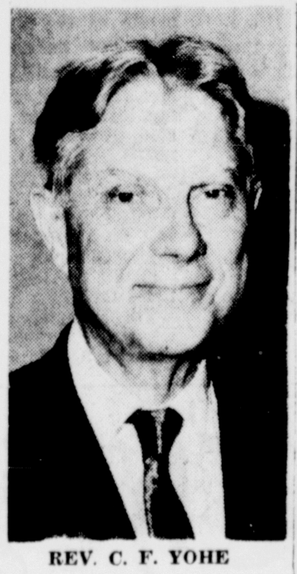
Man of Action Film Slated at Youth Meeting

Director of the Ulster County Community Action Committee, Stanley Leyden, will be the featured speaker at the meeting of the merged youth groups of the Clinton Avenue and St. James Methodist Churches this Sunday evening in the Clinton Avenue Church at 6 p.m.

Leyden will show a film, Man of Action, produced by Urban America, which gives a description of the type of community action going on in neighborhoods of Kingston and Ulster County.

Man of Action is a fitting description of Leyden himself. He has been a moving force in Ulster County since his arrival here earlier this year, encouraging the formation of groups of concerned citizens to do something about the problems of housing, employment and discrimination that contribute to urban blight. Notable is his inspiration in Rondout and the neghborhood program of the 10th Ward, centered at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church.

Sunday evening he is addressing himself to the youth of the churches to encourage responsible action such as has been manifested by the students of the State University at New Paltz who are participating in a tutorial and recreational program at the Clinton Avenue Church three days each week. Interested and concerned youth from other churches may attend.



REV. C. F. YOHE

Chaplain to Be Guest Speaker For 3 Sundays

The guest preacher at the Reformed Church of the Comforter for the next three Sundays will be the Rev. Clair Frederick Yohe of Highland.

The Rev. Mr. Yohe is a native of Iowa. He came East to attend school at Drew University in Madison, N. J. where he received a BD, STM. He also received an AB from Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa.

The Rev. Mr. Yohe was admitted to the old New York East Annual Conference of the Methodist Church in 1931. He has served churches on Long Island, Connecticut and in New York City. He was chaplain in the Army during World War II and saw service in Europe where he was wounded in action.

He is now retired from the active pastoral ministry and is presently institutional chaplain for the Kingston Area Council of Churches.

District Head To Be Guest at Uptown Church

REV. JOHN CARRINGTON

This Sunday, St. James Methodist Church will have as guest minister for the day the Rev. John E. Carrington.

He wil preach at the 11 a.m. service, his topic being, In the Days of Herod. Following the service a fellowship hour will be held at which the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Carrington will be guests.

The Rev. Mr. Carrington was recently appointed as district superintendent of the Hudson North District of the Methodist Church by Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke of the New York Area. He resides at 220 Albany Avenue, Kingston.

He is a graduate of New York University in 1950 and Drew Theological Seminary in 1952. He has held pastorate in Westfield and Summit, N. J., and in the Bronx and Jamaica. He has also served as chaplain of Harlem Hospital in New York City.

Had Great Time

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Robert L. Butterworth of Tacoma, Wash., says he's "had a great time" in college.

He has had a series of odd jobs, been active in fraternity affairs and has found time to climb mountains and spend a summer fishing in Alaska.

Born in Ontario, and still a Canadian citizen, Butterworth also has been named the University of Washington political science department's outstanding student. He has had straight-A grades the past four quarters.

Butterworth will be graduated from the University of Washington this month—at age 19.

TODAY IN HISTORY

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, Dec. 2, the 336th day of 1967. There are 29 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1823, President James Monroe stated the Monroe Doctrine against European expansion in the Western Hemisphere.

On this date—

In 1805, the armies of Napoleon were victorious in the Battle of Austerlitz.

In 1960, the Archbishop of Canterbury visited Pope John XXIII. It was the first time in more than five centuries that the spiritual head of the Anglican church had visited a pope.

Ten years ago — President Dwight D. Eisenhower met with his cabinet and practiced golf shots on the White House lawn —just one week after suffering a mild stroke.

Five years ago — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant said he hoped the spirit of compromise that marked negotiations between the United States and the Soviet Union during the Cuban crisis would be extended to settle other world issues.

One year ago — President Lyndon B. Johnson was told by his chief economic adviser that continued prosperity and easing of inflationary pressures were in prospect for the coming year.

The POWER of FAITH

ONE WHO SERVES ON CHRISTMAS—1

Christmas Eve is one night of the year unlike all others in the Christian world. When we are with our families either at home or at church, we tend to forget that there are many dedicated people who work Christmas Eve so the rest of us can enjoy the holy night.

James Mancusi, Chief of Police at Mamaroneck, N.Y., is one of those dedicated persons. He has spent many a Christmas in his 25 years as a law officer, either on the beat, at the desk, or handling traffic for those at church.

Chief Mancusi says, "Seeing the families in their homes and out gives a sense of pride in the job because we know they wouldn't be as safe as they are if we weren't there." Also, Chief Mancusi reports there is less crime on the night before Christmas. "I can't remember any crimes of violence or burglary in our town on a Christmas Eve," he adds. "The peace on earth and good will toward men theme seems to get through to people—even the most hardened individual."

Broome Man Jailed For Rocky Threat

Gene Ray Hendrickson of Binghamton was held in jail overnight in connection with an anonymous letter threatening Gov. Rockefeller.

A State Police investigator said that Hendrickson, 22, referred to himself in the letter as a would-be assassin of Rockefeller.

He was held in lieu of bail on a charge of aggravated harassment.

The governor was told "not to try to find out the writer of the letter," police said, and "if he knew what was good for him he would not go to the police because there would be a gun trained on him at all times."

The letter also advised Rockefeller that "the best thing you could do" would be "to quit being governor and leave the United States for the rest of your life."

The letter was mailed Sept. 28. Hendrickson was arrested five days later and sent to Binghamton State Hospital for observation.

Adult Driver Course Forms Monday Night

The Adult Education Department of the Kingston City Schools is organizing a new class for Adult Driving Monday, Dec. 4, at 7 p. m. in the Vocational Building of Kingston High School.

This class will meet once a week for related instruction and once a week for actual driving instruction. No more than 16 students will be accepted for the class.

Driver Jailed

Elmer Elliot, 31, of Box 33, Boiceville, was jailed in lieu of $100 bail early this morning for driving while intoxicated. Elliot was picked up at 3:55 a. m. on Route 28, Shandaken by Troopers Robert Molloy and Richard Bergen of Lake Katrine State Police. Elliot entered a plea of innocent before Judge Robert Ferrigan of the Town of Kingston.

Warm-Up Due For State, Snow Likely Tonight

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Weather Bureau forecast a warm-up tonight in New York State, after today's frigid readings in some parts. But a mixture of freezing rain and snow appeared likely in the New York City area.

For the western half of the state and east of Lake Ontario, the bureau predicted rain, drizzle and fog tonight and partial clearing Sunday. A chance of light snow late tonight and Sunday was foreseen for the rest of the state, except for continued rain in the New York City area.

Among the lower temperatures early today were:

Opening Delayed

NEW YORK (AP) — The scheduled opening Friday night of the off-Broadway show "An Evening With Mort Sahl," was cancelled because Sahl failed to appear.

The show, at the East 74th Street Theater, had five others in the cast. Michael Brandman, producer, said the 40-year-old Sahl, after rehearsing for several weeks, did not appear for Thursday's dress rehearsal and that he was told Sahl was in California.

At the theater Friday night, 299 persons were given back their money. Said Brandman: "We have been hung up good by Sahl."

Local Death Record

Alpheus L. Shumen

Funeral services for Alpheus L. Shumen of 91 Hooker Street, who died last Saturday, were held from the Steelman Funeral Home, Honesdale, Pa., Tuesday at 2 p. m. The Rev. Reuther Will Not Attend Labor Meet

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., (AP) — United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther says he will not attend the annual convention of the AFL-CIO. As a result convention leaders are faced with the problem of how to deal with his resolution demanding "internal reforms" to make the AFL-CIO more democratic.

Reuther said Friday he would not attend the convention and asked that the resolution be withdrawn from consideration at the 14-million member organization's convention that opens next week.

No Specific Provision

But AFL-CIO sources said the organization's constitution had no specific provisions for withdrawing a resolution whose sponsor did not show up.

AFL-CIO President George Meany declined to comment on Reuther's letter informing him Reuther would not attend but told a convention of the AFL-CIO's construction unions, "I have never seen the trade union movement as busy as it is today. I have never seen so many activities that affect the welfare of the general membership."

The resolution might be shunted to a committee, the sources said, but some delegates may insist upon acting on it.

Many labor leaders wanted a showdown at the convention on Reuther's long attack on the policies and leadership of Meany.

The resolution charges that the "AFL-CIO lacks the social vision, the dynamic thrust, the crusading spirit that should characterize the progressive, modern labor movement."

After a meeting of the UAW's General Motors Council in Detroit, Reuther also announced that no strike deadline would be set against GM until after the New Year holiday.

He said Dec. 14 was picked as a target date for a new contract at GM and if no contract is reached by then the council will meet again to set a strike deadline for after the holidays. Reuther said that would allow some 380,000 UAW employes at GM to draw Christmas and New Year holiday pay before being possibly called to walk off the job.

Reuther, in the letter to Meany, asked that the auto workers' resolution be held in abeyance until top officials of the AFL-CIO and the auto workers can have a special meeting to discuss it.

Meany, in saying he had never seen so many activities affecting the welfare of the membership, added:

"In the final analysis, that is what we are in business for and it's sort of a happy coincidence that whatever we do to promote the interests of the people we represent seems to be good for most of the people of the country."

Not by Name

Meany did not mention Reuther by name in his speech but a well placed federation source said, "the General Motors negotiations gave Reuther an excuse for ducking the fight of his life."

Some other union chiefs said Reuther's decision to bypass the convention because of the auto negotiations was understandable.

Reuther, earlier this year, quit the AFL-CIO's policy-making executive council, calling it "that private club of the ancient men of labor."

The 73-year-old Meany, in a kidding mood, said he had attended his first construction union meeting 43 years ago. "So, if somebody says 'Meany is getting old and fat,' you can tell him at least that is half true; he is getting old," said the onetime plumber from the Bronx.

Assassination Hero Moves to High Position

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man President Johnson credits with shielding him from harm during the assassination of President John F. Kennedy now ranks as the Secret Service's No. 2 agent.

Promotion of Rufus W. Youngblood, 43, to the newly created post of deputy director of the service was announced Friday by Director James J. Rowley as part of an administrative overhaul.

Promoted at the same time to chief of the White House bodyguard was Clint Hill, who many observers felt saved Jacqueline Kennedy from serious injury after her husband was shot.

Johnson praised Youngblood highly after the Nov. 22, 1963 assassination. He said the agent pushed him to the floor of an open convertible in which they were raiding and used his body to shield the then-vice president from possible sniper fire.

Hill, 35, leaped on the trunk of the convertible carrying Kennedy and appeared to prevent Mrs. Kennedy—who was climbing out of the back seat onto the trunk deck—from falling from the car.

Judge Rules On Polio Shots in Dutchess Case

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — A judge has ruled that the state law requiring school children to be immunized against polio is a valid exercise of police power by the state.

Judge Raymond E. Aldrich Jr. of Dutchess County Family Court made the ruling Friday in the case of Robert Elwell, a local chiropractor.

Elwell had refused to have his five children inoculated on the ground that it would violate his religious beliefs.

Pleads Guilty In Dog Case

Frederick Carney Jr., 24, of 282 Main Street, Saugerties, was released in his own cognizance after pleading guilty to fatally shooting two beagle dogs owned by Arthur Sperl of 1 North Street, Saugerties.

Arrested by Trooper Robert Mackey of Lake Katrine State Police, Carney was arraigned before Judge Ernest Schirmer and sentencing was set for Dec. 8.

Suicide Ruled

The death of a 76-year-old Lew Beach man who was reported despondent over near total loss of his eyesight, was ruled a suicide yesterday by Dr. Louis Denman, acting coroner's physician, Livingston Manor.

State Police at Ferndale report that Frank B. Keator, of Shin Creek Road was found hanging from a rafter in a tool shed on his property in the Town of Hardenburgh, by visiting neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lawrence yesterday afternoon.

Wawarsing Name

The name of the Wawarsing parents group established to protest the construction of a private airport near the Ellenville Central School, as reported in The Freeman yesterday, is called the Parents Committee for the Safety of Our Children.

Conservatives, an organization that began operations on leftover Goldwater campaign funds and has been receiving contributions from Conservatives and conservative Republicans for the past three years.

It is rumored that Liddy was offered something in the neighborhood of $200,000 by this outside organization and that they will run the entire campaign for him, even down to the PR work.

Along with this, they have guaranteed Liddy the Conservative nomination—something which Fish can't get—and an attempt to capture the all-important Republican nod also.

Said "No"

Sillin reportedly said "no" to the UC suggestion that he run. Liddy is apparently flirting with the idea, but if he decides that the relationship might be worthwhile he may run into trouble from Dutchess and Ulster GOPers who resent the conservative organization.

UNITED CONSERVATIVES just have not united with Dutchess and Ulster Republican leaders, nor informed the home town boys of their operations, and they aren't in a position to simply command the situation.

Liddy is considered somewhat an expert on narcotics, but some GOPers believe he's too far right in his political ideas, and a Poughkeepsie attorney said that Liddy seemingly follows the Birch Society line in attacking the Warren Supreme Court along with other ring targets.

Another meeting, this in Howard St. John's suite of rooms on Wall Street at about 11:30 Wednesday night, may clear some of the air on this upcoming nomination. The boys worked quite late Wednesday.

Some thought stimulation: Brandow does not like Barry, which may not exactly be crushing if Barry has the strong backing. Barry, incidentally, has an ad agency in Poughkeepsie under the name Gindel, Barry, and Parkson Inc. Ham Fish Jr., during a press conference in Saratoga this past summer, declared that Gindel, who, along with Barry handled Fish's campaign the last time, would handle the pre-campaign work this time.

Now if Barry and Gindel are partners in the same agency and Gindel is handling the PR work for Fish and Barry is having others work for his nomination for the same slot, might not Gindel and Barry be having a rather curious relationship in that office of theirs?

Rocky Appoints Four to No-Pay Jobs in State

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Gov. Rockefeller announced these appointments to non-salaried posts today:

Walter M. Wilmshurst, Canton, to the Council of the State University Agricultural and Technical College at Canton, for a term ending July 1, 1968, succeeding Leonard A. Wood, Massena, who has resigned.

David E. Tower, Newburgh, to the Board of Trustees of Washington's Headquarters, an historic site at Newburgh, for a term ending April 1, 1971.

Colonel Frederick P. Todd, Cornwall-on-Hudson, for a term ending April 1, 1971, and Mrs. James E. Gray Sr., Newburgh, and Miss Cordelia Orlando, Newburgh, both for terms ending April 1, 1972, all reappointed to the Washington's headquarters Board.

Dr. J. E. Salsbury

CHARLES CITY, Iowa (AP) — Dr. Joseph E. Salsbury, founder and chairman of Salsbury Laboratories, an international supplier of veterinary medicines who came to the United States from England at the age of 21, died Friday at the age of 80. He began a successful career in animal medicines by selling chick vaccine to farmers. Salsbury later founded the laboratories to develop livestock and poultry medicines and made it a multimillion-dollar world-wide enterprise.

UNITED CONSERVATIVES just have not united with Dutchess and Ulster Republican leaders, nor informed the home town boys of their operations, and they aren't in a position to simply command the situation.

Liddy is considered somewhat an expert on narcotics, but some GOPers believe he's too far right in his political ideas, and a Poughkeepsie attorney said that Liddy seemingly follows the Birch Society line in attacking the Warren Supreme Court along with other ring targets.

Another meeting, this in Howard St. John's suite of rooms on Wall Street at about 11:30 Wednesday night, may clear some of the air on this upcoming nomination. The boys worked quite late Wednesday.

Some thought stimulation: Brandow does not like Barry, which may not exactly be crushing if Barry has the strong backing. Barry, incidentally, has an ad agency in Poughkeepsie under the name Gindel, Barry, and Parkson Inc. Ham Fish Jr., during a press conference in Saratoga this past summer, declared that Gindel, who, along with Barry handled Fish's campaign the last time, would handle the pre-campaign work this time.

Now if Barry and Gindel are partners in the same agency and Gindel is handling the PR work for Fish and Barry is having others work for his nomination for the same slot, might not Gindel and Barry be having a rather curious relationship in that office of theirs?

Local Death Record

Alpheus L. Shumen

Dunsmore of the Presbyterian Church of Honesdale officiated. Burial was in the Bolkom Cemetery, Rileyville, Pa., where the Rev. Mr. Dunsmore conducted the committal service. Mr. Shumen resided in Kingston for the past 18 years. Surviving are four sons, Alpheus Jr. of Red Oak Mills, Ansel and Donald of Kingston, and Harold Shumen of Tampa, Fla.; 16 grandchildren, two brothers and two sisters.

Harold Hathaway

Funeral services for Harold (Hap) Hathaway of 8 Plymouth Avenue, mathematics teacher at the J. Watson Bailey Junior High School, who died suddenly Monday at his residence, were held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock from the W. N. Conner Funeral Home, Inc., 296 Fair Street, with the Rev. Cecil L. McFarland, pastor of the Port Ewen Methodist Church, officiating. The services were largely attended. Attending the services were members of the Kingston Schools, Consolidated, Board of Education, many friends, members of the faculty of the J. Watson Baily Junior High School and the Kingston High School, former students of the Kingston High School and the J. Watson Bailey Junior High School and members of the golf and bowling team. Floral tributes were many and beautiful. Among the clergy calling at the funeral home and offering prayers were the Rev. McFarland and the Rev. Paul M. Allen of St. James Methodist Church. Among the hundreds who called at the funeral home to offer condolence to the bereaved family were members of the Board of Education, teachers at the Kingston High School and faculty members of the J. Watson Bailey Junior High School and other schools of the Kingston Consolidated school system. Burial was in Memorial Cemetery, Willsboro, where committal services were conducted Thursday by the Rev. Alberta A. Sheldon of the Willsboro Methodist Church. Bearers were Richard Mason, Tony Spiesto, Alexander Richards, Albert Bayless, Carl Garvey and Clarence Sayward.

Msgr. Richard B. Curtin. Seated within the chancel and offering prayers was the Rev. Robert D. Saccoman, assistant pastor. During the bereavement, many called and there was a profusion of floral tributes and spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards, all attesting to the high esteem in which he was held. Wednesday evening a large delegation of members of Active Hose Co. No. 1 of Rosendale called and were led in prayer by their chaplain, Father Saccoman. Also calling Wednesday evening were members of St. Peter's Holy Name Society, who were led, together with those assembled in the recitation of the Rosary and prayers for the dead by Msgr. Curtin. Also calling were many fellow employes of IBM. Calling in a body and offering prayers were the Sisters of St. Peter's School, Rosendale. Calling and offering condolences were Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan of Kingston, Mayor Joseph S. Reid, Rosendale, Town Clerk Mrs. Catherine O'Leary, Police Justice Wilfred Doolittle and Village Trustess Joseph LaFara and William Ritter. Burial took place in St. Peter's Cemetery, Rosendale, where Msgr. Curtin gave the final blessing. Bearers were Joseph Reid, Joseph LaFara, James Fay and Ivo Beatovic.

Christmas Seals

Christmas Seals have made their appearance again as they have for over 60 years to provide the needed health services of the community. Funds realized from their sale will insure the vital and effective role of the seals in tuberculosis and respiratory disease work in Ulster County.

The recent closing of the Ulster County TB Hospital and the transfer of patients to the Homer Folks TB Hospital at Oneonta does not involve the Ulster County TB Association and Christmas Seal. The Christmas Seal program will continue to provide services for Ulster County TB patients despite the distance. The concern now of the TB Association extends more effectively to the patient-hospital relationships and to the patient's family.

The Christmas Seal TB and respiratory disease program of the Ulster County TB Association continues to cooperate fully in TB work with the Department of Health and Ulster County Chest Clinic. The present Ulster County Chest Clinic has a heavier work load than ever before. There is a projected 7,700 clinic visits this year. X-ray programs in schools, industry and hospitals also are provided by Christmas Seal funds.

Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb Cr., chairman of the Ulster County Christmas Seal campaign, in stressing the need for the continuance of these health services declares no other symbol can compare to the Christmas Seal in its direct translation of dollars to action, nor in its constant effort to fight cooperatively a whole battery of chest diseases.

More than ever before, we must add our support to the traditional and hard-working Christmas Seal. The purchase of seals is a sound investment in health and success of the program depends on the people who use the seals.

Christmas Seal dollars are needed more urgently than ever before. Answer your Christmas Seal letter today.

Draft Card Phonies

Now the truth comes out, and with it the conviction that many of today's antidraft demonstrators are about as phony as a $3 bill. The Department of Justice ran a check on many who staged the disgraceful exhibition at the Pentagon recently and discovered that those who shouted the loudest about turning in their draft cards during demonstrations didn't as a matter of fact turn in bona fide cards. About a half of the 900-odd cards that were left at the Justice Department were not connected with Selective Service at all. Some were draft notices, others were registration certificates and still others were photostated copies. Among the cards turned in were a number of 4-Fers, whose owners would never be called into service.

Actually, of the thousands who turned the area around the Pentagon into a scene of wild disorder and flouting of laws for safety, only 18 cards were turned in that were legitimate. The FBI conducted a survey of a large group of persons who had turned in draft cards, etc., and it was found that a number of them reflected a history of mental disorders. Some were from college faculties and who had failed to pass mental tests.

One must wonder how many young men who are serious, albeit misguided, about their objections to Vietnam are being deluded by these phonies, and actually what percentage, in any given group of anti-war demonstrators, are really boys who are facing the draft. It is a shame to think that these latter are being used, that their cause means nothing to the phonies. Both the right to peaceful assembly and peaceful protest are inherent in the American way of life and under our laws. But that does not extend to giving agitators the right to stir up violence, such as that in Washington, and arouse the passions of those who may have some right to protest, even though they are going the wrong way about it.

It might be a good idea, next time one of these inspired demonstrations take place, for authorities to run a quick check on those draft cards that are being waved about to find out what they actually say.

William F. Buckley Jr., the conservative journalist, rejecting the theory that conservatives are the protectors of the status quo, gave his own definition. It is that Conservatism stands for the tamping down of political passions raised by dreamers and visionary politicians so that realistic and necessary changes can be made for the benefit of all.

John T. Connor, who served as President Johnson's Secretary of Commerce, says of the 1968 election, "I'm keeping my options open." It's a term he learned from the President, who likes to hear all sides and keep his options open. Now president of Allied Chemical, Connor is an independent in politics.

Henry J. Taylor Says

Politicians to Blame for Dollar Crisis

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

The four saddest words in any language are: "I told you so." It is utterly sickening to sit here and see the absolutely foreseeable dollar crisis after writing — I've no idea how many times — that Presidents Kennedy and Johnson were inevitable carrying the country into exactly what is happening.

The soundness and value of our dollar works its way into every phase of our lives and every family's future. It directly affects all wage earners, all pensions, savings, life insurance holders, retirement plans, annuities, the cost of living — we all alike face the pocketbook effect.

It is totally preposterous that the U.S. dollar should be threatened in this most productive and richest country on earth.

We're paying today, the hard way, for what President Kennedy conveniently called economic "myths," which were not myths at all, and for President Johnson's same financial irresponsibility. But what the politicians would like to say is: "Don't bring up the history."

The New Frontier-Great Society inherited a Federal debt of $283 billion. Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Johnson, both breaking every pre-election promise they ever made, have run the debt up to $340 billion.

Mr. Kennedy inherited a gold problem and changed it into a gold crises. Mr. Johnson, in turn, compounded it.

When the New Frontier-Great Society took over we held $21 billion in gold. Four days before Great Britain devalued the pound our total supply broke below $13 billion, another new 29-year low.

We held 54 per cent of the world's monetary gold stock. Today we hold less than 30 per cent.

In this period other nations' gold reserves climbed to about $28 billion by latest Federal Reserve Board figures. And their additional dollar balances, convertible into our gold, climbed from $13.8 billion to $29 billion. The outside world now holds more than $5 billion in gold and dollars —nearly twice as much as 10 years ago.

Thus we have suffered not only an absolute loss of gold but also a pro-rata share of the world's gold. Both these loses are larger than those of any other major nation. Most others have achieved both an absolute and proportionate increase.

As a result, the United States simply does not command the same pre-eminence in world finance that we did before the New Frontier-Great Society took over.

Our balance-of-payments problem is only part of the gold crisis story. At best, a favorable balance of trade (which we have) can only reduce the means by which foreign creditors gain the right to convert dollars into gold. They would not exercise that right, even after Britain's devaluation, if they trusted our financial trend. They would buy dollars — not sell them — the same process which for generations has made the mighty American dollar the best and most-sought-after currency in the world.

But while our political spenders continued their debt-building and overspending here and abroad, the world's cold appraisal saw — and sees — us trapped in the backwash of ever-mounting deficits, pork-barrel politics, juggled books and endless debt-ceiling increases — all backed up by double-talk about "myths" and now by the outpourings for the third largest war in our history.

On February 9, 1965, the Senate Banking and Currency Committee invited me to testify on the gold problem. Even though this was nearly three years ago, foreign-owned dollars convertible into our gold were already about twice our entire supply, including the amount legally required behind our money. President Johnson proposed to drop the legal minimum by $5 billion.

I contended that this $5 billion, too, would go with the wind unless Mr. Johnson stopped breaking his budget promises, quit juggling the books and put our financial house in order, and that nothing short of this could save us from exactly what we are seeing today.

The White House Treasury officials shouted this down as being alarmist and insisted the additional $5 billion would cure the gold crisis.

Politics came first — and here we are today.

We should clearly understand that the self-serving politicians themselves are to blame, and should be held accountable. In simple justice, a bamboozled public should blow the whistle on the Washington Robin Hoods of the Red Ink and not let them duck the blame.

Know-All Critics Spouting 'Truths' Dwell in Unreality

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In war and politics, both the "inside" strategists and the influential outsiders regularly fall into disagreement. Criticisms of policy and action flow in a constant stream.

No one in this capital who genuinely believes in a free exchange thinks it should be otherwise, or that it is likely to be. But lately you can find some figures of influence here (and not just in the Johnson administration) who think that criticism as a function of democratic process is often misunderstood by those who voice it and misread by those who hear about it.

In internal strategy-making, some complaint is heard against those in key places who merely mutter their criticisms (not wanting to be heard by top officials) and seldom if ever offer alternatives.

Yet, to judge from the comments of some insiders this reporter encounters in various fields, there is more irritation over the internal critic who loudly tries to give his counter-argument the force of proven fact.

Military and diplomatic types may contend that if the United States does some five particular things the war in Vietnam could be successfully concluded in six months to a year. Some may argue that if two particular things had been done in 1966 or 1967, the conflict would be much advanced and might now be over.

Within the camps of the candidates for next year's presidential nominations, some may assert that Gov. George Romney of Michigan would today be riding high if he had taken their suggested specific steps and avoided others—or that Richard Nixon would have the whole thing wrapped up if he had stayed home instead of traveling 85,000 miles over four continents.

The trouble with this brand of what might be called categorical criticism is that too frequently both the critics and their sympatheic listeners inside and outside invest it with a status beyond its worth.

To take an example from the public domain, Britain's World War II hero, General Montgomery, wrote a book years afterward saying that war could have been ended six months earlier if his advice on strategy had been taken.

Possibly, but possibly not. In the nature of things there is absolutely no way to prove or disprove his argument. Anyone who thereafter contended that Gen. Eisenhower and other strategists had "delayed the conclusion of the war by six months" would be talking rubbish.

The library shelves today are loaded with detailed, intimate histories which reveal the tremendous in-fighting among top U. S., British and other strategists over key World War II decisions. Choices not made can never be made.

To a much-more-limited degree, and mostly within the confines of this country's own effort, the same disputes flared in the Korean war and are raging internally over Vietnam.

Inescapably, however, many of the decisions and categorical criticisms now being laid down over Vietnam will never be accurately appraised because no one will be able to gauge truly their exact contribution to the final result—good or bad.

Similarly, if Richard Nixon should win the GOP nomination next year, who will really be able to say what part was played by each of 100 or so key internal choices made by his strategists? Or what would have happened if opposite choices had been made in 50 of those instances?

War and politics are trial-and-error enterpirses. Generals and politicians tend to muddle through to victory or defeat. The man who "knows" the consequence of every action taken or not taken in such complex endeavors lives in a private, unreal world.

Drew Pearson Says

Sen. McCarthy's Declaration No Surprise to White House

The most important shake-up in the Johnson administration came this week when Robert S. McNamara resigned as Secretary of Defense. It was a surprise to most of the American public.

However, as early as Sept. 8 this year, Drew Pearson had warned of the battle over McNamara inside the Cabinet.

"Biggest backstage debate in Washington is whether Secretary of Defense Bob McNamara will resign," he reported. "The top brass in the Pentagon and the Pacific have been doing their best to goad him into submitting his resignation."

Pearson devoted the entire column of the story of the forces working against McNamara. He concluded: "President Johnson. . . goes out of his way to praise McNamara. . . . However, in policy matters he has frequently accepted the judgement of his generals and admirals, and as a result the battle between the military and the civilian chiefs of the Pentagon goes on."

* * *

WASHINGTON—Sen. Eugene McCarthy's official announcement that he will run for President as a Democrat in opposcition to the Democrat now in the White House did not take the latter by surprise.

President Johnson has known Gene McCarthy well. They served together in the Senate, and at one time there were some talks which led McCarthy to believe he would be the Vice Presidential running mate on the 1964 Johnson ticket.

McCarthy, thinking the lightning would strike, even rented a headquarters for himself in Atlantic City. And today, according to friends, he is bitter at the man who, he thinks, took him up on the mountain to the Vice Presidency, then pushed him off into the Atlantic City breakers.

Impartial observers who watched that pre-Atlantic City maneuvering believed McCarthy had no reason to expect the lightning to strike. They knew that Hubert Humphrey, the senior Minnesota Senator had been tabbed for the second place.

Despite this, it remains a fact that Gene McCarthy today is bitter. This is one factor behind his race.

The frame of mind of a President who is challenged for reelection by a member of his own party is as interesting as it was 20 years ago when Harry S. Truman found himself in the same position. In 1948 Harold Ickes was maneuvering to unseat Truman. Jimmy Roosevelt joined in the search for a suitable candidate. So did the late Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York. Their chief goal was to persuade Dwight D. Eisenhower, then president of Columbia University, that he should run against Truman as a Democrat. Harry Truman, watching their efforts, was not pleased. He is also skeptical regarding McCarthy's real backers. The McCarthy campaign, he suspects, is actually a front-runner maneuver by Bobby Kennedy to soften up Johnson for a later political kill.

Recalling Theodore White's book, "The Making of the President," President Johnson speculated that Kennedy and McCarthy would like the next book to be called "The Unmaking of the President."

All sorts of political rumors have been brought to the White House regarding the suspected Kennedy-McCarthy axis, and here are some of them which have kept the political pot boiling.

White House Rumors

1. White House aide John Roche, the intellectual-in-residence, has reported to the President that Kennedy and McCarthy were seen with their heads together on Capitol Hill. Their huddle lasted a good longer than it takes to say hello.

2. Sen. McCarthy, a former college professor of modest means, appears singularly unconcerned about the estimated $2 million that the Presidential race will cost him. The President can't help wondering whether McCarthy is relying more upon Kennedy's than his own credit rating.

3. Kennedy and McCarthy, both Irish Catholics, are tied by a religious bond. This, of course, didn't prevent McCarthy in 1960 from opposing the late John F. Kennedy's nomination—a political error that was later forgiven.

A Tired Liberal

Other insiders insist McCarthy has national ambitions of his own and saw the opportunity to take political advantage of Johnson's unpopularity.

McCarthy has also complained privately that the President has shown no interest in his views and has consulted him less than half a dozen times since moving into the White House.

This complaint got back to LJB, who told friends plaintively that he had invited McCarthy to the White House "frequently" and had listened to his views on Vietnam as long as 90 minutes to two hours.

As a young Congressman in the 1950s, the gracefully handsome McCarthy was a crusading liberal. But after his election to the Senate in 1958, he seemed to lose his zeal. He changed into a sophisticated cynic, wise and witty.

Intimates say he was taken into camp by the late Robert S. Kerr, oil millionaire, uranium king, cattle baron and Senator from Oklahoma, who worked his will in the Senate with the finesse of one of his prize bulls. Kerr taught McCarthy, as a member of the Senate Finance Committee, that it was sometimes more practical to go along with the special interests than to crusade against them.

Compromising his convictions was harder for Gene McCarthy than it is for most politicians. But he found campaign contributions easier to raise, he began to take vacations at Las Vegas and Lake Tahoe. The Senator told this column that he has been to Nevada only twice in recent years, once in 1960 as the guest of Senator Alan Bible, the second time in 1964 to campaign for Senator Howard Cannon. On the latter trip, he acknowledged, one of the hotels had taken him on a boat cruise on nearby Lake Mead. Life for a liberal conservative became much pleasanter than the life of an all-out liberal.

Yet there remains a shadow of the old crusader in McCarthy. In fighting for his convictiont on Vietnam, the crusader may emerge again. The question is: Will Gene lead the peace movement instead of letting the peace movement lead him?

The World Today

LBJ Gets Taste of Next Year's Election Ferment

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson is just beginning to get a taste of the fever of the 1968 presidential election year. To nobody's surprise, he is being very impassive about it. It would be bad politics to be otherwise.

The confusion over Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's departure from the Pentagon to be president of the World Bank had just begun to quiet down when Johnson's fellow Democrat, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, became his rival for the White House.

Also to nobody's surprise, since he had been murmuring about it for weeks, McCarthy announced he will enter at least four presidential primaries in 1968 with the war in Vietnam his main theme.

He said there is so much dissatisfaction over the war "there is a good possibility" Johnson will be denied renomination.

At this point it is not likely many people, including McCarthy, think he has a chance to get the nomination away from Johnson although, if he can generate enough heat, somebody else might.

As he said: "If not me, then someone else."

But Johnson's reaction when he expresses it to those not close to him is a political cliche: that discussion is good for the country. To put it another way, he's not saying anything for publication at this time.

Big Difference

Just starting out there is a big difference between McCarthy and Johnson on the war.

McCarthy says he is not for peace at any price but for an honorable, rational and political solution to the war, which is about as vague as anybody can be, while suggesting a phased, scheduled withdrawal of U. S. forces.

Johnson, on the other hand, brims with confidence that the war has never been going better than now, that the North Vietnamese losses are putting terrible pressure on them, and that the pressure will continue.

McCarthy says he hopes his candidacy will lead Johnson to alter his Vietnam policy. He may think so, but Johnson himself shows not the slightest indication of it. And at this moment it is almost impossible to think he will.

If anything, he may make the war tougher but still not go as far the all-out view expressed this week by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in a television interview.

There is a good reason for keeping some kind of leash on the fighting. For one thing, this country does not know whether North Vietnam has secret agreements with the Soviet Union and Red China requiring them to enter the war if the United States went as far as Eisenhower advocated.

In his statement explaining McNamara's leaving the Defense Department, Johnson, speaking of the war in Vietnam, said "our major defense policies are clearly defined."

Counter Speculation

A White house source said it would be fair to assume that the President's aim in saying that was to counter speculation that McNamara's departure might lead to a harder war line in Vietnam.

Maybe. If in the next few months the line got a lot harder the same White House source could say what Johnson said about "our major defense policies" being clearly defined were right when he said it in November but that new decisions were made later.

Johnson's praise of McNamara's service as secretary of defense has been of the highest order in public and even more lavish in private conversation. But if the relationship between the two men was excellent, one question still has not been answered:

McNamara told Johnson a couple to times, the last time in October, he'd like the job of president of the World Bank if the President didn't object to his going. Johnson, so far as is known, never discussed it with him again but recommended him for the job without directly telling McNamara who found out later from other sources that this had been done.

In Dog's Defense

Editor, The Freeman

Much has been written for and against dogs, but as a whole, dogs are pretty much what their owners allow or train them to be. Dogs are not born mean or vicious. When they are that way, unfortunate circumstances have caused it, and they are not intentionally destructive. When your neighbor's dog digs up your newly planted rose bush, it is not because he is a bad dog, it is because the neighbor has not trained him to stay on his own property, or does not keep him confined there. So it is the adult of the neighbor, not the dog. As much as I like dogs and cats too, I can heartily sympathize with any one who objects to the neighborhood dogs congregating on his lawn to take care of their toiletries, for where one goes, more are sure to follow. Again it is the fault of the dog's owners, and City officials who do not enforce the New York State licensing laws, so that the owners can be identified.

The ideal way to keep your dog from becoming a nuisance and annoyance to the folks next door is to fence a part of your yard for him, and keep him there. All dogs need exercise and will get more of it in a fenced in area than he will on a chain, or even a trolley, consisting of a wire strung from one tree or building to another, with a ring on it, so that the dog may go to the length of the wire. That arrangement is far superior to having him tied to a dog house or kennel where his chain or rope often gets so tangled that he cannot reach the shelter of the dog house. Your dog should never be tied out while wearing a so-called choke or training collar. He can do just that while you are not looking—choke himself. So if you must tie him, be sure that he is wearing a plain leather collar. I have always felt if anyone is really fond of his dog, he will find a place indoors for him at night. Especially during the cold weather. Some people feel that hunting dogs should be kept outside all the time. Allowing them to have a heated place in which to sleep, does not affect the hunting ability of the dog in any way. I often wonder how anyone can get under their own electric blanket, when the little beagle is out in a coop in sub-zero weather. You can be very sure that he is most uncomfortable there.

Christmas Seals

Christmas Seals have made their appearance again as they have for over 60 years to provide the needed health services of the community. Funds realized from their sale will insure the vital and effective role of the seals in tuberculosis and respiratory disease work in Ulster County.

The recent closing of the Ulster County TB Hospital and the transfer of patients to the Homer Folks TB Hospital at Oneonta does not involve the Ulster County TB Association and Christmas Seal. The Christmas Seal program will continue to provide services for Ulster County TB patients despite the distance. The concern now of the TB Association extends more effectively to the patient-hospital relationships and to the patient's family.

The Christmas Seal TB and respiratory disease program of the Ulster County TB Association continues to cooperate fully in TB work with the Department of Health and Ulster County Chest Clinic. The present Ulster County Chest Clinic has a heavier work load than ever before. There is a projected 7,700 clinic visits this year. X-ray programs in schools, industry and hospitals also are provided by Christmas Seal funds.

Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb Cr., chairman of the Ulster County Christmas Seal campaign, in stressing the need for the continuance of these health services declares no other symbol can compare to the Christmas Seal in its direct translation of dollars to action, nor in its constant effort to fight cooperatively a whole battery of chest diseases.

More than ever before, we must add our support to the traditional and hard-working Christmas Seal. The purchase of seals is a sound investment in health and success of the program depends on the people who use the seals.

Christmas Seal dollars are needed more urgently than ever before. Answer your Christmas Seal letter today.

Draft Card Phonies

Now the truth comes out, and with it the conviction that many of today's antidraft demonstrators are about as phony as a $3 bill. The Department of Justice ran a check on many who staged the disgraceful exhibition at the Pentagon recently and discovered that those who shouted the loudest about turning in their draft cards during demonstrations didn't as a matter of fact turn in bona fide cards. About a half of the 900-odd cards that were left at the Justice Department were not connected with Selective Service at all. Some were draft notices, others were registration certificates and still others were photostated copies. Among the cards turned in were a number of 4-Fers, whose owners would never be called into service.

Actually, of the thousands who turned the area around the Pentagon into a scene of wild disorder and flouting of laws for safety, only 18 cards were turned in that were legitimate. The FBI conducted a survey of a large group of persons who had turned in draft cards, etc., and it was found that a number of them reflected a history of mental disorders. Some were from college faculties and who had failed to pass mental tests.

One must wonder how many young men who are serious, albeit misguided, about their objections to Vietnam are being deluded by these phonies, and actually what percentage, in any given group of anti-war demonstrators, are really boys who are facing the draft. It is a shame to think that these latter are being used, that their cause means nothing to the phonies. Both the right to peaceful assembly and peaceful protest are inherent in the American way of life and under our laws. But that does not extend to giving agitators the right to stir up violence, such as that in Washington, and arouse the passions of those who may have some right to protest, even though they are going the wrong way about it.

It might be a good idea, next time one of these inspired demonstrations take place, for authorities to run a quick check on those draft cards that are being waved about to find out what they actually say.

William F. Buckley Jr., the conservative journalist, rejecting the theory that conservatives are the protectors of the status quo, gave his own definition. It is that Conservatism stands for the tamping down of political passions raised by dreamers and visionary politicians so that realistic and necessary changes can be made for the benefit of all.

John T. Connor, who served as President Johnson's Secretary of Commerce, says of the 1968 election, "I'm keeping my options open." It's a term he learned from the President, who likes to hear all sides and keep his options open. Now president of Allied Chemical, Connor is an independent in politics.

Henry J. Taylor Says

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

The four saddest words in any language are: "I told you so." It is utterly sickening to sit here and see the absolutely foreseeable dollar crisis after writing — I've no idea how many times — that Presidents Kennedy and Johnson were inevitable carrying the country into exactly what is happening.

The soununess and value of our dollar works its way into every phase of our lives and every family's future. It directly affects all wage earners, all pensions, savings, life insurance holders, retirement plans, annuities, the cost of living — we all alike face the pocketbook effect.

It is totally preposterous that the U.S. dollar should be threatened in this most productive and richest country on earth.

We're paying today, the hard way, for what President Kennedy conveniently called economic "myths," which were not myths at all, and for President Johnson's same financial irresponsibility. But what the politicians would like to say is: "Don't bring up the history."

The New Frontier-Great Society inherited a Federal debt of $283 billion. Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Johnson, both breaking every pre-election promise they ever made, have run the debt up to $340 billion.

Mr. Kennedy inherited a gold problem and changed it into a gold crises. Mr. Johnson, in turn, compounded it.

When the New Frontier-Great Society took over we held $21 billion in gold. Four days before Great Britain devalued the pound our total supply broke below $13 billion, another new 29-year low.

We held 54 per cent of the world's monetary gold stock. Today we hold less than 30 per cent.

In this period other nations' gold reserves climbed to about $28 billion by latest Federal Reserve Board figures. And their additional dollar balances, convertible into our gold, climbed from $13.8 billion, to $29 billion. The outside world now holds more than $5 billion in gold and dollars —nearly twice as much as 10 years ago.

Thus we have suffered not only an absolute loss of gold but also a pro-rata share of the world's gold. Both these loses are larger than those of any other major nation. Most others have achieved both an absolute and proportionate increase.

As a result, the United States simply does not command the same pre-eminence in world finance that we did before the New Frontier-Great Society took over.

Our balance-of-payments problem is only part of the gold crisis story. At best, a favorable balance of trade (which we have) can only reduce the means by which foreign creditors gain the right to convert dollars into gold. They would not exercise that right, even after Britain's devaluation, if they trusted our financial trend. They would buy dollars — not sell them — the same process which for generations has made the mighty American dollar the best and most-sought-after currency in the world.

But while our political spenders continued their debt-building and overspending here and abroad, the world's cold appraisal saw — and sees — us trapped in the backwash of ever-mounting deficits, pork-barrel politics, juggled books and endless debt-ceiling increases — all backed up by double-talk about "myths" and now by the outpourings for the third largest war in our history.

On February 9, 1965, the Senate Banking and Currency Committee invited me to testify on the gold problem. Even though this was nearly three years ago, foreign-owned dollars convertible into our gold were already about twice our entire supply, including the amount legally required behind our money. President Johnson proposed to drop the legal minimum by $5 billion.

I contended that this $5 billion, too, would go with the wind unless Mr. Johnson stopped breaking his budget promises, quit juggling the books and put our financial house in order, and that nothing short of this could save us from exactly what we are seeing today.

The White House Treasury officials shouted this down as being alarmist and insisted the additional $5 billion would cure the gold crisis.

Politics came first — and here we are today.

We should clearly understand that the self-serving politicians themselves are to blame, and should be held accountable. In simple justice, a bamboozled public should blow the whistle on the Washington Robin Hoods of the Red Ink and not let them duck the blame.

Know-All Critics Spouting 'Truths' Dwell in Unreality

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In war and politics, both the "inside" strategists and the influential outsiders regularly fall into disagreement. Criticisms of policy and action flow in a constant stream.

No one in this capital who genuinely believes in a free exchange thinks it should be otherwise, or that it is likely to be. But lately you can find some figures of influence here (and not just in the Johnson administration) who think that criticism as a function of democratic process is often misunderstood by those who voice it and misread by those who hear about it.

In internal strategy-making, some complaint is heard against those in key places who merely mutter their criticisms (not wanting to be heard by top officials) and seldom if ever offer alternatives.

Yet, to judge from the comments of some insiders this reporter encounters in various fields, there is more irritation over the internal critic who loudly tries to give his counter-argument the force of proven fact.

Military and diplomatic types may contend that if the United States does some five particular things the war in Vietnam could be successfully concluded in six months to a year. Some may argue that if two particular things had been done in 1966 or 1967, the conflict would be much advanced and might now be over.

Within the camps of the candidates for next year's presidential nominations, some may assert that Gov. George Romney of Michigan would today be riding high if he had taken their suggested specific steps and avoided others—or that Richard Nixon would have the whole thing wrapped up if he had stayed home instead of traveling 85,000 miles over four continents.

The trouble with this brand of what might be called categorical criticism is that too frequently both the critics and their sympatheic listeners inside and outside invest it with a status beyond its worth.

To take an example from the public domain, Britain's World War II hero, General Montgomery, wrote a book years afterward saying that war could have been ended six months earlier if his advice on strategy had been taken.

Possibly, but possibly not. In the nature of things there is absolutely no way to prove or disprove his argument. Anyone who thereafter contended that Gen. Eisenhower and other strategists had "delayed the conclusion of the war by six months" would be talking rubbish.

The library shelves today are loaded with detailed, intimate histories which reveal the tremendous in-fighting among top U. S., British and other strategists over key World War II decisions. Choices not made can never be made.

To a much-more-limited degree, and mostly within the confines of this country's own effort, the same disputes flared in the Korean war and are raging internally over Vietnam.

Inescapably, however, many of the decisions and categorical criticisms now being laid down over Vietnam will never be accurately appraised because no one will be able to gauge truly their exact contribution to the final result—good or bad.

Similarly, if Richard Nixon should win the GOP nomination next year, who will really be able to say what part was played by each of 100 or so key internal choices made by his strategists? Or what would have happened if opposite choices had been made in 50 of those instances?

War and politics are trial-and-error enterpirses. Generals and politicians tend to muddle through to victory or defeat. The man who "knows" the consequence of every action taken or not taken in such complex endeavors lives in a private, unreal world.

Drew Pearson Says

Sen. McCarthy's Declaration No Surprise to White House

The most important shake-up in the Johnson administration came this week when Robert S. McNamara resigned as Secretary of Defense. It was a surprise to most of the American public.

However, as early as Sept. 8 this year, Drew Pearson had warned of the battle over McNamara inside the Cabinet.

"Biggest backstage debate in Washington is whether Secretary of Defense Bob McNamara will resign," he reported. "The top brass in the Pentagon and the Pacific have been doing their best to goad him into submitting his resignation."

Pearson devoted the entire column of the story of the forces working against McNamara. He concluded: "President Johnson. . . goes out of his way to praise McNamara. . . . However, in policy matters he has frequently accepted the judgement of his generals and admirals, and as a result the battle between the military and the civilian chiefs of the Pentagon goes on."

* * *

WASHINGTON—Sen. Eugene McCarthy's official announcement that he will run for President as a Democrat in opposcition to the Democrat now in the White House did not take the latter by surprise.

President Johnson has known Gene McCarthy well. They served together in the Senate, and at one time there were some talks which led McCarthy to believe he would be the Vice Presidential running mate on the 1964 Johnson ticket.

McCarthy, thinking the lightning would strike, even rented a headquarters for himself in Atlantic City. And today, according to friends, he is bitter at the man who, he thinks, took him up on the mountain to the Vice Presidency, then pushed him off into the Atlantic City breakers.

Impartial observers who watched that pre-Atlantic City maneuvering believed McCarthy had no reason to expect the lightning to strike. They knew that Hubert Humphrey, the senior Minnesota Senator had been tabbed for the second place.

Despite this, it remains a fact that Gene McCarthy today is bitter. This is one factor behind his race.

The frame of mind of a President who is challenged for reelection by a member of his own party is as interesting toaday as it was 20 years ago when Harry S. Truman found himself in the same position. In 1948 Harold Ickes was maneuvering to unseat Truman. Jimmy Roosevelt joined in the search for a suitable candidate. So did the late Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York. Their chief goal was to persuade Dwight D. Eisenhower, then president of Columbia University, that he should run against Truman as a Democrat. Harry Truman, watching their efforts, was not pleased. He is also skeptical regarding McCarthy's real backers. The McCarthy campaign, he suspects, is actually a front-runner maneuver by Bobby Kennedy to soften up Johnson for a later political kill.

Recalling Theodore White's book, "The Making of the President," President Johnson speculated that Kennedy and McCarthy would like the next book to be called "The Unmaking of the President."

All sorts of political rumors have been brought to the White House regarding the suspected Kennedy-McCarthy axis, and here are some of them which have kept the political pot boiling.

White House Rumors

1. White House aide John Roche, the intellectual-in-residence, has reported to the President that Kennedy and McCarthy were seen with their heads together on Capitol Hill. Their huddle lasted a good longer than it takes to say hello.

2. Sen. McCarthy, a former college professor of modest means, appears singularly unconcerned about the estimated $2 million that the Presidential race will cost him. The President can't help wondering whether McCarthy is relying more upon Kennedy's than his own credit rating.

3. Kennedy and McCarthy, both Irish Catholics, are tied by a religious bond. This, of course, didn't prevent McCarthy in 1960 from opposing the late John F. Kennedy's nomination—a political error that was later forgiven.

A Tired Liberal

Other insiders insist McCarthy has national ambitions of his own and saw the opportunity to take political advantage of Johnson's unpopularity.

McCarthy has also complained privately that the President has shown no interest in his views and has consulted him less than half a dozen times since moving into the White House.

This complaint got back to LJB, who told friends plaintively that he had invited McCarthy to the White House "frequently" and had listened to his views on Vietnam as long as 90 minutes to two hours.

As a young Congressman in the 1950s, the gracefully handsome McCarthy was a crusading liberal. But after his election to the Senate in 1958, he seemed to lose his zeal. He changed into a sophisticated cynic, wise and witty.

Intimates say he was taken into camp by the late Robert S. Kerr, oil millionaire, uranium king, cattle baron and Senator from Oklahoma, who worked his will in the Senate with the finesse of one of his prize bulls. Kerr taught McCarthy, as a member of the Senate Finance Committee, that it was sometimes more practical to go along with the special interests than to crusade against them.

Compromising his convictions was harder for Gene McCarthy than it is for most politicians. But he found campaign contributions easier to raise, he began to take vacations at Las Vegas and Lake Tahoe. The Senator told this column that he has been to Nevada only twice in recent years, once in 1960 as the guest of Senator Alan Bible, the second time in 1964 to campaign for Senator Howard Cannon. On the latter trip, he acknowledged, one of the hotels had taken him on a boat cruise on nearby Lake Mead. Life for a liberal conservative became much pleasanter than the life of an all-out liberal.

Yet there remains a shadow of the old crusader in McCarthy. In fighting for his convictiont on Vietnam, the crusader may emerge again. The question is: Will Gene lead the peace movement instead of letting the peace movement lead him?

The World Today

LBJ Gets Taste of Next Year's Election Ferment

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson is just beginning to get a taste of the fever of the 1968 presidential election year. To nobody's surprise, he is being very impassive about it. It would be bad politics to be otherwise.

The confusion over Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's departure from the Pentagon to be president of the World Bank had just begun to quiet down when Johnson's fellow Democrat, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, became his rival for the White House.

Also to nobody's surprise, since he had been murmuring about it for weeks, McCarthy announced he will enter at least four presidential primaries in 1968 with the war in Vietnam his main theme.

He said there is so much dissatisfaction over the war "there is a good possibility" Johnson will be denied renomination.

At this point it is not likely many people, including McCarthy, think he has a chance to get the nomination away from Johnson although, if he can generate enough heat, somebody else might.

As he said: "If not me, then someone else."

But Johnson's reaction when he expresses it to those not close to him is a political cliche: that discussion is good for the country. To put it another way, he's not saying anything for publication at this time.

Big Difference

Just starting out there is a big difference between McCarthy and Johnson on the war.

McCarthy says he is not for peace at any price but for an honorable, rational and political solution to the war, which is about as vague as anybody can be, while suggesting a phased, scheduled withdrawal of U. S. forces.

Johnson, on the other hand, brims with confidence that the war has never been going better than now, that the North Vietnamese losses are putting terrible pressure on them, and that the pressure will continue.

McCarthy says he hopes his candidacy will lead Johnson to alter his Vietnam policy. He may think so, but Johnson himself shows not the slightest indication of it. And at this moment it is almost impossible to think he will.

If anything, he may make the war tougher but still not go as far the all-out view expressed this week by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in a television interview.

There is a good reason for keeping some kind of leash on the fighting. For one thing, this country does not know whether North Vietnam has secret agreements with the Soviet Union and Red China requiring them to enter the war if the United States went as far as Eisenhower advocated.

In his statement explaining McNamara's leaving the Defense Department, Johnson, speaking of the war in Vietnam, said "our major defense policies are clearly defined."

Counter Speculation

A White house source said it would be fair to assume that the President's aim in saying that was to counter speculation that McNamara's departure might lead to a harder war line in Vietnam.

Maybe. If in the next few months the line got a lot harder the same White House source could say what Johnson said about "our major defense policies" being clearly defined were right when he said it in November but that new decisions were made later.

Johnson's praise of McNamara's service as secretary of defense has been of the highest order in public and even more lavish in private conversation. But if the relationship between the two men was excellent, one question still has not been answered:

McNamara told Johnson a couple to times, the last time in October, he'd like the job of president of the World Bank if the President didn't object to his going. Johnson, so far as is known, never discussed it with him again but reccommended him for the job without directly telling McNamara who found out later from other sources that this had been done.

Miracle Among Children

CHICAGO (AP) — For dozens of Negro children in a deteriorating South Side neighborhood, report card day means a visit to Mr. T's record shop.

Mr. T is Max Tannenbaum, 48, a white shopkeeper who has worked what he calls "a small miracle" among the children of the area. He has induced previously uninterested, unmotivated boys and girls to compete for good grades.

A jolly, talkative man with thinning hair and a ready smile, Mr. T began about a year ago rewarding good report cards with free records.

It all started when he saw the report card of a 15-year-old boy —"a sharp kid"—who was listening to records in his shop.

It contained mostly U's and F's (unsatisfactory or failing).

"Tell you what," Mr. T told the boy, "Next time get all E's and I'll give you $5 worth of records. You pick 'em out. Is that a deal?"

It was. Ten weeks later the boy brought in a new report card. It showed straight E's (excellent).

So Mr. T put signs in each of the 18 apartment buildings on his block announcing that he would give free records for the eight best report cards brought in next marking day.

"Ever since," he said, "kids have been coming in and saying, 'Gee, I'm studying hard so I can win some records next time.'"

"The parents come in, too," he added. "They're surpsied to see the kids doing their homework and bringing home good test papers."

Stone Ridge

STONE RIDGE — Rondout Valley Methodist Church, the Rev. Bruce Carlson, Pastor, will have a family night and covered dish supper Friday in the church hall, starting at 6 p.m. Following the supper a brief program will be based on helping families make Advent a time of increased religious significance. Mrs. Daniel Rose will demonstrate how to make Advent wreaths. The materials for making the wreaths will be available for families to home. Also worship aids for use during Advent will be distributed. Monday, Dec. 4, the building committee will meet at the church at 7:30 p.m. The WSCS budget committee and program committee will meet at the home of Mrs. Jack VanNewkirk at 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 8. The decorating bee will meet in the church at 8 p.m. for the decorating of the sanctuary during Advent. Tuesday, Dec. 12, WSCS Christmas meeting at 8 p.m. in the church hall.

Mrs. Pearl Hodge, Mrs. Emma Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Neff called on Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Bogart and family recently.

Mrs. Anna Schoonmaker returned to her home last week from the Benedictine Hospital.

Misses Lillian Bogart and Helen Hart spent several days last week with their parents.

Major and Mrs. William R. Osterhoudt and family of Plattsburgh spent the holiday weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Ross K. Osterhoudt.

Mr. and Mrs. Berton Delamater and family have moved from Hurley to their recently purchased home in Stone Ridge.

Held in Shooting

LACKAWANNA, N.Y. (AP) — A 24-year-old steel worker was held for arraignment today on a murder charge in the shooting of a foreman Thursday night at the huge Bethlehem Steel Co. plant here.

Detectives said Tommie L. Moore of nearby Buffalo surrendered at a police station there Friday night. He was brought here to await the court action.

The foreman, Charles O. Maneemeit, 59, of Lackawanna, was struck in the left side, shoulder and elbow by three bullets from a .32 caliber revolver, police said. The shooting occurred in his office in the plant's coke department.

Boy, 8, Drowns

SENECA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — An 8-year-old boy drowned Friday after he broke through ice coating Sucker Brook while playing with three friends.

Police said Normond O'Marah of this Finger Lakes village and the others were sliding on the ice when he and robert Claus, 9, fell into the five-foot-deep brook.

The Claus boy was able to grab hold of a low-hanging bridge and was rescused but Normond disappeared beneath the ice, they said. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. O'Marah.

The family lives at 156 W. Bayard St.

Berlin Band Will Perform at RVCS

The Berlin High School Band, under the direction of Ole Christensen, will appear at the Rondout Valley Central High School Band's annual Fall-Winter Concert. Lee Herrington, director of instrumental music in the Rondout Valley School System, promises a very interesting concert. The program will start at 8 o'clock this evening in the Rondout Valley High School Auditorium.

The visiting Berlin Band will begin the program, followed by the Rondout Junior and Senior Concert Bands. Selections will be varied and there will be something of interest for all tastes. Heard will be serious numbers like "Suite in F" by G. Holst, "Festive Overture" by Shostakovich, and Movements from the "Pathetique (6th) Symphony" by Tschaikowsky. On the lighter side will be Themes from "Dr. Zhivago" and "The Music Man," and "Clarinet Escapades." Several marches will also be performed for the march lover.

Tickets for the musical event may be obtained from any Rondout Band member or at the door.

The Country Wife

We all know about the first Thanksgiving. How, after a long hard year, when half of the little company at Plymouth died and were buried in the new land, the harvest was finally gathered in. They had had so much to learn. The savages were surprisingly friendly and — wonder of wonders — the first one they met spoke a few words of English. It was Massasoit, who had been taken to London a few years back and returned to his native land. The Indians showed them where the caches of corn were hidden, how to grind it, how to bake it into a sort of bread, palatable enough but strange. The settlers learned to eat the animals of the forest, the deer, the wild turkey, the pheasant, the hare; they had brought the wrong kind of fishhooks but after a while they could catch the fish that abounded. On a mild day in February, thinking that spring had come, they planted the seeds they had brought with them from Holland. It was not spring and the seeds froze.

But at last the winter was over and they made a crop: their own corn, squash, beans. They dried meat for the coming winter. They had, for the first time, more provisions than they needed. So they made a feast of thanksgiving. It lasted for three days and the Indians joined them in eating and rejoicing. God, it seemed, after a year of trials, had finally smiled on them. And then came the morning after.

On the horizon a sail! Nearer the ship came and nearer. They gathered on the shore to watch. She was making for their own landing. A small boat put out and when it was anchored, from it stepped some of their own countrymen who told them the news. On the ship were a hundred men, come to join the settlement!

enough. Instead of a winter of comfort, there would be another winter of privation. After nearly 350 years, we can try to imagine that winter.

This sort of thing happens often enough. We endure trials that seemed unendurable. Relief comes, we breathe easier, the world looks bright again. And then comes another blow. I am thinking of a dear friend of ours. Last summer he was frighteningly ill, but after a couple of weeks in the hospital, he recovered. Everything, it seemed, was all right. Now, without warning, he is ill again, fatally so.

The Pilgrims were more fortunate. They survived their trials, as all of us are now witnessing. But for a while it must have been hard going.

One may wonder what were the feelings of Governor Bradford and Captain Standish. It was not a question of hospitality. The new land did not belong to them, although they had established a right to it by their labor and the graves of their dead.

Mrs. Valeo Receives Hospital Appointment

MRS. GUY VALEO

Sister Mary Charles, administrator of the Benedictine Hospital, announces the appointment of Mrs. Guy Valeo as director of volunteers. The position represents an addition to the hospital's administrative organization of department heads and develops from the ever increasing need for unpaid contributed services within the hospital to supplement the work of the trained paid personnel.

Mrs. Valeo, a volunteer worker for many years at the Benedictine, has had close contact with the auxiliary. She was past president of the auxiliary.

The new director's objective will be to organize and direct the work of volunteer services and to increase the effectiveness of volunteer services both by expanding the areas of participation and by improving the quality of the volunteer effort.

Mrs. Valeo will consult with the hospital staff and administrator in defining the services which can be performed; recruit; orient and supervise the training of volunteers, and develop in the regular hospital staff an acceptance of volunteers and an ability to use their services productively.

It is expected that numerous opportunities will develop for volunteer participation in interesting and stimulating areas of work which will result in substantial self enrichment and personal gratification. The need to expand the pool of young and adult volunteers, both men and women, will increase proportionately.

Mrs. Valeo may be reached in her temporary office in the lobby of the hospital Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Health for All

Health Aloft

Air travelers with long memories can recall a time when any trip in windy weather might cover almost as much distance up-and-down as across-country. The proudest passenger planes of those days were less than half as big or as fast as today's giant jets.

Nowadays people boarding a plane need give little thought to wind velocity, air pockets or the location of that little brown paper bag. Pressurized cabins have increased comfort and safety, too. But air travel still holds some health hazards, and the airline people are the first to point them out. Passengers who develop medical complications are no fun or profit to anybody.

Recently an airline medical director volunteered some simple guidelines for health safety in sky travel. People who have colds, or any condition in which fever might develop, should stay on the ground — ear trouble is a particular hazard to them.

Nor should anyone fly who has had a heart attack as recently as three weeks ago. This doesn't apply to heart conditions of longer standing, if the sufferer has been able to function normally.

Emphysema patients who require oxygen, and persons with other conditions involving shortness of breath, should refrain from flying. So should those with severe anemia, and anyone who has recently undergone eye surgery. Women in the final month of pregnancy are discouraged from flying unless equipped with a doctor's certificate saying they are fit for air travel.

Fewer types of illness are affected by flying now than in earlier days. Your Christmas Seal association, concerned with general health as well as with the fight against TB and other respiratory diseases, suggests that you consult a doctor if any doubt arises about health safety in flying.

This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by the Ulster County TB and Health Association, Inc., 124 Green Street.

Satisfying Sweet-tooth Favorites

It's a season for surprises, and what could be more fun than to reach for a cookie and get a candy as well. To match such visions of sugarplums, try these festive cookies.

Reminiscent of yummy pecan logs, Carmelitas can be made in minutes with refrigerated chocolate chip cookies. Bake as a bar cookie, then top with a chewy layer of melted caramels and chopped pecans.

For a new twist to chocolate-covered cherries, choose Buttersweets. Here, petite sugar cookies are topped with fluffy cream cheese, pink with cherry pieces. For the finishing touch, drizzle melted semi-sweet chocolate over all. Adapt this versatile idea to other cookie favorites, too.

You'll want to remember these confection-type cookies for special days all through the year.

Carmelitas

32 light candy caramels
¼ cup light cream or evaporated milk
1 roll refrigerated chocolate chip cookies
1 cup (6-ounce package) milk chocolate or semi-sweet chocolate pieces
½ cup chopped pecans
Oven 375°, 36 squares

Melt caramels with cream in top of double boiler.

Slice cookie dough ¼-inch thick and place in bottom of greased 8 or 9-inch square pan. Bake at 375° for 20 to 25 minutes or until lightly brown. (Cookies will be puffy when removed from oven.) Cool slightly.

Sprinkle chocolate pieces over warm cookie base; then carefully spread with caramel mixture and sprinkle with pecans. Refrigerate 1 to 2 hours and cut into 36 squares.

Buttersweets

Filling

1½ cups confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons flour
2 (3-ounce) packages cream cheese, softened
½ cup chopped maraschino cherries
1 drop red food coloring

Topping

1 cup (6-ounce package) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
¼ cup butter
Oven 375°, 36 cookies

Slice cookie dough 1-inch thick, and cut each slice into four quarters. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and bake at 375° for 10 minutes or until golden brown. Indent each center upon removal from oven; cool completely.

Filling: In small mixer bowl cream sugar, flour, and cheese until smooth. Stir in cherries and coloring. Drop by teaspoonfuls on baked cookies. Allow to set.

Topping: Melt chocolate pieces and butter over low heat. Spoon over cream cheese filling and cookies.

Tip: Flavors of cheese filling may be varied and used with different cookie bases. Some ideas are:

Butterscotch Nut Cookies: Bake cookies as directed above. For cherries and coloring substitute ½ cup chopped walnuts, ½ teaspoon rum flavoring and 1 drop yellow food coloring.

Peanut Butter Cookies: Bake cookies as directed above. Omit cherries and food coloring. Add 2 tablespoons crunchy peanut butter to cheese filling.

Home-Fashions-Features

MODERN OLD FASHIONED FUDGE

Chocolate Fudge the Mod Way

If you like fudge but have trouble making it turn out right, chances are you'll go crazy over this recipe. With the basic formula for Quick Chocolate Fudge, you can turn out a dozen delightfully different candies.

Quick Chocolate Fudge

¼ cup margarine
3 ounces unsweetened chocolate
1 pound confectioners sugar
⅓ cup instant nonfat dry milk (dry form)
½ cup light or dark corn syrup
1 tablespoon water
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup chopped nuts or 1 cup miniature or cut up marshmallows (optional)

Melt margarine and chocolate in top of 2-quart double boiler or saucepan over boiling water. Meanwhile, sift confectioners sugar and nonfat dry milk together; set aside. Stir light or dark corn syrup, water and vanilla mixture over boiling water. Blend in sifted dry ingredients in 2 additions, stirring until mixture is well blended and smooth. Remove from boiling water. Mix in nuts or marshmallows. Turn into greased 8x2-inch square pan. Cool. Cut into squares. Makes 1¾ pounds.

Quick Blond Fudge: Follow recipe for Quick Chocolate Fudge, omitting chocolate and water, using light corn syrup and increasing vanilla to 2 teaspoons.

Quick Peanut Butter Fudge: Follow recipe for Quick Chocolate Fudge, omitting chocolate, melting ⅓ cup creamy or chunk style peanut butter with margarine and using light corn syrup.

Stuffed Fruit: Prepare Quick Chocolate or Blond Fudge. Stuff into dried fruit.

Fudge Roll: Grease 2 (9-inch) square pans. Cover bottom of 1 pan with 2 cups chopped nuts. Prepare 1 recipe Quick Chocolate Fudge and pour into pan with nuts; spread and smooth. Prepare 1 recipe Quick Blond Fudge and pour into other pan. Let stand until set, but still soft. Turn out chocolate fudge into waxed paper, then turn over so nuts are on bottom. Roll blond fudge into tight roll and place on one end of chocolate fudge. (Do not stretch blonde fudge.) Roll up with chocolate on outside, using waxed paper as aid. Chill until firm. Slice with sharp knife.

St. Peter's Party

The Christian Mothers Society of St. Peter's Church will sponsor a card party Tuesday night, Dec. 5, at the school hall, Adams Street, starting at 8 p. m. The party was originally scheduled for tonight.

'Cannibal' Fish

Gulpers, or pelican eels, live 9,000 feet or more below the sea's surface. Because of the bone-chilling cold and darkness, these dark fish have a serious food problem and it is quite common for the species to eat their own kind or even larger fish.

A Holiday Crown of Silver

NEW YORK — (NEA) — With holiday and party time almost upon us, many of the more mature women will want to devote a little more effort to their good looks.

Today's happy grannies are not spending their days rocking in a chair. More likely, if they're rocking, it's on the cruise ship, in a country club or entertaining at home.

Today, the woman whose hair begins to turn gray or white has a choice. She can color it or let nature take its course.

If you're one of the gals who has made the decision to color, you must be prepared to spend extra time on the care and styling of your hair. Unless you're prematurely gray or white, you're now at the stage in life when skin care and weight maintenance need special attention. But no matter how beautiful your figure, clothes or complexion, unkempt or badly styled hair will always spoil the effect.

As hair grays, its texture coarsens and oil content decreases. According to hairstylist Jerry Pandora, this combination of dryness and coarseness usually results in hair stubbiness, added electricity and general unmanageability. In addition, the lack of abundant natural oils causes the hair to lose its luster.

To help remedy this situation, Pandora advises a shampoo approximately every 10 days. More frequent shampooing is likely to rob your locks of precious oil. Following your shampoo a cream rinse with body will refine hair texture and add more luster.

Remember that gray and white hair usually grows with uneven color distribution, so you may dind some type of rinse necessary to help even out the tone of your hair.

Generally gray or white hair looks best when cut fairly short, or if kept long, worn up. A bit of height and softness around the face will add grace to your appearance, so don't cut your hair too short.

Everyone should have her hair shaped at least every six weeks. It may not grow as rapidly as it once did and deceivingly may not look as if it needs a trim. But dry split ends are one of the major causes of unmanageability and should be snipped off periodically.

By paying careful attention to the care and styling of your gray or white hair you can easily turn into the envy of every "girl" in the bridge club.

Wreath Windows With 'Suds-Snow' Inside

Instead of putting a wreath in the window, put the window in a wreath this Christmas. First measure the window area, then pencil a circle with the same diameter on newspaper.

Wire large branches of pine together for conform to the pattern, hiding the wire under the needles at each turn. Suspend this wreath from the ceiling molding so it surrounds the frame.

To give a wintry effect, beat a cup of dry soap or detergent with warm water to create "suds-snow." Then drift this over the wreath and along the window pane edges.

Satisfying Sweet-tooth Favorites

It's a season for surprises, and what could be more fun than to reach for a cookie and get a candy as well. To match such visions of sugarplums, try these festive cookies.

Reminiscent of yummy pecan logs, Carmelitas can be made in minutes with refrigerated chocolate chip cookies. Bake as a bar cookie, then top with a chewy layer of melted caramels and chopped pecans.

For a new twist to chocolate-covered cherries, choose Buttersweets. Here, petite sugar cookies are topped with fluffy cream cheese, pink with cherry pieces. For the finishing touch, drizzle melted semi-sweet chocolate over all. Adapt this versatile idea to other cookie favorites, too.

You'll want to remember these confection-type cookies for special days all through the year.

Carmelitas

32 light candy caramels
¼ cup light cream or evaporated milk
1 roll refrigerated chocolate chip cookies
1 cup (6-ounce package) milk chocolate or semi-sweet chocolate pieces
½ cup chopped pecans
Oven 375°. 36 squares

Melt caramels with cream in top of double boiler.

Slice cookie dough ¼-inch thick and place in bottom of greased 8 or 9-inch square pan. Bake at 375° for 20 to 25 minutes or until lightly brown. (Cookies will be puffy when removed from oven.) Cool slightly.

Sprinkle chocolate pieces over warm cookie base; then carefully spread with caramel mixture and sprinkle with pecans. Refrigerate 1 to 2 hours and cut into 36 squares.

Buttersweets

Filling

1½ cups confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons flour
2 (3-ounce) packages cream cheese, softened
½ cup chopped maraschino cherries
1 drop red food coloring

Topping

1 cup (6-ounce package) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
¼ cup butter
Oven 375°, 36 cookies

Slice cookie dough 1-inch thick, and cut each slice into four quarters. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and bake at 375° for 10 minutes or until golden brown. Indent each center upon removal from oven; cool completely.

Filling: In small mixer bowl cream sugar, flour, and cheese until smooth. Stir in cherries and coloring. Drop by teaspoonfuls on baked cookies. Allow to set.

Topping: Melt chocolate pieces and butter over low heat. Spoon over cream cheese filling and cookies.

Tip: Flavors of cheese filling may be varied and used with different cookie bases. Some ideas are:

Butterscotch Nut Cookies: Bake cookies as directed above. For cherries and coloring substitute ½ cup chopped walnuts, ½ teaspoon rum flavoring and 1 drop yellow food coloring.

Peanut Butter Cookies: Bake cookies as directed above. Omit cherries and food coloring. Add 2 tablespoons crunchy peanut butter to cheese filling.

MODERN OLD FASHIONED FUDGE

Chocolate Fudge the Mod Way

If you like fudge but have trouble making it turn out right, chances are you'll go crazy over this recipe. With the basic formula for Quick Chocolate Fudge, you can turn out a dozen delightfully different candies.

Quick Chocolate Fudge

¼ cup margarine
3 ounces unsweetened chocolate
1 pound confectioners sugar
⅓ cup instant nonfat dry milk (dry form)
½ cup light or dark corn syrup
1 tablespoon water
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup chopped nuts or 1 cup miniature or cut up marshmallows (optional)

Melt margarine and chocolate in top of 2-quart double boiler or saucepan over boiling water. Meanwhile, sift confectioners sugar and nonfat dry milk together; set aside. Stir light or dark corn syrup, water and vanilla mixture over boiling water. Blend in sifted dry ingredients in 2 additions, stirring until mixture is well blended and smooth. Remove from boiling water. Mix in nuts or marshmallows. Turn into greased 8x2-inch square pan. Cool. Cut into squares. Makes 1¾ pounds.

Quick Blond Fudge: Follow recipe for Quick Chocolate Fudge, omitting chocolate and water, using light corn syrup and increasing vanilla to 2 teaspoons.

Quick Peanut Butter Fudge: Follow recipe for Quick Chocolate Fudge, omitting chocolate, melting ⅓ cup creamy or chunk style peanut butter with margarine and using light corn syrup.

Stuffed Fruit: Prepare Quick Chocolate or Blond Fudge. Stuff into dried fruit.

Fudge Roll: Grease 2 (9-inch) square pans. Cover bottom of 1 pan with 2 cups chopped nuts. Prepare 1 recipe Quick Chocolate Fudge and pour into pan with nuts; spread and smooth. Prepare 1 recipe Quick Blond Fudge and pour into other pan. Let stand until set, but still soft. Turn out chocolate fudge into waxed paper, then turn over so nuts are on bottom. Roll blond fudge into tight roll and place on one end of chocolate fudge. (Do not stretch blonde fudge.) Roll up with chocolate on outside, using waxed paper as aid. Chill until firm. Slice with sharp knife.

'Cannibal' Fish

Gulpers, or pelican eels, live 9,000 feet or more below the sea's surface. Because of the bone-chilling cold and darkness, these dark fish have a serious food problem and it is quite common for the species to eat their own kind or even larger fish.

A Holiday Crown of Silver

NEW YORK — (NEA) — With holiday and party time almost upon us, many of the more mature women will want to devote a little more effort to their good looks.

Today's happy grannies are not spending their days rocking in a chair. More likely, if they're rocking, it's on the cruise ship, in a country club or entertaining at home.

Today, the woman whose hair begins to turn gray or white has a choice. She can color it or let nature take its course.

If you're one of the gals who has made the decision to color, you must be prepared to spend extra time on the care and styling of your hair. Unless you're prematurely gray or white, you're now at the stage in life when skin care and weight maintenance need special attention. But no matter how beautiful your figure, clothes or complexion, unkempt or badly styled hair will always spoil the effect.

As hair grays, its texture coarsens and oil content decreases. According to hairstylist Jerry Pandora, this combination of dryness and coarseness usually results in hair stubbiness, added electricity and general unmanageability. In addition, the lack of abundant natural oils causes the hair to lose its luster.

To help remedy this situation, Pandora advises a shampoo approximately every 10 days. More frequent shampooing is likely to rob your locks of precious oil. A shampoo formulated for dry hair removes a minimum of natural oil and contains conditioners which add sheen to the hair. Following your shampoo a cream rinse with body will refine hair texture and add more luster.

Ulster Coaches Seek To Drop FIT Cagers

Athletic director Al DiBernardo and basketball coach Mike Perry said after Friday's games with Fashion Institute they are going to recommend to school officials that the return contest on Jan. 28 in New York be cancelled.

"We have to consider the welfare of our players and we don't feel it is in their best interests for the boys to play Fashion Institute again," Perry said.

DiBernardo, who was an observer at the game, said he concurs with Perry's recommendation.

The Fashion players were not only abusive to our team but their language in front of spectators, both men and women, was in very poor taste," DiBernardo said.

Marlboro Edges Rondout, 54-52

Marlboro edged Rondout 54-52 in UCAL action last night.

The Dukes, last year's UCAL champs, trailed 31-24 at the half and 38-34 at the end of the third period. In the last 11 seconds of the game, with the Dukes leading 53-52, Roy McAteer sank one from the foul line to make it 54-52. Rondout lost the ball on the out of bounds play, and the Dukes froze the ball for the remainder of the game.

Frank Samms led the Ganders with 15, and Gordie Taylor had 14.

In jayvee action, Rondout downed Marlboro 56-37. John Slowe was the high scorer for Rondout with 18 points. Rich Gerentine paced the Indians with 13.

Old Dutch Tops Immanuel, 70-62

Old Dutch Reformed overcame a 36-24 first half deficit to topple Immanuel Lutheran 70-62 in their first contest of the cage circuit, an exhibition contest Thursday.

Immanuel rushed to a 20-9 lead in the first quarter and maintained a 12 point lead at the half. Old Dutch rallied with a tremendous second half surge, outscoring Immanuel 46-26 to take the victory.

Tom Jensen paced the second half blitz with 28 points. He added eight in the first half for a total of 36. Mike Curran added nine field goals and a free throw for 19 points.

Wappingers Rips Saugerties, 63-39

Visiting Wappingers Falls exploded with 38 points in the second half to bomb Saugerties 63-39 in the opening game of DCSL action last night.

The Indians held the Sawyers to nine points in each of the last two quarters with a full court press. Wappingers stole the ball and controlled the boards so well that the Saugerties squad didn't seem to be able to move the ball past mid-court.

Ed Bonnett led the Wappingers squad with seven field goals and three from the line, for a total of 17. Bob Rush was next with 14 points.

Roger Praetorius paced the Sawyers with 10 points.

In jayvee action, Saugerties won 53-46 in overtime. Ed Carnright popped one in with one second to go to tie the score at 46 all. Johnny Johnson led the scoring for Saugerties with 14 points.

Beacon, Lourdes, Arlington Score In DCSL Openers

In DCSL action last night, Beacon topped Poughkeepsie, 75-65, Lourdes downed Cardinal Farley, 52-49, and Arlington defeated Roosevelt, 72-65.

Nate Milligan paced the Beacon five to victory over the Pioneers with 14 field goals and 4 free throws for a total of 32 points.

Dave Jones was high for Poughkeepsie with 23 points.

Beacon led 38-22 at the half, and despite a Pioneer rally in the third quarter, stayed ahead to win. Beacon was last year's DCSL champion.

Lourdes led 27-23 at the half, but Cardinal Farley came back to lead 37-36 at the end of the third quarter. Lourdes pulled it out in the end, outscoring the cadets 16-12 in the final period to chalk up the victory.

Scott McCandlish was the big factor in Arlington's 72-65 win over Roosevelt. McCandlish paced the offense with 17 field goals and two free throws for a total of 36 points. Arlington jumped to a 42-30 lead at the half, and outlasted the Roosevelt squad, 72-65.

Bob O'Connor was high for Roosevelt with 26 points.

Near Fracas Is Avoided After Game

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

They say lightning never strikes twice in the same place, but you can't convince Ulster Community College basketball coach Mike Perry that the saying is a true one.

Fashion Institute of New York dropped a 106-82 decision to the unbeaten Senators Friday at the Municipal Auditorium, but like last season, the final score was only secondary.

Coach Raoul Nacinovich of the visitors didn't pull a walking act with his cagers this time. Instead, a couple of the disgruntled losers nearly started a king-sized fracas after the game had ended.

Sam Chandler and Clarence Grant of Fashion started for the UCCC dressing room at the conclusion of the rough and tumble tilt. However, before all control was lost, cooler heads prevailed and the two visiting players were escorted, in between cuss words, to their dressing room, at the opposite end of the auditorium.

Police Are Called

A call was sent to Kingston police headquarters and reinforcements appeared at the gym and remained until the Ulster players had departed.

The game itself was Ulster's severest test of the season and the Senators handled it like pros. They stayed close to the visitors in the early going and finally moved in front before the interim. It was a 45-40 contest at the half.

Jumpin' Joe Uhl rimmed 22 of his game high total of 35 points in that first half and his shooting kept the home side in contention.

Fashion, which like last season came into the game unbeaten, came within three points early in the second half and crept to within six with 2:20 remaining.

Uhl made four straight outside shots early in the second half, Then, it was big Leon Hanna who took up the clutch shooting. He had 18 of his 21 markers in the second half and teamed with Bill Boines to do some nifty work on the boards.

The visitors, who had won their first four games, gave the Senators a physical beating. Officials Bob Foster and Leo Darling called two technicals on Fashion players after they had used obscene language on the court.

Good Foul Shooting

Though the winners only outscored their opponents by four field goals (39-35), the home side took advantage of the excessive fouling by the losers and converted 28 charity attempts.

Chandler, who scored 16 points in the first half, was held to four markers after intermission and finished with 20. The big boy tried to take his disappointment out on the UCCC players and the spectators after the game but he was unsuccessful.

The Senators open their Mid-Hudson Conference schedule Wednesday at Orange Community College. They also have a league tussle slated next Saturday at Rockland.

Plattsburgh Spoils State U. Cage Debut

If the State University College at New Paltz Hawks hadn't given the ball away 15 times in the first half, they might have done better than a 73-68 loss to Potsdam.

Coach Doug Sheppard says the whole team is much improved.

Ty Sands paced the Hawks with eight field goals and 10 from the line for 26 points. Pete Kane was second with 15 points.

Last Minute Goals Topple Big Green

CANTON, N.Y. (AP) — St. Lawrence exploded for two goals in the final three minutes Friday night to defeat Dartmouth, 3-1, and chalk up its first victory in three games this season.

The Big Green and the Larries made bruising defensive hockey stand up until 17:13 of the third period, when John Makins broke a 1-1 tie with a goal.

Two minutes and eight seconds later, Rick Smith iced the game for St. Lawrence by zooming in alone to score after Dartmouth removed its goalie for a sixth skater.

The setback was Dartmouth's first in two games of the new season.

New Paltz Nips OCS

New Paltz High school took a close one over Onteora Central, 67-65, in UCAL action last night.

Onteora trailed 35-34 at the half. Behind by nine in the opening minutes of the last period, the Indians rallied to lead by one point with 27 seconds left in the game. Jim Manee of New Paltz sank the first half of a one and one and missed the second to tie the score, then with three seconds left was fouled again, and made both shots to win the battle.

New Paltz scored two shots after the buzzer, at the end of the first half and at the end of the third period.

Plan New Groups In 'Y' Program

Among the additions planned for the YMCA winter sports program are a girls' basketball league, midget league and a 35-and-over men's basketball group.

These leagues will supplement the traditional YMCA senior league and the Protestant church leagues. The church loop is divided into two sections—seniors (17 and under) and juniors (13 and under). Senior games are scheduled during the week, juniors on Saturday afternoons.

The girls league will be organized in January, if there are enough candidates. All interested girls may contact Physical Director Thomas A. Breese.

The midget loop, now being organized will be for boys and girls who are "Y" members and range in grades from first to sixth. The league potential is 10 teams, with play in the afternoons and Saturdays.

The 35-and-over men's slow-break basketball group will be played under rules comparable to slow-pitch in softball. Ball control is more important than a fast-breaking offense. The defensive team must cross the center line before the ball can be brought into the forecourt.

45 for Unseld

Collegiate Cagers Open

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Westley Unseld of Louisville has set a goal of 45 points for UCLA's Lew Alcindor to shoot at tonight when the national collegiate basketball champions open their season at Purdue.

Unseld, picked on the 1967 All-America with Alcindor, set a Louisville one-game record as the nationally third-ranked Cardinals whipped Georgetown, Ky., 118-66 at home as the college season opened officially Friday night.

Alcindor, the 7-foot-1 Player of the Year last season when he led UCLA through an unbeaten season, scored 56 points against Southern California in his first varsity game as a sophomore.

A sellout crowd of 14,500 is expected at Purdue's new campus gym to see how many big Lew will tally against the Boilermakers in his first game as a junior.

Army Nipped

Princeton's Ivy League champs, ranked eighth to UCLA in the pre-season AP poll, rallied for a 62-59 victory over Army, and the 10th-ranked Davidson Wildcats also chalked up an opening home court by drubbing Bucknell 91-70.

Temple shattered Creighton's record of not having lost a home opener in 32 years by whipping the Blue Jays, 87-79 at Omaha.

Duke downed Virginia Tech 74-66, Southwestern Louisiana upset North Texas 62-61, Vermont surprised Dartmouth 67-65, The Citadel beat Auburn 73-70, Ithaca upset Colgate 89-87 and Tennessee made it 25 in a row at home by crushing Richmond 93-45.

New Mexico edged Oregon 64-60, Washington crushed Miami of Florida 96-54, Colorado beat Texas Tech 87-69, Weber State overcame Colorado State University 71-61, Southern Illinois humbled Sam Houston State 70-54, Southern California defeated Idaho 59-50, Stanford rolled over Portland 83-47 and Oklahoma conquered Centenary 91-74 in other major games.

Princeton came from nine points back for its home triumph over Army, Joe Heiser, who scored 22 points, put the Tigers ahead for good at 54-52 with about four minutes left.

Tight Finishes

Joe Cromer, with 29 points, paced Temple over Creighton; Ray Bueb's layup gave Vermont its upset over Dartmouth; Russ Marron's basket in the last 16 seconds did the same for Ithaca over Colgate, and Marvin Winkler's 15-foot jumper with two seconds on the clock accounted for Southwestern Louisiana's surprise victory over North Texas at Lafayette, La.

Western Kentucky beat Middle Tennessee 91-76, Murray downed Austin Peay 77-68, Tennessee Tech defeated Morehead 71-63 and East Tennessee whipped Eastern Kentucky 64-50 in the first round of the Ohio Valley Conference Tournament at Nashville, Tenn.

Wilt Tallies 52 Points, 76ers Drub Seattle, 133-109

BOSTON (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain, the greatest scorer in National Basketball Association history had bad news for rivals today—he's going to do more shooting.

"If I need to shoot in order to win, I will shoot," the 7-foot-1 Chamberlain said Friday night after scoring 52 points in the Philadelphia 76ers' 133-109 victory over Seattle at Boston Garden.

"My offense has not really been good," he admitted, "I have been chastised for not shooting more. And I think we may have lost a couple of games because I didn't shoot."

Chamberlain, who concentrated on playmkaing as much as scoring in leading the 76ers to the NBA championship last year, hit on 22 of 29 field goal attempts against Seattle en route to his biggest point production of the season. He managed only eight of 30 free throws, setting an NBA record of 22 misses. He held the old mark of 18, set against Syracuse in 1960.

"If we are losing, it rests squarely on me to do something about it," he said. "Of course, I can't do it alone. I need help from the other guys. The thing is I'm going to have to shoot more when necessary."

The Celtics shaded Los Angeles 123-119 in the nightcap of the Boston Garden twin bill and remained one game ahead of Philadelphia in the East. Elsewhere, San Francisco drubbed St. Louis 124-101 to tie the Hawks for the Western Division lead, Baltimore trimmed Cincinnati 123-109 and Chicago edged New York 102-100.

In the only game on the American Basketball Association schedule, newcomers Barry Leibowitz and Stew Johnson helped New Jersey top Dallas 113-100.

Ulster Coaches Seek To Drop FIT Cagers

Athletic director Al DiBernardo and basketball coach Mike Perry said after Friday's games with Fashion Institute they are going to recommend to school officials that the return contest on Jan. 28 in New York be cancelled.

"We have to consider the welfare of our players and we don't feel it is in their best interests for the boys to play Fashion Institute again," Perry said.

DiBernardo, who was an observer at the game, said he concurs with Perry's recommendation.

The Fashion players were not only abusive to our team but their language in front of spectators, both men and women, was in very poor taste," DiBernardo said.

Marlboro Edges Rondout, 54-52

Marlboro edged Rondout 54-52 in UCAL action last night.

The Dukes, last year's UCAL champs, trailed 31-24 at the half and 38-34 at the end of the third period. In the last 11 seconds of the game, with the Dukes leading 53-52, Roy McAteer sank one from the foul line to make it 54-52. Rondout lost the ball on the out of bounds play, and the Dukes froze the ball for the remainder of the game.

Frank Samms led the Ganders with 15, and Gordie Taylor had 14.

In jayvee action, Rondout downed Marlboro 56-37. John Slowe was the high scorer for Rondout with 18 points. Rich Gerentine paced the Indians with 13.

Wappingers Rips Saugerties, 63-39

Visiting Wappingers Falls exploded with 38 points in the second half to bomb Saugerties 63-39 in the opening game of DCSL action last night.

The Indians held the Sawyers to nine points in each of the last two quarters with a full court press. Wappingers stole the ball and controlled the boards so well that the Saugerties squad didn't seem to be able to move the ball past mid-court.

Roger Praetorius paced the Sawyers with 10 points.

In jayvee action, Saugerties won 53-46 in overtime. Ed Carnright popped one in with one second to go to tie the score at 46 all. Johnny Johnson led the scoring for Saugerties with 14 points.

Beacon, Lourdes, Arlington Score In DCSL Openers

In DCSL action last night, Beacon topped Poughkeepsie, 75-65, Lourdes downed Cardinal Farley, 52-49, and Arlington defeated Roosevelt, 72-65.

Nate Milligan paced the Beacon five to victory over the Pioneers with 14 field goals and 4 free throws for a total of 32 points.

Dave Jones was high for Poughkeepsie with 23 points.

Beacon led 38-22 at the half, and despite a Pioneer rally in the third quarter, stayed ahead to win. Beacon was last year's DCSL champion.

Lourdes led 27-23 at the half, but Cardinal Farley came back to lead 37-36 at the end of the third quarter. Lourdes pulled it out in the end, outscoring the cadets 16-12 in the final period to chalk up the victory.

Scott McCandlish was the big factor in Arlington's 72-65 win over Roosevelt. McCandlish paced the offense with 17 field goals and two free throws for a total of 36 points. Arlington jumped to a 42-30 lead at the half, and outlasted the Roosevelt squad, 72-65.

Near Fracas Is Avoided After Game

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

They say lightning never strikes twice in the same place, but you can't convince Ulster Community College basketball coach Mike Perry that the saying is a true one.

Fashion Institute of New York dropped a 106-82 decision to the unbeaten Senators Friday at the Municipal Auditorium, but like last season, the final score was only secondary.

Coach Raoul Nacinovich of the visitors didn't pull a walking act with his cagers this time. Instead, a couple of the disgruntled losers nearly started a king-sized fracas after the game had ended.

Sam Chandler and Clarence Grant of Fashion started for the UCCC dressing room at the conclusion of the rough and tumble tilt. However, before all control was lost, cooler heads prevailed and the two visiting players were escorted, in between cuss words, to their dressing room, at the opposite end of the auditorium.

Police Are Called

A call was sent to Kingston police headquarters and reinforcements appeared at the gym and remained until the Ulster players had departed.

The game itself was Ulster's severest test of the season and the Senators handled it like pros. They stayed close to the visitors in the early going and finally moved in front before the interim. It was a 45-40 contest at the half.

Jumpin' Joe Uhl rimmed 22 of his game high total of 35 points in that first half and his shooting kept the home side in contention.

Fashion, which like last season came into the game unbeaten, came within three points early in the second half and crept to within six with 2:20 remaining.

Uhl made four straight outside shots early in the second half. Then, it was big Leon Hanna who took up the clutch shooting. He had 18 of his 21 markers in the second half and teamed with Bill Boines to do some nifty work on the boards.

The visitors, who had won their first four games, gave the Senators a physical beating. Officials Bob Foster and Leo Darling called two technicals on Fashion players after they had used obscene language on the court.

Good Foul Shooting

Though the winners only outscored their opponents by four field goals (39-35), the home side took advantage of the excessive fouling by the losers and converted 28 charity attempts.

Chandler, who scored 16 points in the first half, was held to four markers after intermission and finished with 20. The big boy tried to take his disappointment out on the UCCC players and the spectators after the game but he was unsuccessful.

The Senators open their Mid-Hudson Conference schedule Wednesday at Orange Community College. They also have a league tussle slated next Saturday at Rockland.

Plattsburgh Spoils State U. Cage Debut

If the State University College at New Paltz Hawks hadn't given the ball away 15 times in the first half, they might have done better than a 73-68 loss to Potsdam.

Ty Sands paced the Hawks with eight field goals and 10 from the line for 26 points. Pete Kane was second with 15 points.

Last Minute Goals Topple Big Green

CANTON, N.Y. (AP) — St. Lawrence exploded for two goals in the final three minutes Friday night to defeat Dartmouth, 3-1, and chalk up its first victory in three games this season.

The Big Green and the Larries made bruising defensive hockey stand up until 17:13 of the third period, when John Makins broke a 1-1 tie with a goal.

Two minutes and eight seconds later, Rick Smith iced the game for St. Lawrence by zooming in alone to score after Dartmouth removed its goalie for a sixth skater.

45 for Unseld

Collegiate Cagers Open

Westley Unseld of Louisville has set a goal of 45 points for UCLA's Lew Alcindor to shoot at tonight when the national collegiate basketball champions open their season at Purdue.

Unseld, picked on the 1967 All-America with Alcindor, set a Louisville one-game record as the nationally third-ranked Cardinals whipped Georgetown, Ky., 118-66 at home as the college season opened officially Friday night.

Alcindor, the 7-foot-1 Player of the Year last season when he led UCLA through an unbeaten season, scored 56 points against Southern California in his first varsity game as a sophomore.

A sellout crowd of 14,500 is expected at Purdue's new campus gym to see how many big Lew will tally against the Boilermakers in his first game as a junior.

Army Nipped

Princeton's Ivy League champs, ranked eighth to UCLA in the pre-season AP poll, rallied for a 62-59 victory over Army, and the 10th-ranked Davidson Wildcats also chalked up an opening home court by drubbing Bucknell 91-70.

Temple shattered Creighton's record of not having lost a home opener in 32 years by whipping the Blue Jays, 87-79 at Omaha.

Duke downed Virginia Tech 74-66, Southwestern Louisiana upset North Texas 62-61, Vermont surprised Dartmouth 67-65, The Citadel beat Auburn 73-70, Ithaca upset Colgate 89-87 and Tennessee made it 25 in a row at home by crushing Richmond 93-45.

New Mexico edged Oregon 64-60, Washington crushed Miami of Florida 96-54, Colorado beat Texas Tech 87-69, Weber State overcame Colorado State University 71-61, Southern Illinois humbled Sam Houston State 70-54, Southern California defeated Idaho 59-50, Stanford rolled over Portland 83-47 and Oklahoma conquered Centenary 91-74 in other major games.

Princeton came from nine points back for its home triumph over Army. Joe Heiser, who scored 22 points, put the Tigers ahead for good at 54-52 with about four minutes left.

Tight Finishes

Joe Cromer, with 29 points, paced Temple over Creighton; Ray Bueb's layup gave Vermont its upset over Dartmouth; Russ Marron's basket in the last 16 seconds did the same for Ithaca over Colgate, and Marvin Winkler's 15-foot jumper with two seconds on the clock accounted for Southwestern Louisiana's surprise victory over North Texas at Lafayette, La.

Western Kentucky beat Middle Tennessee 91-76, Murray downed Austin Peay 77-68, Tennessee Tech defeated Morehead 71-63 and East Tennessee whipped Eastern Kentucky 64-50 in the first round of the Ohio Valley Conference Tournament at Nashville, Tenn.

Wilt Tallies 52 Points, 76ers Drub Seattle, 133-109

BOSTON (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain, the greatest scorer in National Basketball Association history had bad news for rivals today—he's going to do more shooting.

"If I need to shoot in order to win, I will shoot," the 7-foot-1 Chamberlain said Friday night after scoring 52 points in the Philadelphia 76ers' 133-109 victory over Seattle at Boston Garden.

"My offense has not really been good," he admitted. "I have been chastised for not shooting more. And I think we may have lost a couple of games because I didn't shoot."

Chamberlain, who concentrated on playmkaing as much as scoring in leading the 76ers to the NBA championship last year, hit on 22 of 29 field goal attempts against Seattle en route to his biggest point production of the season. He managed only eight of 30 free throws, setting an NBA record of 22 misses. He held the old mark of 18, set against Syracuse in 1960.

"If we are losing, it rests squarely on me to do something about it," he said. "Of course, I can't do it alone. I need help from the other guys. The thing is I'm going to have to shoot more when necessary."

The Celtics shaded Los Angeles 123-119 in the nightcap of the Boston Garden twin bill and remained one game ahead of Philadelphia in the East. Elsewhere, San Francisco drubbed St. Louis 124-101 to tie the Hawks for the Western Division lead, Baltimore trimmed Cincinnati 123-109 and Chicago edged New York 102-100.

In the only game on the American Basketball Association schedule, newcomers Barry Leibowitz and Stew Johnson helped New Jersey top Dallas 113-100.

New Paltz Nips OCS

Onteora trailed 35-34 at the half. Behind by nine in the opening minutes of the last period, the Indians rallied to lead by one point with 27 seconds left in the game. Jim Manee of New Paltz sank the first half of a one and one and missed the second to tie the score, then with three seconds left was fouled again, and made both shots to win the battle.

Larry Kenney paced the victors with 20 points and Warren Ronk contributed 17.

Plan New Groups In 'Y' Program

Among the additions planned for the YMCA winter sports program are a girls' basketball league, midget league and a 35-and-over men's basketball group.

These leagues will supplement the traditional YMCA senior league and the Protestant church leagues. The church loop is divided into two sections—seniors (17 and under) and juniors (13 and under). Senior games are scheduled during the week, juniors on Saturday afternoons.

The girls league will be organized in January, if there are enough candidates. All interested girls may contact Physical Director Thomas A. Breese.

The midget loop, now being organized will be for boys and girls who are "Y" members and range in grades from first to sixth. The league potential is 10 teams, with play in the afternoons and Saturdays.

The 35-and-over men's slow-break basketball group will be played under rules comparable to slow-pitch in softball. Ball control is more important than a fast-breaking offense. The defensive team must cross the center line before the ball can be brought into the forecourt.

Ellenville Tops Highland

Ellenville trounced Highland 82-53 in a non-league game last night.

Ellenville jumped to a 20-10 lead in the first period, and went on to win going easily.

Nate Shorter paced the victors with 12 field goals for 24 points. Bob Blossom was next for the Ellies with 18 points.

Houses May Avoid Eve Showdown

Holiday Battle on Aid Monies

By ROBERT A. HUNT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House and Senate face another holiday season battle over foreign aid but seem likely to avoid a repeat of their 1963 Christmas Eve showdown on the issue.

In dispute this time are money—some $500 million—and purchases of modern weapons by under-developed countries receiving funds under the aid program.

Determined to Hold

The House last month backed up its Appropriations Committee by approving a $2.196 billion foreign-aid budget for fiscal 1967-68—the lowest money bill in the program's stormy 20-year history. Key committee members appear determined to fight to hold this line.

But the Senate Appropriations Committee last week boosted the amount to $2.7 billion. Its version is scheduled for Senate consideration next week. But the real battle shapes up when a conference committee sits down later to iron out whatever differences remain.

"It is indeed difficult to understand why the other body would take such an unrealistic view on foreign aid when the President recently indicated that the deficit for fiscal 1968 Otto E. Passman, D-La., who may reach $35 billion," Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., who rides herd on the House bill, advised his colleagues in a possible preview of things to come.

Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., of the House Appropriations Committee, said it is anticipated that Congress will at this session reduce budget requests for appropriations by close to $6 billion and this will require holding the line on foreign aid.

"I agree that we must bring the foreign-aid bill back as the House passed it," said Rep. Frank T. Bow of Ohio, ranking GOP committee member.

The administration originally asked for $3.2 billion in foreign-aid money but Congress earlier set an authorization ceiling of $2.67 billion.

Congressional leaders hope for adjournment of the long 1967 session sometime between Dec. 15-22, which doesn't leave too much room to settle the issues.

In 1963 the House came to work at 7 a.m. on Dec. 24 and finally passed a compromise $3 billion foreign-aid bill after a bitter fight which gave the President discretion on extending credit to Communist countries buying surplus American wheat or other products.

This year the House included language to withhold economic aid from under-developed countries in the amount they spend to buy such exotic weaponry as jet planes and missile systems. It also would bar use of any military aid funds for similar purchases. Exemptions were provided for Greece, Turkey, Iran, Israel, The Republic of China, The Philippines and Korea.

The Senate committee knocked out the provision relating to withholding economic aid and provided presidential discretion in a decision on military assistance.

That action has drawn fire from Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., and Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., chief backers of the House language. Conte feels it is needed to discourage poor nations "from going out and getting in this crazy arms race."

But Sen. Milton R. Young of North Dakota, ranking Republican on the Senate committee, terms the House provision "too far reaching."

TV Time at Morse School Assembly Show

The sixth grade class of Mrs. Dolores La Chance presented an assembly program at Grant D. Morse School recently. Entitled "TV Time," the presentation was planned in three parts to show how TV educates, informs and entertains its viewers. Announcers were David Buntele, Randy Richardson, Laura Fetty, Stephen Wodzenski and Glen Valachovic.

The first program was a panel discussion called Meet the Experts. The topic was "Should the U.S. Government Spend as Much Money on Oceanography as on Space Exploration?" Class members supporting oceanography were Darlene Bullock, Richard Ricks, Anita Luther, Stephen Wodzenski, Teresa Checkley, Frank Linzey. Those supporting space exploration were Randy Short, Wayne Bruyn, Patricia Craft and Vickey Lindsay.

The second program was a pantomime done with the record of Serendipity Singers to the tune of "A Crooked Old Man." Guitar players were Joseph Di Giacomo, Robert Gramling, and Mark Stevens. Other members of the singing group were: Barbara Smith, Lois Lentz, Debra Romano, Anita Luther, Linda Wager, Darlene Bullock, Patricia Craft, James Bogan, Kenneth Sickler, Timothy Meggison, Anson Manfro, Harry Personeus, Richard Ricks and Vincent Ruby.

The third program was a play entitled "Invasion from the Stratosphere." The characters were played by Mark Stevens, Michael Abate, Laura Fetty, Patricia Craft, Timothy Meggison, Joseph Di Giacomo, Kathleen Piccirello, and James Bogan. Mechanical soldiers were played by the boys. Original commercials were also included for the TV show.

Anti-Marijuana Laws Ruled Constitutional

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — State laws forbidding possession of Marijuana are constitutional, a City Court judge has ruled in the case of a prominant literary critic facing a drug charge.

Judge Ann T. Mikoll rejected Friday a claim by the lawyer for Dr. Leslie A. Fiedler that proof had not been established that marijuana was a dangerous drug. She also dismissed the attorney's contention that penalties that could be invoked for possession were "cruel and inhuman."

The lawyer had presented the arguments Sept. 13 in behalf of Fiedler, 50, a professor of English at the State University at Buffalo, and his wife, Margaret, 48. They are accused of allowing their home here to be used for the smoking of marijuana.

The couple was arrested April 19, and the trial is scheduled to begin in City Court next Thursday. Fiedler currently is teaching at the University of Bringhton, England.

Houses May Avoid Eve Showdown

By ROBERT A. HUNT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House and Senate face another holiday season battle over foreign aid but seem likely to avoid a repeat of their 1963 Christmas Eve showdown on the issue.

In dispute this time are money—some $500 million—and purchases of modern weapons by under-developed countries receiving funds under the aid program.

Determined to Hold

The House last month backed up its Appropriations Committee by approving a $2.196 billion foreign-aid budget for fiscal 1967-68—the lowest money bill in the program's stormy 20-year history. Key committee members appear determined to fight to hold this line.

But the Senate Appropriations Committee last week boosted the amount to $2.7 billion. Its version is scheduled for Senate consideration next week. But the real battle shapes up when a conference committee sits down later to iron out whatever differences remain.

"It is indeed difficult to understand why the other body would take such an unrealistic view on foreign aid when the President recently indicated that the deficit for fiscal 1968 Otto E. Passman, D-La., who may reach $35 billion," Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., who rides herd on the House bill, advised his colleagues in a possible preview of things to come.

Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., of the House Appropriations Committee, said it is anticipated that Congress will at this session reduce budget requests for appropriations by close to $6 billion and this will require holding the line on foreign aid.

"I agree that we must bring the foreign-aid bill back as the House passed it," said Rep. Frank T. Bow of Ohio, ranking GOP committee member.

The administration originally asked for $3.2 billion in foreign-aid money but Congress earlier set an authorization ceiling of $2.67 billion.

Congressional leaders hope for adjournment of the long 1967 session sometime between Dec. 15-22, which doesn't leave too much room to settle the issues.

In 1963 the House came to work at 7 a.m. on Dec. 24 and finally passed a compromise $3 billion foreign-aid bill after a bitter fight which gave the President discretion on extending credit to Communist countries buying surplus American wheat or other products.

This year the House included language to withhold economic aid from under-developed countries in the amount they spend to buy such exotic weaponry as jet planes and missile systems. It also would bar use of any military aid funds for similar purchases. Exemptions were provided for Greece, Turkey, Iran, Israel, The Republic of China, The Philippines and Korea.

The Senate committee knocked out the provision relating to withholding economic aid and provided presidential discretion in a decision on military assistance.

That action has drawn fire from Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., and Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., chief backers of the House language. Conte feels it is needed to discourage poor nations "from going out and getting in this crazy arms race."

But Sen. Milton R. Young of North Dakota, ranking Republican on the Senate committee, terms the House provision "too far reaching."

TV Time at Morse School Assembly Show

The sixth grade class of Mrs. Dolores La Chance presented an assembly program at Grant D. Morse School recently. Entitled "TV Time," the presentation was planned in three parts to show how TV educates, informs and entertains its viewers. Announcers were David Buntele, Randy Richardson, Laura Fetty, Stephen Wodzenski and Glen Valachovic.

The first program was a panel discussion called Meet the Experts. The topic was "Should the U.S. Government Spend as Much Money on Oceanography as on Space Exploration?" Class members supporting oceanography were Darlene Bullock, Richard Ricks, Anita Luther, Stephen Wodzenski, Teresa Checkley, Frank Linzey. Those supporting space exploration were Randy Short, Wayne Bruyn, Patricia Craft and Vickey Lindsay.

The second program was a pantomime done with the record of Serendipity Singers to the tune of "A Crooked Old Man." Guitar players were Joseph Di Giacomo, Robert Gramling, and Mark Stevens. Other members of the singing group were: Barbara Smith, Lois Lentz, Debra Romano, Anita Luther, Linda Wager, Darlene Bullock, Patricia Craft, James Bogan, Kenneth Sickler, Timothy Meggison, Anson Manfro, Harry Personeus, Richard Ricks and Vincent Ruby.

The third program was a play entitled "Invasion from the Stratosphere." The characters were played by Mark Stevens, Michael Abate, Laura Fetty, Patricia Craft, Timothy Meggison, Joseph Di Giacomo, Kathleen Piccirello, and James Bogan. Mechanical soldiers were played by the boys. Original commercials were also included for the TV show.

Anti-Marijuana Laws Ruled Constitutional

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — State laws forbidding possession of Marijuana are constitutional, a City Court judge has ruled in the case of a prominant literary critic facing a drug charge.

Judge Ann T. Mikoll rejected Friday a claim by the lawyer for Dr. Leslie A. Fiedler that proof had not been established that marijuana was a dangerous drug. She also dismissed the attorney's contention that penalties that could be invoked for possession were "cruel and inhuman."

The lawyer had presented the arguments Sept. 13 in behalf of Fiedler, 50, a professor of English at the State University at Buffalo, and his wife, Margaret, 48. They are accused of allowing their home here to be used for the smoking of marijuana.

The couple was arrested April 19, and the trial is scheduled to begin in City Court next Thursday. Fiedler currently is teaching at the University of Bringhton, England.

Cornell Gets Pact For Atom Smasher

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the world's largest and most powerful atom-smasher machines will go into full operation soon high above Cayuga's waters at Cornell University—buried 50 feet beneath a campus area where Cornellians engage in intramural sports.

This was reported today by the National Science Foundation in announcing it had awarded a $2.17 million contract to Cornell at Ithaca, N.Y., for operation of the recently completed $11.3 million machine.

The doughnut-shaped machine, almost half a mile in circumference, is known as an "electron synchrotron" because it accelerates sub-nuclear electrons to very high energies—10 billion electron volts—and sends them with smashing force into atoms of target materials. It's the world's largest of its particular type.

Like other atom-smasher machines—all of which are descendants of the original "cyclotron"—the new one is designed to advance science's knowledge of the basic structure of all matter in the universe.

The big machine has already been functioning on a limited basis, but is expected to go into full operation early in 1968, the NSF said.

It will be a nationally available facility for the use of all qualified scientists on the basis of the competitive scientific merit of their proposed experiments.

Dodd Demands Libel Judgment Against Pearson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd has asked the U.S. District Court for a summary judgment in his $2 million libel and conspiracy suit against columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson.

The motion, filed Friday by Dodd's attorney, John F. Sonnett, has been scheduled for a Dec. 12 hearing by Judge Alexander Holtzoff. Sonnett contended evidence already developed makes a trial unnecessary.

He said further pre-trial proceedings could result in dropping of the suit against the columnists "not because they are innocent but because the plaintiff simply could not afford to prosecute them further."

The motion said Dodd, censured by his Senate colleagues June 22 for personal use of political funds, already had been put to "almost ruinous expense in meeting the scandalous charges" by Pearson and Anderson.

Their columns, using material admittedly removed from Dodd's files by the senator's employes, formed the basis for a Senate ethics committee probe of Dodd that resulted in his censure by a 92-5 vote.

He was specifically censured for converting to his personal use $116,083 in campaign and testimonial funds. His colleagues at the same time rejected a second committee charge that Dodd double-billed the Senate and private organizations for seven trips he made.

Cornell Gets Pact For Atom Smasher

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the world's largest and most powerful atom-smasher machines will go into full operation soon high above Cayuga's waters at Cornell University—buried 50 feet beneath a campus area where Cornellians engage in intramural sports.

This was reported today by the National Science Foundation in announcing it had awarded a $2.17 million contract to Cornell at Ithaca, N.Y., for operation of the recently completed $11.3 million machine.

The doughnut-shaped machine, almost half a mile in circumference, is known as an "electron synchrotron" because it accelerates sub-nuclear electrons to very high energies—10 billion electron volts—and sends them with smashing force into atoms of target materials. It's the world's largest of its particular type.

Like other atom-smasher machines—all of which are descendants of the original "cyclotron"—the new one is designed to advance science's knowledge of the basic structure of all matter in the universe.

The big machine has already been functioning on a limited basis, but is expected to go into full operation early in 1968, the NSF said.

It will be a nationally available facility for the use of all qualified scientists on the basis of the competitive scientific merit of their proposed experiments.

Dodd Demands Libel Judgment Against Pearson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd has asked the U.S. District Court for a summary judgment in his $2 million libel and conspiracy suit against columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson.

The motion, filed Friday by Dodd's attorney, John F. Sonnett, has been scheduled for a Dec. 12 hearing by Judge Alexander Holtzoff. Sonnett contended evidence already developed makes a trial unnecessary.

He said further pre-trial proceedings could result in dropping of the suit against the columnists "not because they are innocent but because the plaintiff simply could not afford to prosecute them further."

The motion said Dodd, censured by his Senate colleagues June 22 for personal use of political funds, already had been put to "almost ruinous expense in meeting the scandalous charges" by Pearson and Anderson.

Their columns, using material admittedly removed from Dodd's files by the senator's employes, formed the basis for a Senate ethics committee probe of Dodd that resulted in his censure by a 92-5 vote.

He was specifically censured for converting to his personal use $116,083 in campaign and testimonial funds. His colleagues at the same time rejected a second committee charge that Dodd double-billed the Senate and private organizations for seven trips he made.

Dear Abby

Poor Excuse for Man

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1967 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I need some advice before I go out of my mind. My husband and I have been married for two years, and I just found out for sure that I am pregnant with our first child.

When I told my husband, I thought he would explode. I have never seen him so angry. He has restricted me to the house. I can leave only to go to work, and then I have to come straight home. I can't visit my friends or relatives. I can't go downtown to do anything. Not even grocery shopping in the neighborhood.

He doesn't want me any place where any of his friends can see me and know that I'm pregnant. He keeps threatening to get out legally, or illegally, as he wants no part of being tied down at 21. I love him and don't want to lose him. How can I get him to change his attitude? I am also 21.

NEEDING HELP

DEAR NEEDING: Something is fishy here. Why is your husband so violently opposed to letting his friends know that you are pregnant? You are married, and there is nothing to be ashamed of. He "tied himself down" at 19 when he married, so his "reason" for exploding doesn't make much sense. And what's this "restricting business!" If you submit to his unreasonable demands in order to "hold" a husband who has threatened to "get out legally or illegally," you are asking for the abusive treatment your poor-excuse-for-a-husband is dishing out.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and I babysit for a few people in the neighborhood and I really love it.

Tonight, one of the neighbors telephoned me and asked if I was available to sit for her on New Year's Eve. I was, so I told her yes.

Right after I hung up the telephone, my mother asked me who called and what for, so I told her.

Then my mother said, "I might need you to sit for ME on New Year's Eve."

I told my mother that I had already promised this other lady and I couldn't break my promise.

My father, who is very quick tempered yelled, "You'll sit for your mother if she needs you!"

Abby, you always tell us kids to do what our parents say, but this time I think I am right and they are wrong. What do you think? SITTER

DEAR SITTER: The best of parents can be wrong now and then, and unless you agreed to check with your mother before accepting other sitting dates, they were wrong this time.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: We have two very small boys. One is five and the other is two and a half. My problem is, I feel that my husband expects too much too soon.

These little tykes come to the table happy and hungry, but by the time my husband gets thru correcting their every move, "(Sit up straight, take your elbows off the table, stop talking with your mouth full, you're eating too slow, etc.") these poor kids leave the table in tears with their plates practically untouched.

How can I make my husband understand that besides making the boys dread mealtime, it could be bad for their health?

OHIO

DEAR OHIO: You have THREE "little boys." Tell the one you're married to that altho his criticisms may be justified, there is a more effective way to teach children. It's true serious digestive problems often develop when children (and adults, as well) attempt to eat while they are upset. Implore your husband to pause, control himself and to resist the urge to shout criticisms and orders at the table. "Gentleness" is the key word here. And should he forget, a "gentle" kick in the ankle from you may remind him.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO WALLY: Taking your steady girl friend to the office Christmas party is like going hunting with the game warden.

One of the nicest things to know about an ace is that you don't have to play it at the first opportunity. Banks may lend money on aces, but they pay on interest on tricks that are taken earlier than necessary.

South wasted no time taking the first trick with dummy's ace of hearts. Then he led a diamond to his queen. East played the seven and West allowed the queen to hold but was careful to grab the second diamond lead.

West played the jack of hearts. East overtook with his king and led a trump. South went up with his ace, entered dummy with the ace of clubs and led a third diamond. East was mean enough to ruff, and the best South could do was to overruff and run out all his trumps slowly and carefully, but to no avail. There was nothing he could do about his last heart.

Had South bothered to think a little at trick one (which is the best time to think), he would have let the defense win the fisrt heart trick. If hearts tyffandBoRxeUtiBoa were continued, South would have had time to ruff his third heart. If East overtook and led a trump, South would be in almost the same situation as if he had won that first trick. The difference would be that dummy's ace of hearts would be an extra entry.

The play would proceed with East leading a trump at trick two. South could win and lead a diamond. Assuming that West were smart enough to duck the first diamond and win the second, his best play would be to knock out dummy's ace of hearts.

A third diamond would be played. East would ruff and South would overruff. Then South would cross to dummy with the ace of clubs and lead the last diamond.

Poor East would want to ruff, but you can't ruff when you are out of trumps. South would get to discard his losing heart.

Horoscope

By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars—

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

Forecast for SUNDAY, December 3, 1967

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Take a breather. Review work methods. You many be duplicating efforts, scattering forces. Find out today. Streamline procedures. Be gracious to associates.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Not wise to veer far off course. Means stick close to what is familiar. Includes family, romantic interest. Problems of children are brought to your attention. Be sincere, dedicated.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Friends who contact you today may be confused. Use your power to analyze. Take nothing for granted. Find out reasons. Demand to know WHY. Then you avoid loss, embarrassment. Get the facts.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): If you desire a battle today, you'll find many willing to oblige. Applies especially to those close to you. Wise course is one of moderation. Do more listening than asserting.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your work methods could use some attention. You may be putting forth effort in wrong direction. This, in turn, creates frustration. Take time today to quietly review goals, objectives.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Offspring could express expensive desires. Be lenient without being extravagant. Know when, where to draw line. Express love, affection to one who really deserves it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Get together on what you want with regard to home, property, investments affecting future security. Delay senseless. You have chance now to resolve differences with mate, partner.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Break through aura of indifference. Study LIBRA message. Be aware of how others feel, react. Be creative, original. Tradition may be fine—but today's break: barriers. Create your own tradition.

SAGITARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your ally today is determination combined with patience. Applies especially where special collection is concerned. You want something. Go out to get it. If you evade panic to get it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Cycle moves up. Person in responsible position gives vote of confidence. You are praised, complimented. But much also is expected of you. Time for mature approach.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Most things today contain light touch. You don't seem able to put your finger on what really matters. Key is to check details. Obtain vital hint from TAURUS message.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): People in authority may exhibit tendency toward jealousy. Make friends out of those who might otherwise consider themselves antagonists. Do so with attitude of friendliness. Adhere to golden rule.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have sense of entertainment, music, ability to make people feel as if they belong. Before long your special qualities are going to be rewarded.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1967

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Be aware of details. Day features opportunity. Lunar position accents ambition, prestige, standing in community. You get chance to prove unique abilities. But check routine procedures.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Your philosophy, long-range goals are spotlighted. Emphasis on how you express yourself. Set policy. Adhere to principles. Stand tall. Stick to golden rule. Then you overcome odds.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You want to find things, you seek the hidden, the obscure. You are impatient, impetuous. Today there is need to take direct action based on knowledge. Act accordingly.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Stress today on problems which require immediate attention. Includes area of marriage, partnerships, contracts. If puzzled, consult legal expert. Leave nothing to chance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Work, health dominate day. Basic issues cry for attention. Attend to business. Your emotions surge. Temptation runs rampant. Prove ability to handle responsibility.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Favorable lunar aspect denotes chance for greater creative expression today. Don't hold back. Make necessary adjustments, changes. Romance in air tonight. Enjoy it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Emphasis on home, property, long-range investments. Don't feel results must be immediate. Today you can utilize past experience with profit. Older person gives valid advice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Avoid scattering forces. Don't embark on needless journey. Put restless energy to constructive use. Be creative. Hunch today pays off. Follow through on intuitive feeling.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Obtain hint from SCORPIO message. Be versatile. Try various methods. Display sense of humor. Money comes your way today. You attract material gain if confident, unafraid.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You are able today to face persons, situations from position of strength. Realize this. Act accordingly. Express confidence. Take initiative. Make new contacts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Behind scenes action dominates. You gain if subtle approach is utilized. Embarrassment results if you are too direct. Know this. Plan accordingly. Listen. Learn.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Fine for entertaining at homes. Spread good will, promote harmony. You could receive surprise gift. Express gratitude. Make necessary changes. Good for purchase of luxury item.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are a visionary, but you desire practical action. There are numerous contradictions in your make-up. But you soon will settle down and be rewarded for efforts.

Horoscope

By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars—

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

Forecast for SUNDAY, December 3, 1967

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Take a breather. Review work methods. You many be duplicating efforts, scattering forces. Find out today. Streamline procedures. Be gracious to associates.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Not wise to veer far off course. Means stick close to what is familiar. Includes family, romantic interest. Problems of children are brought to your attention. Be sincere, dedicated.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Friends who contact you today may be confused. Use your power to analyze. Take nothing for granted. Find out reasons. Demand to know WHY. Then you avoid loss, embarrassment. Get the facts.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): If you desire a battle today, you'll find many willing to oblige. Applies especially to those close to you. Wise course is one of moderation. Do more listening than asserting.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your work methods could use some attention. You may be putting forth effort in wrong direction. This, in turn, creates frustration. Take time today to quietly review goals, objectives.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Offspring could express expensive desires. Be lenient without being extravagant. Know when, where to draw line. Express love, affection to one who really deserves it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Get together on what you want with regard to home, property, investments affecting future security. Delay senseless. You have chance now to resolve differences with mate, partner.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Break through aura of indifference. Study LIBRA message. Be aware of how others feel, react. Be creative, original. Tradition may be fine—but today's break: barriers. Create your own tradition.

SAGITARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your ally today is determination combined with patience. Applies especially where special collection is concerned. You want something. Go out to get it. If you evade panic to get it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Cycle moves up. Person in responsible position gives vote of confidence. You are praised, complimented. But much also is expected of you. Time for mature approach.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Most things today contain light touch. You don't seem able to put your finger on what really matters. Key is to check details. Obtain vital hint from TAURUS message.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): People in authority may exhibit tendency toward jealousy. Make friends out of those who might otherwise consider themselves antagonists. Do so with attitude of friendliness. Adhere to golden rule.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have sense of entertainment, music, ability to make people feel as if they belong. Before long your special qualities are going to be rewarded.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1967

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Be aware of details. Day features opportunity. Lunar position accents ambition, prestige, standing in community. You get chance to prove unique abilities. But check routine procedures.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Your philosophy, long-range goals are spotlighted. Emphasis on how you express yourself. Set policy. Adhere to principles. Stand tall. Stick to golden rule. Then you overcome odds.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You want to find things, you seek the hidden, the obscure. You are impatient, impetuous. Today there is need to take direct action based on knowledge. Act accordingly.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Stress today on problems which require immediate attention. Includes area of marriage, partnerships, contracts. If puzzled, consult legal expert. Leave nothing to chance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Work, health dominate day. Basic issues cry for attention. Attend to business. Your emotions surge. Temptation runs rampant. Prove ability to handle responsibility.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Favorable lunar aspect denotes chance for greater creative expression today. Don't hold back. Make necessary adjustments, changes. Romance in air tonight. Enjoy it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Emphasis on home, property, long-range investments. Don't feel results must be immediate. Today you can utilize past experience with profit. Older person gives valid advice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Avoid scattering forces. Don't embark on needless journey. Put restless energy to constructive use. Be creative. Hunch today pays off. Follow through on intuitive feeling.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Obtain hint from SCORPIO message. Be versatile. Try various methods. Display sense of humor. Money comes your way today. You attract material gain if confident, unafraid.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You are able today to face persons, situations from position of strength. Realize this. Act accordingly. Express confidence. Take initiative. Make new contacts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Behind scenes action dominates. You gain if subtle approach is utilized. Embarrassment results if you are too direct. Know this. Plan accordingly. Listen. Learn.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Fine for entertaining at homes. Spread good will, promote harmony. You could receive surprise gift. Express gratitude. Make necessary changes. Good for purchase of luxury item.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are a visionary, but you desire practical action. There are numerous contradictions in your make-up. But you soon will settle down and be rewarded for efforts.

comportment (kom-PORT-ment) behavior

The strange comportment he showed after he failed his law test worried his family.

The local girl scout group, preparing to visit New York City for the first time, was told by their leader that the organization would be judged according to each individual's comportment.

Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

The Flying Nun may soar high in the ratings but heaven help her if she depended on earthbound nuns for her popularity.

Fortunately for the ABC series, there are no known nuns among the 1,200 A. C. Nielsen Co. families.

I sought the opinion of several nuns on the series and found few who have watched more than the premier episode, and none who see it regularly on Thursday nights. They're always playing baseball or volleyball with street urchins or riding bicycles.

Pretty Far Out

"I think it's pretty far out," said Sister Ann Stephanie, principal of St. Edmund's School in Oak Park, Ill. "I know it's a fantasy and it certainly doesn't give a true picture of nuns.

"Yes, I think I do resent the image. It takes away from the dignity it should have. Playing baseball is OK, that's something that happens. The Flying Nun gets into situations that are a little unrealistic."

Sister Stephanie thought Mother Superior (played by Madeline Sherwood) is "fairly believable" although "at first she was a little too austere. She's relaxed now and seems more normal."

The real life nun said, "I don't think there's any religious aspects. If they intend to portray a nun as she really is, that's missing. If it's just a silly comedy program, it's OK to leave that out."

The series has an adviser on taste and ecclesiastical accuracy, Charles E. Reilly Jr., executive director of the National Catholic Office for Radio and Television, but it does not presume to depict religious life realistically. At least I don't think so.

Sister Stephanie feels the series detracts from real Nuns, because the series "is the only contact some people have with Nuns. The public is confused about Nuns because of all the changes in church and religious life. People don't know where the Nuns stand."

The sister allowed that the Flying Nun (played by Sally Field) is only a novice and "that has something to do with it. She hasn't taken any vows. At this rate she won't, she's very frivolous but I'll say she has some depth, she has an idea that she's doing good. The real Nuns are sincere and generous and want to help people."

Sister Mary Dominic, dramatics teacher at the Acedemy of Our Lady, Chicago, also had a brief but apparently lasting peek at the series.

Talented, Attractive

"The girl (Sally Field) has a lot of talent," said Sister Dominic, "and she's quite attractive. I expected to dislike the flying aspect strenuously—I drive, but I didn't object as I expected.

"I don't think it's meant to portray reality and it's not harmful if you're looking for entertainment."

She said she passed a boy and his grandmother on the street and the boy "asked me if I knew the Flying Nun. He was sort of fascinated and thrilled by the sight of a Nun. He liked the character."

Two girls who should have a closer affinity for the fictional Sister Bertrille of the series, are two novices of the Sisters of Mercy: Sister Kathleen Mary, 20, and Sister Margaret, 19.

"I thought it was funny," said Sister Mary, "but I wasn't really impressed. I don't see Nuns flying around very often . . . and I've been looking up a lot, don't worry.

"I like the music but it seems to put the Nun in a very childish position. If you like childish Nuns, that's OK. I don't think of myself as childish. If I was going to take a trip, I'd take a drug.

'Fly-by-Night' Image

"It's a fly-by-night image, "flighty or frivolous. It puts Nuns on the same level as Batman and Superman and that's not what people are. A Nun is a person too."

She said she and other novices watched the premier and "roared, we thought it was so silly."

Sister Margaret agreed that the series "did not present the Nun as a person. It was very silly and I didn't care for it. She's just a very flighty character. Even people I know are nothing like her. She seems like a little 10-year-old.

"We're not serious all the time, we have fun, but I don't see her as a real person."

Reilly, the advisor for the series, has said the series appeals to "a lot of younger viewers" and shows them that "today's Nuns are not hiding out in a garret."

Two foreigners took a room in a summer hotel. To their surprise, they were attacked by mosquitoes, an insect new to them.

That night, as they turned off the light and went to bed, two fireflies flitted in through the window.

"It's no use," one groaned to the other. "They've come back with lanterns looking for us."

The big city fisherman was trying to persuade his guide to visit him. But the guide said he feared the city people would laugh at him.

Mr. Cobb (the fisherman)—Why?

Joe (the guide)—Why not? I sure laugh at them when they are up here in the north woods.

Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

The Flying Nun may soar high in the ratings but heaven help her if she depended on earthbound nuns for her popularity.

Fortunately for the ABC series, there are no known nuns among the 1,200 A. C. Nielson Co. families.

I sought the opinion of several nuns on the series and found few who have watched more than the premier episode, and none who see it regularly on Thursday nights. They're always playing baseball or volleyball with street urchins or riding bicycles.

Pretty Far Out

"I think it's pretty far out," said Sister Ann Stephanie, principal of St. Edmund's School in Oak Park, Ill. "I know it's a fantasy and it certainly doesn't give a true picture of nuns.

"Yes, I think I do resent the image. It takes away from the dignity it should have. Playing baseball is OK, that's something that happens. The Flying Nun gets into situations that are a little unrealistic."

Sister Stephanie thought Mother Superior (played by Madeline Sherwood) is "fairly believable" although "at first she was a little too austere. She's relaxed now and seems more normal."

The real life nun said, "I don't think there's any religious aspects. If they intend to portray a nun as she really is, that's missing. If it's just a silly comedy program, it's OK to leave that out."

The series has an adviser on taste and ecclesiastical accuracy, Charles E. Reilly Jr., executive director of the National Catholic Office for Radio and Television, but it does not presume to depict religious life realistically. At least I don't think so.

Sister Stephanie feels the series detracts from real Nuns, because the series "is the only contact some people have with Nuns. The public is confused about Nuns because of all the changes in church and religious life. People don't know where the Nuns stand."

The sister allowed that the Flying Nun (played by Sally Field) is only a novice and "that has something to do with it. She hasn't taken any vows. At this rate she won't, she's very frivolous but I'll say she has some depth, she has an idea that she's doing good. The real Nuns are sincere and generous and want to help people."

Sister Mary Dominic, dramatics teacher at the Acedemy of Our Lady, Chicago, also had a brief but apparently lasting peek at the series.

Talented, Attractive

"The girl (Sally Field) has a lot of talent," said Sister Dominic, "and she's quite attractive. I expected to dislike the flying aspect strenuously—I drive, but I didn't object as I expected.

"I don't think it's meant to portray reality and it's not harmful if you're looking for entertainment."

She said she passed a boy and his grandmother on the street and the boy "asked me if I knew the Flying Nun. He was sort of fascinated and thrilled by the sight of a Nun. He liked the character."

Two girls who should have a closer affinity for the fictional Sister Bertrille of the series, are two novices of the Sisters of Mercy: Sister Kathleen Mary, 20, and Sister Margaret, 19.

"I thought it was funny," said Sister Mary, "but I wasn't really impressed. I don't see Nuns flying around very often . . . and I've been looking up a lot, don't worry.

"I like the music but it seems to put the Nun in a very childish position. If you like childish Nuns, that's OK. I don't think of myself as childish. If I was going to take a trip, I'd take a drug.

'Fly-by-Night' Image

"It's a fly-by-night image, "flighty or frivolous. It puts Nuns on the same level as Batman and Superman and that's not what people are. A Nun is a person too."

She said she and other novices watched the premier and "roared, we thought it was so silly."

Sister Margaret agreed that the series "did not present the Nun as a person. It was very silly and I didn't care for it. She's just a very flighty character. Even people I know are nothing like her. She seems like a little 10-year-old.

"We're not serious all the time, we have fun, but I don't see her as a real person."

Reilly, the advisor for the series, has said the series appeals to "a lot of younger viewers" and shows them that "today's Nuns are not hiding out in a garret."

Two foreigners took a room in a summer hotel. To their surprise, they were attacked by mosquitoes, an insect new to them.

That night, as they turned off the light and went to bed, two fireflies flitted in through the window.

"It's no use," one groaned to the other. "They've come back with lanterns looking for us."

Eight From County Enlist For Army Duty in November

Sgt. Edward Keene, Local Army Recruiting Sergeant for Ulster County, has announced the following eight enlistments into the U.S. Army this November.

They were:

Thomas J. Murphy, formerly of Massachusetts and employed by IBM of Kingston, has enlisted for a four year period into the U.S. Army Security Agency to carry on in the field of programming.

Richard L. Nardone, son of Louis and Norma Nardone of 16 Josephine Avenue, enlisted for a three-year period with a letter of acceptance for training and duty with the U.S. Army Bands. Prior to enlistment he was graduated from Kingston High School and was active with music and a choral organization in the Kingston area.

Lowell Robert Dutcher of Fox Hollow Road, Shandaken, son of Lowell and Sadie Dutcher enlisted for a three-year period with a guarantee of training in the U.S. Army Engineer Heavy Equipment Operation and Maintenance Program. Prior to enlistment he was graduated from Onteora High School and was employed in the Kingston area.

John H. O'Meara III, son of John and Frances O'Meara of Route 28, Phoenicia, enlisted for a three-year period with a guarantee of training in the U.S. Army Engineer Heavy Equipment Operation and Maintenance Program. Prior to enlistment he had attended Onteora High School and was employed in the Phoenicia area. Dutcher and O'Meara enlisted in the Army Buddy Program and will receive their basic training together at Fort Dix, N. J.

Ernest C. Renn Jr., son of Ernest Sr. and Agnes Renn of 22 North Street, enlisted for a three-year period with a guarantee of training in the U.S. Army Administrative Field. Prior to enlistment, he was graduated from Kingston High School and was employed with the U.S. Post Office Department in Kingston. He will take his eight weeks of basic training at Fort Dix, N. J.

Stephen J. Stokes, son of Vincent J. and Dorothy Stokes of Kingston, enlisted for a period of two years in the Regular Army without assignment, and will take his training at Fort Dix, N. J., and probable assignment in the clerical field.

Robert J. Wade Jr., son of Robert and Margaret Wade of 17 Livingston Street, Saugerties, enlisted for a three-year period with a guarantee of training in the U.S. Army Engineer Heavy Equipment Operation and Maintenance Program. Prior to enlistment, he was graduated from Saugerties High School and was employed with the Colonial Coal Yards.

Thomas A. Barents, son of Douglas and Marcella Barents of 58 Lamb Street, Saugerties, enlisted for a four-year period with a guarantee of assignment in the U.S. Army Security Agency. Prior to enlistment he was graduated from Saugerties High School and attended Ulster County Community College. He was employed at Caldor's Department Store in Kingston area.

Wade and Barents were also enlisted under the U.S. Army Buddy Program and will take their basic training together at Fort Dix, N. J.

Unimpressed With Soviets SAMs

Upstate Pilot Leaving Thailand

By PETER O'LOUGHLIN

KORAT AIR BASE, Thailand (AP) — Maj. Donald C. Windrath, after 100 missions against North Vietnam is going home unimpressed with the Soviet SAM or surface to air missile.

The Rome, N.Y., pilot is one of the U.S. Air Force's expert SAM killers and has had dozens of the flying telegraph poles fired at him.

Not Even a Hole

Windrath, 39, is an F105 Thunderchief fighter pilot whose job was to fly "SAM suppression" while his bomb-laden buddies swooped into low over targets.

In other words, he was a decoy.

"We just fly along waiting for the SAMS to come up then we get them," he said.

How they get the SAMS is a tactical secret but it's known that SAMS run out of control if they are forced to chase a plane toward the ground. If the target dives and goes into violent evasive maneuvers the missile is drawn away from the main bomber force.

"It's sporty," said Windrath. "Your reflexes have to be good.

"I have had three or four come to close, and once I had one in my gunsights that I could have shot down.

"It had had a malfunction and was traveling only about 400 knots, but I was too busy looking for the other ones to shoot at it."

Fighter Pilot 14 Years

Windrath, married with two children, has been a fighter pilot 14 years. He completed his 100-mission tour Wednesday and joined the fighter pilot's execlusive 100 mission club. Chances of joining the club bear a ratio to the fact the United States has lost more than 750 aircraft over North Vietnam. Many of them were from Korat and the other air bases in Thailand.

In his six months' tour in Thailand, Windrath has seen two of his flight leaders and many close friends shot down.

One of the flight leaders was picked up by rescue helicopter. The other was taken prisoner.

Korat, the biggest F105 base in Thailand, also recently lost Col. Edward Burdett, commander of the 388th Tactical Fighter Wing and Col. John Flynn, the vice commander.

"That's one thing I'll remember about this war," said Windrath, who returns home next month.

"We've got the best commanders in the business. They don't ask you to do anything they won't do themselves. They go right in with the fellows. That's how we lost Burdett and Flynn."

State LWV Urges Updating Of New York Constitution

The League of Women Voters of New York State requests the creation of a non-partisan Temporary State Commission, composed of outstanding civic minded citizens, to propose amendments to modernize the New York State Constitution.

Mrs. Anies, president of the N.Y. State League, maintains this the non-partisan approach of a temporary commission, adequately staffed and financed, would provide the best vehicle for achieving a modern charter to meet the future needs of New Yorkers.

Mrs. Anies sent the following letter to Gov. Nelson A Rockefeller, Speaker Anthony Travia, and Temporary Senate President Earl W. Brydges:

"Public discussions and debate before, during and after the recent Convention made clear the need for substantial revision of New York's archaic Constitution. Many factors contributed to the defeat of the proposed Constitution but satisfaction with the present document was not one of them. Since Election Day many efforts have been launched to revive some provision of the defeated charter and achieve reforms rejected or ignored by the Convention.

"The current impetus towards Constitutional revisions should not be lost but public support cannot be expected if the approach is partisan, hasty or ill conceived. The League of Women Voters believes that what is needed is a Temporary State Commission composed of outstanding, public spirited citizens, appointed on a non-partisan basis and adequately staffed and financed.

"Such a commission could give immediate and sustained attention to studying, developing and recommending to the Legislature amendments to the Constitution which will enable our State and local governments to meet the needs of the people in the latter half of the 20th century. These should include both proposals contained in the defeated Constitution which commanded public support as well as needed reforms with which the Convention did not deal. Such a Commission would enable the Legislature to submit proposed amendments to the people efficiently and expeditiously and, through public hearing and otherwise, provide a rallying point for the many individuals and organizations which worked so hard and hoped for so much from the Constitutional Convention.

"A higher caliber, non-partisan Temporary Commission on Constitutional Revision is necessary to salvage the benefits of the long and costly Convention. We urge you to exert your best efforts to bring about its appointment." The statement concluded.

Woodstock
League Plans Social, Business Meeting Monday

Woodstock League of Women Voters will hold an eggnog party in conjunction with their December general membership meeting Monday, at Deanie's. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p. m. to afford time for a social gathering, after which the business portion of the meeting will begin.

Michael Boyle, a teacher at the Bennett School who directs the summer "Head Start" program in the Onteora Central School district, will talk about the project supported by the Office of Economic Opportunity. He will tell how the "Head Start" program was put in force, whether it should be changed or expanded and how.

Advent Begins Sunday at Lutheran Church

The Advent season, a period of preparation for Christmas, will begin Sunday at Christ's Lutheran Church with the administration of the Sacrament of Holy Communion.

"Prepare the Way" will be the title of the meditation by the Rev. Norman Krapf, pastor. Services are held in the fellowship hall with a nursery for preschool children available during the service.

Services will be resumed in the church building in the very near future as the installation of a new heating unit in the church will be completed in the early part of December.

First Communion

Overlook Methodist Church will observe its first Communion Service Sunday in its new church.

Classes will be held at 9:30 a.m. for first grade through adult, with kindergarten and nursery at 11 a.m.

The Rev. James W. Cook baptized Robin Diane Olsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rolf Olsen, and Scott Alan Bonestell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Bonestell, during worship services Nov. 26.

God the Only Cause and Creator will be the subject of a sermon at the Christian Science Church Sunday.

Legion Auxiliary

The regular meeting of Woodstock American Legion Auxiliary will be held at the American Legion Hall Tuesday at 8 p.m.

A report on the annual Veteran's Day turkey dinner sponsored by the American Legion Post and Auxiliary will be heard.

Last Revolutionary War benefit payment was made in 1911.

Have Poison Glands

JESSIE P. ALLAN

Honor Memory In Dedication At Hospital

Room 171 at The Kingston Hospital has been dedicated to the memory of Miss Jessie P. Allan, R.N., who served as administrator from 1925 to 1949. A bronze plaque attesting to that fact has been placed at the entrance to the semi-private room.

Miss Allan, a native of Dundee, Scotland, came to this country to live with cousins in Brooklyn, while very young. She completed her nurses' training in New York City.

In World War I she became the youngest chief nurse to go overseas with the American Expeditionary Forces to France in charge of a base hospital unit. She came to Kingston in February, 1926. She retired as administrator in February, 1949.

Although past retirement age, Miss Allan remained active, serving a number of years as secretary at the Old Dutch Church, and then as receptionist at the then Homeseekers' Savings and Loan Association, which later became First Federal Savings and Loan Association. She was an active volunteer worker with the Ulster County TB and Health Association until her death in February, 1964.

Soviet Divorces Rise, Says Philosophy Prof

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has growing problems with divorce and broken homes, a Soviet philosophy teacher says, and he gives a main cause as a failure by young people to see the difference between sex and love.

The broken homes result in "new cases of hooliganism, drunkenness and other social ills," teacher U. Sidorenko wrote Friday in Komsomolskaya Pravda, voice of the Communist Youth League.

He also blamed a "loss of feelings" and charged that Soviet schools encourage children to be overly cold and rational, rather than "cultivating emotions."

In a Volga farm region northeast of Moscow, he indicated, 26 per cent of all marriages ended in divorce last year, a sharp jump from 16 per cent the year before.

While giving a frank look at family problems that usually are hushed up in the Soviet Union, Sidorenko did not report the national divorce rate. He said that, in general, "the relative number of divorces is growing."

Up-to-date national figures are hard to come by. The most recent official statistic, for 1965, shows 18.2 per cent of Soviet marriages ending on the rocks.

Sidorenko's comparable 1965 figure for the Kostroma area was 16 per cent.

A Soviet scientist said last year, in reporting an earlier rate of 11 per cent, that most divorces were caused by drunkenness.

A new law last year making divorce easier was another factor possibly explaining the rapid rise in the reported rate, observers said.

In America about one out of every four marriages ends in divorce.

"Love lies at the basis of any great accomplishments," Sidorenko said, adding: "One way or another, man's happiness is connected with sex questions."

Soviet young people think love is the basis for their marriages, he said, "but far from everyone who gets married for what he thought was love really felt this lofty emotion.

Alas, very frequently a person turns out to be unprepared and considers love to be the ordinary sex impulse."

Sideorenko called for special-marriage-preparation courses, to be taught in the second year of the Soviet equivalent of college.

He did not elaborate, but presumably the course would include sex education, a controversial subject here. He complained that high schools avoid this 'extremely delicate" subject.

The Soviet Union has experimented in a few cities with requiring six-month waiting periods for engaged couples before they marry, to see if their feelings can stand the test of time.

Sidorenko said another problem affecting the divorce rate was the hardship over Soviet women, most of whom work to supplement their husband's relatively low wages.

Eight From County Enlist For Army Duty in November

Sgt. Edward Keene, Local Army Recruiting Sergeant for Ulster County, has announced the following eight enlistments into the U.S. Army this November.

They were:

Thomas J. Murphy, formerly of Massachusetts and employed by IBM of Kingston, has enlisted for a four year period into the U.S. Army Security Agency to carry on in the field of programming.

Richard L. Nardone, son of Louis and Norma Nardone of 16 Josephine Avenue, enlisted for a three-year period with a letter of acceptance for training and duty with the U.S. Army Bands. Prior to enlistment he was graduated from Kingston High School and was active with music and a choral organization in the Kingston area.

Lowell Robert Dutcher of Fox Hollow Road, Shandaken, son of Lowell and Sadie Dutcher enlisted for a three-year period with a guarantee of training in the U.S. Army Engineer Heavy Equipment Operation and Maintenance Program. Prior to enlistment he was graduated from Onteora High School and was employed in the Kingston area.

John H. O'Meara III, son of John and Frances O'Meara of Route 28, Phoenicia, enlisted for a three-year period with a guarantee of training in the U.S. Army Engineer Heavy Equipment Operation and Maintenance Program. Prior to enlistment he had attended Onteora High School and was employed in the Phoenicia area. Dutcher and O'Meara enlisted in the Army Buddy Program and will receive their basic training together at Fort Dix, N. J.

Ernest C. Renn Jr., son of Ernest Sr. and Agnes Renn of 22 North Street, enlisted for a three-year period with a guarantee of training in the U.S. Army Administrative Field. Prior to enlistment, he was graduated from Kingston High School and was employed with the U.S. Post Office Department in Kingston. He will take his eight weeks of basic training at Fort Dix, N. J.

Stephen J. Stokes, son of Vincent J. and Dorothy Stokes of Kingston, enlisted for a period of two years in the Regular Army without assignment, and will take his training at Fort Dix, N. J., and probable assignment in the clerical field.

Robert J. Wade Jr., son of Robert and Margaret Wade of 17 Livingston Street, Saugerties, enlisted for a three-year period with a guarantee of training in the U.S. Army Engineer Heavy Equipment Operation and Maintenance Program. Prior to enlistment, he was graduated from Saugerties High School and was employed with the Colonial Coal Yards.

Thomas A. Barents, son of Douglas and Marcella Barents of 58 Lamb Street, Saugerties, enlisted for a four-year period with a guarantee of assignment in the U.S. Army Security Agency. Prior to enlistment he was graduated from Saugerties High School and attended Ulster County Community College. He was employed at Caldor's Department Store in Kingston area.

Wade and Barents were also enlisted under the U.S. Army Buddy Program and will take their basic training together at Fort Dix, N. J.

Unimpressed With Soviets SAMs

By PETER O'LOUGHLIN

KORAT AIR BASE, Thailand (AP) — Maj. Donald C. Windrath, after 100 missions against North Vietnam is going home unimpressed with the Soviet SAM or surface to air missile.

The Rome, N.Y., pilot is one of the U.S. Air Force's expert SAM killers and has had dozens of the flying telegraph poles fired at him.

Not Even a Hole

Windrath, 39, is an F105 Thunderchief fighter pilot whose job was to fly "SAM suppression" while his bomb-laden buddies swooped into low over targets.

In other words, he was a decoy.

"We just fly along waiting for the SAMS to come up then we get them," he said.

How they get the SAMS is a tactical secret but it's known that SAMS run out of control if they are forced to chase a plane toward the ground. If the target dives and goes into violent evasive maneuvers the missile is drawn away from the main bomber force.

"It's sporty," said Windrath. "Your reflexes have to be good.

"I have had three or four come to close, and once I had one in my gunsights that I could have shot down.

"It had had a malfunction and was traveling only about 400 knots, but I was too busy looking for the other ones to shoot at it."

Fighter Pilot 14 Years

Windrath, married with two children, has been a fighter pilot 14 years. He completed his 100-mission tour Wednesday and joined the fighter pilot's exclusive 100 mission club. Chances of joining the club bear a ratio to the fact the United States has lost more than 750 aircraft over North Vietnam. Many of them were from Korat and the other air bases in Thailand.

In his six months' tour in Thailand, Windrath has seen two of his flight leaders and many close friends shot down.

One of the flight leaders was picked up by rescue helicopter. The other was taken prisoner.

Korat, the biggest F105 base in Thailand, also recently lost Col. Edward Burdett, commander of the 388th Tactical Fighter Wing and Col. John Flynn, the vice commander.

"That's one thing I'll remember about this war," said Windrath, who returns home next month.

"We've got the best commanders in the business. They don't ask you to do anything they won't do themselves. They go right in with the fellows. That's how we lost Burdett and Flynn."

State LWV Urges Updating Of New York Constitution

The League of Women Voters of New York State requests the creation of a non-partisan Temporary State Commission, composed of outstanding civic minded citizens, to propose amendments to modernize the New York State Constitution.

Mrs. Ames, president of the N.Y. State League, maintains that the non-partisan approach of a temporary commission, adequately staffed and financed, would provide the best vehicle for achieving a modern charter to meet the future needs of New Yorkers.

Mrs. Ames sent the following letter to Gov. Nelson A Rockefeller, Speaker Anthony Travia, and Temporary Senate President Earl W. Brydges:

"Public discussions and debate before, during and after the recent Convention made clear the need for substantial revision of New York's archaic Constitution. Many factors contributed to the defeat of the proposed Constitution but satisfaction with the present document was not one of them. Since Election Day many efforts have been launched to revive some provision of the defeated charter and achieve reforms rejected or ignored by the Convention.

"The current impetus towards Constitutional revisions should not be lost but public support cannot be expected if the approach is partisan, hasty or ill conceived. The League of Women Voters believes that what is needed is a Temporary State Commission composed of outstanding, public spirited citizens, appointed on a non-partisan basis and adequately staffed and financed.

"Such a commission could give immediate and sustained attention to studying, developing and recommending to the Legislature amendments to the Constitution which will enable our State and local governments to meet the needs of the people in the latter half of the 20th century. These should include both proposals contained in the defeated Constitution which commanded public support as well as needed reforms with which the Convention did not deal. Such a Commission would enable the Legislature to submit proposed amendments to the people efficiently and expeditiously and, through public hearing and otherwise, provide a rallying point for the many individuals and organizations which worked so hard and hoped for so much from the Constitutional Convention.

"A higher caliber, non-partisan Temporary Commission on Constitutional Revision is necessary to salvage the benefits of the long and costly Convention. We urge you to exert your best efforts to bring about its appointment," The statement concluded.

Some tropical millepedes and centipedes have glands along their sides charged with prussic acid and can inflict a painful wound to human beings.

JESSIE P. ALLAN

Honor Memory In Dedication At Hospital

Room 171 at The Kingston Hospital has been dedicated to the memory of Miss Jessie P. Allan, R.N., who served as administrator from 1925 to 1949.

A bronze plaque attesting to that fact has been placed at the entrance to the semi-private room.

Miss Allan, a native of Dundee, Scotland, came to this country to live with cousins in Brooklyn while very young. She completed her nurses' training in New York City.

In World War I she became the youngest chief nurse to go overseas with the American Expeditionary Forces to France in charge of a base hospital unit. She came to Kingston in February, 1926. She retired as administrator in February, 1949.

Although past retirement age, Miss Allan remained active, serving a number of years as secretary at the Old Dutch Church, and then as receptionist at the then Homeseekers' Savings and Loan Association, which later became First Federal Savings and Loan Association. She was an active volunteer worker with the Ulster County TB and Health Association until her death in February, 1964.

Soviet Divorces Rise, Says Philosophy Prof

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has growing problems with divorce and broken homes, a Soviet philosophy teacher says, and he gives a main cause as a failure by young people to see the difference between sex and love.

The broken homes result in "new cases of hooliganism, drunkenness and other social ills," teacher U. Sidorenko wrote Friday in Komsomolskaya Pravda, voice of the Communist Youth League.

He also blamed a "loss of feelings" and charged that Soviet schools encourage children to be overly cold and rational, rather than "cultivating emotions."

In a Volga farm region northeast of Moscow, he indicated, 26 per cent of all marriages ended in divorce last year, a sharp jump from 16 per cent the year before.

While giving a frank look at family problems that usually are hushed up in the Soviet Union, Sidorenko did not report the national divorce rate. He said that, in general, "the relative number of divorces is growing."

Up-to-date national figures are hard to come by. The most recent official statistic, for 1965, shows 18.2 per cent of Soviet marriages ending on the rocks. Sidorenko's comparable 1965 figure for the Kostroma area was 16 per cent.

A Soviet scientist said last year, in reporting an earlier rate of 11 per cent, that most divorces were caused by drunkenness.

A new law last year making divorce easier was another factor possibly explaining the rapid rise in the reported rate, observers said.

In America about one out of every four marriages ends in divorce.

"Love lies at the basis of any great accomplishments," Sidorenko said, adding: "One way or another, man's happiness is connected with sex questions."

Soviet young people think love is the basis for their marriages, he said, "but far from everyone who gets married for what he thought was love really felt this lofty emotion.

Alas, very frequently a person turns out to be unprepared and considers love to be the ordinary sex impulse."

Sideorenko called for special marriage-preparation courses, to be taught in the second year of the Soviet equivalent of college.

He did not elaborate, but presumably the course would include sex education, a controversial subject here. He complained that high schools avoid this 'extremely delicate" subject.

The Soviet Union has experimented in a few cities with requiring six-month waiting periods for engaged couples before they marry, to see if their feelings can stand the test of time.

Sidorenko said another problem affecting the divorce rate was the hardship over Soviet women, most of whom work to supplement their husband's relatively low wages.

Peter and Charley Stage Front

Wending its way Upstate from New York City this week came one of the most complex flying apparatuses ever designed. It was being imported for the big holiday production of "Peter Pan" which is due this weekend at Playhouse-on-the-Hudson.

The Julie Stein and Betty Comdon musical version of James Barrie's "Peter Pan," and the George Abbott and Frank Loesser version of "Charley's Aunt," retitled "Where's Charley?" will be the first professional productions of top Broadway musicals slated for runs at the newly opened Playhouse during the month of December. Each will enjoy a three week's run, with "Pan" opening today and "Charley" due to bow Wednesday, Dec. 6.

Director Neil Love, of the Playhouse at Cornwall-on-Hudson, says that "Pan," which starred Mary Martin in Broadway and television versions, will open today with a cast of more than 30, including 15 children recruited locally. It will play matinee performances every Saturday and Wednesday, except during the Christmas school holidays, when it will run every afternoon at 2:30 p. m. An orchestra directed by Love will aument the musical numbers by Robin Douglas as Peter, Maureen Kelly as Wendy, Bob Crandell as John, and Newburgher Donald Cashman as Michael. When "Pan" closes Dec. 31, it will be followed by another children's special, Hansel and Gretel."

Cast is 20 Strong

As for "Where's Charley?"—the adult presentation for the holidays—Love is bringing a cast of more than 20 singers, dancers and actors to his stage for the first professional production of this musical in the area. Musical comedy buffs will remember Ray Bolger in the title role on Broadway, as well as the fact that his soft-shoe number in time to "Once in Love with Amy" made show-stopping theatrical history.

"Charley" will be seen for three weeks at the Playhouse-on-Hudson every Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, beginning Dec. 6, and will be staged in conjunction with a candlelight dinner at each performance.

Indeed, these candlelight dinners are what makes the neighboring Playhouse so unique. As Bob Crandell prepares to cavort in the Bolger role, cocktails and complimentary hors d'oevres will be served up in the theatre's new cocktail lounge—and dinner, featuring prime ribs of beef, will be offered in the theatre at 8 p. m. . . Curtain goes up promptly at 8:30 and, after the show, there's dancing in the sing-along bar.

Parking is no problem at the new complex which features a large lot directly opposite the theatre, a block long enterprise which rents out some of its space to other businesses. According to Love, plans are being made for a centre of performing arts at the location to assure professional theatre and theatre training in all its branches in the area.

Impressive Establishment

Those who attended the recent opening of this first proscenium dinner theatre in the country were impressed by the 250-seat showplace. Rows of seats have been converted into large tables where patrons dine by candlelight to dinner music played by Love on the piano. Cocktails at the bar and a buffet spread in the lobby added to the atmosphere until time came for the theatre's menu to be served. The cast ushers diners to their seats and, shortly, dinner begins in these unique surroundings.

On opening night, before the featured production of the evening, producer-director Love took the stage with champagne bottle in hand and poured glasses of the bubbly stuff for the audience. Love, incidentally, is a young man who has toured the country in the last few years, directing and producing similar theatres, including last summer's Candlelight Theatre in Goshen.

For the past two months, he has been applying his energies to refurbishing his new domain. Serving as seat upholsterer, electrician, wall painter and ice box mover, he seemed to be everywhere at once as he helped prepare the new playhouse as a year-round enterprise to offer musicals, plays and children's theatre. Beginning with a simple, four-character, oneset comedy, "Any Wednesday"—which starred Sandy Dennis on Broadway—the new Playhouse now plunges into complicated, many-charactered, several-sets musicals. All of which probably spells something really, really big, theatrically speaking, down at the Playhouse-on-the-Hudson.

Metropolitan Brings Rossini To Kingston and It's a Hit

Barber Is Really a 'Sharp' Guy

Over 900 junior and senior high school students from Kingston City Schools Consolidated were treated to a zestful performance of Rossini's The Barber of Seville recently at Kingston High School auditorium. The opera was presented in an abridged English version by Metropolitan Opera Studio under joint sponsorship of Lincoln Center and the Humanities Course of Kingston High School.

Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts, and the great institutions of which it is comprised presents opportunities for students to experience music, dance, and drama in "live" performance.

The total educational program of the Center works as a two-way street: it brings performances into the schools, and creates special opportunities for students to visit Lincoln Center and attend performances there. Performances in the schools have the advantage of reaching both students specially interested in the arts and those as yet unacquainted with them; performances a the Center provide opportunities for students to experience the arts in the professional atmosphere of theater and concert hall. It is hoped that these performance opportunities — both in schools and at the Center — will be utilized in connection with studies of the performing arts in the curriculum.

The Center itself aids the program through annual grants from the Lincoln Center Fund for Education and Creative Artistic Advancement, which was established through gifts from individuals, corporations and foundations. For the past four years the Lincoln Center Student Program has been conducted on a demonstration basis in schools of the New York metropolitan area. Now, with the co-sponsorshp of the State Educational Department, the program is made available to schools throughout the State. In cooperation of the State Education Department, the Kingston City Board of Education, and other educational groups, in making the riches of the performing arts available to young people.

Studio Young but Active

The Metropolitan Opear Studio was founded in 1960 by John Gutman, assistant manager and George Schick, music consultant, of the Metropolitan Opera Association, for the dual purpose of providing both an introduction to opera for young audiences, and an opportunity for young performers to appear frequently before an enthusiastic public. Under the artistic eye of the Metropolitan Opera and with financial support of the Lincoln Center Student Fund, the Studio has carried its productions of Cosi Fan Rutte, The Barber of Seville, Don Pasquale La Cenerentola and its new Introduction to Opera prpogram to nearly four hundred school auditoriums in the New York area during its first five seasons. A Holiday Treat Revived

Dutch Nicholas and Black Peter To Make Legendary Ride Locally

Over the centuries, birthdays are apt to be forgotten but not in the Netherlands, in British colonies, or in Kingston, a former Dutch colony which observes many of the traditions of the mother-country. December 5 is celebrated in these areas as the eve of the birthday of a man born either in the 4th or 6th century A.D.

He was a bishop named Nicholas who later was canonized and is known today as St. Nicholas. Actually, he was two bishops, Nicholas of Myra and Nicholas of Pinora, who became merged in the eyes of men as one identity. Originally the patron saint of sailors, the good saint gradually was accepted also as the patron saint of children and as a giver of gifts.

The Dutch children affectionately called him Sinterklass or, in translation, St. Nick, and as such the veneration of the saint was brought to the Hudson Valley by its earliest settlers. As New Netherland became British New York and finally a state of the United States of America, the Dutch word Sinterklass was corrupted into Santa Claus, the giver of gifts to all good American children today.

In this country, mostly, any tribute to the saint on Dec. 5 has been merged with a celebration of the birth of Jesus Christ on Dec. 25. The Dutch, however, hold separate celebrations, making St. Nick Eve a fun-filled, gift-giving time, while Christmas (Christ Mass) Day is a solumn, reverent day of religious thanksgiving.

Legend Explained

According to the old Dutch legend, on the eve of his birthday St. Nicholas would chain the Devil (known as Black Peter) and bring him along as his servant, riding across the sky on horseback in a visit to all countries where he was venerated. They would drop candy gifts down the chimneys of all good children, into their wooden shoes set out beside the fireplace. The Americans, formalizing the Santa Claus story into a newer tradition, dropped Black Peter, substituted a sleigh and eight tiny reindeer for the horses, sent St. Nick himself down the chimney to stuff presents into stockings "hung by the chimney with care" instead of wooden shoes, and moved the celebration from the 5th to Dec. 25.

The tradition in the Hudson Valley had languished in late years, until about 18 years ago, when the Old Dutch Church decided to re-emphasize this heritage of our past. Since then, every year on Dec. 5, as they will again this year, St. Nicholas and Black Peter ride their horses through the streets of Kingston, distributing candy to the children of the community and terminating their ride at the church yard, corner of Wall and Main Street where, in an open fronted house, the traditional Dutch family, in authentic costume, awaits the arrival of St. Nick. The church on this night serves as host to the whole community, particularly the children, and has each year cordially invited all to attend the event.

The Dutch Nicholas of today is clothed in a scarlet bishop's robe, his head surmounted with a miter and carrying a crosier, and he wears a long white beard. He is accompanied by Black Peter, garbed in puffed velvet breeches, a silken doublet and a plumed beret of the 16th century and carrying a bundle of birch rods in his hand. Tradition says that good boys and girls get a present from St. Nicholas while bad boys and girls either get a switching from Black Peter or are popped into his bag to be carried back to Spain. Black Peter is supposed to have listened down the chimneys all year long to check on the behavior of children, but just to make sure, St. Nick questions each child to whom he speaks.

At bedtime, wooden shoes are placed by the fireplace in every Dutch home and stuffed with hay and a lump of sugar and a carrot for St. Nick's horse. The next morning, there is no question of the miracle that has been accomplished for there is plainly visible nt in the shoe, and since the hay is gone, the Saint's steed must indeed have been hungry on his visit.

The public is invited to attend this festive and entertaining event, Dec. 5 at 7 p. m. All are invited to follow St. Nicholas and Black Pete along the route of travel. Weather permitting, St. Nick will begin his ride at Britts in the Kingston Shopping Plaza, proceeding from the plaza up the Fair Street hill to Main Street, turning right into Wall Street, and on to the Old Dutch churchyard.

In case of inclement weather St. Nick will proceed from the plaza to the entrance of Clinton Avenue, then to Main and Wall Street, to the Old Dutch Church yard.

So that all viewing the event will be able to enjoy it to the fullest, the story, being read to the Dutch children, will be amplified from the church tower.

St. Nick will arrive at the little Dutch house in the churchyard at approximately 7:15 p. m. All in all, this sounds like one special holiday event that no youngster in Ulster County will want to miss.

Christmas Exhibit

Becoming a local tradition is not the easiest of tasks, but the Woodstock Artists Association, over the years, has managed to make its Christmas Exhibition a truly spectacular highlight of the holidays. Those who agree that the Thanksgiving feast signals the start of the Christmas shopping rush also readily admit that the WAA smorgasbord of art adds a special spice to the entire season.

This year's premiere party is slated for Saturday, Dec. 9, from 4 to 6 p. m., with hors d'oeuvres and cocktails promised. Also promised — a rare combination of art, conviviality and bargain hunting opportunities in an attraction which will boast original art works by more than 70 artists. Paintings, prints, drawings and sculpture will literally "wallpaper" the gallery, and many will make treasured and lasting gifts.

The opening gala has an extra added attraction in the choral group, Ars Choralis, which will sing renaissance music and carols under the direction of Beatrice Bright. Their informal appearance at the gallery should be a crowd pleaser and many have heard them know of the excellence and quality of their music.

With holiday decorations called for, the general decor of the gallery has been newly refurbished and painted, and artist Jim Turnbull and his wife, Pete, will augment and enhance the scene with masterful applications of pine boughs, holiday lights and paper mache constructions.

Because the WAA Christmas Show has proved so popular, this year's edition will boast a time span extension; will run Dec. 9 to 31, with the gallery open each day from 1 to 5 p. m. and on Friday and Saturday during the same hours, with an extra two hours in the evening, from 7 to 9.

Thomas Jefferson for many years kept detailed records of the weather at Monticello, his Virginia estate. For a time he compared his data with a friend's reports for Williamsburg.

A Holiday Treat Revived

Dutch Nicholas and Black Peter To Make Legendary Ride Locally

Over the centuries, birthdays are apt to be forgotten but not in the Netherlands, in British colonies, or in Kingston, a former Dutch colony which observes many of the traditions of the mother-country. December 5 is celebrated in these areas as the eve of the birthday of a man born either in the 4th or 6th century A.D.

He was a bishop named Nicholas who later was canonized and is known today as St. Nicholas. Actually, he was two bishops, Nicholas of Myra and Nicholas of Pinora, who became merged in the eyes of men as one identity. LEO DUROCHER A NBILL DANA helped to serve up some zany baseball this week when NBC-TV brought viewers the First Annual All Star-Celebrity Softball Game. Durocher coached show biz hitters and Dana played on team which included comic Don Adams of "Get Smart" and Steve Allen and James Garner. Striking out but having fun for Milton Berle's pro team was Willie Mays, but Maury Wills and Don Drysdale helped their side to a close win.

AND BEAUTIFUL ELKE SOMMER soothed the fevered brow of Bob Hope after a tough football game played on the comedian's show over NBC one night later on video. Game from which Hope emerged bloody, bandaged and bruised originated at University of the City of Los Angeles. Despite other "injuries" sustained by the star, his famous "ski snoot" was unscathed and undamaged. Show, aside from entertainment, raised money for UCLA's scholarship

What's Happening on Television

We must be getting mellow in our middle-age. Never much of a Red Buttons admirer (even when he won that Oscar for "Sayonara"), we liked him fine on the Danny Thomas Hour's presentation of "The Zero Man" this week. He made the part he played, a down-and-out character — heavily in debt to loan sharks — totally believable.

And maybe it was because we watched it with the kids, who were obviously delighted with the shenanigans, but we even enjoyed the First Annual All Star-Celebrity Softball Game, filmed in Dodger Stadium last February. Closeups of coaches Leo Durocher and Milton Berle were fun viewing, as was the mound finesse of Eddie Feingner, the rarely beaten "throw 'em between the legs" pitcher of the famed softball team, The King and his Court.

If you own a color set, you must have agreed that Perry Como's Holiday Special Thursday night was a beautifully photographed threat for the eyes . . . and it wasn't too hard on the ears either, what with the Jefferson Airplane, Bobbie Gentry and Perry all doing their bits.

Pyramid Game

Later that night, we were fascinated by Dragnet 1968 which took an interesting look at how people can be swindled by luring them with promises of doubling their investment, then quadrupling it and so on in an impossible geometrical progression. It was the old "pyramid game" in a new guise in which members bought into an organization for $109.99 and got promises of big returns for every new member they brought in. Now that you've been forewarned, be forearmed.

TEMPO'S kudos this week also go to last night's Same Mud, Same Blood, with NBC's Frank McGee in charge of the most moving documentary on the Vietnam war — and the most chillingly realistic to date — that we've yet seen. This was blood and guts realism with a capital "R."

Previewing the week coming up on TV, TEMPO finds the networks have scheduled specials, movies, football and a new version of that old favorite, the National Drivers Test.

TONIGHT, Saturday, Dec. 2, Peter Palmer (L'il Abner) guests on the Jackie Gleason Show at 7:30 over CBS as a muscular boxer in a special musical story. Later, at 9 p. m., NBC will offer "The Brass Bottle" on Saturday Night at the movies, starring Barbara Eden of I Dream of Jeannie and Burl Ives as an amiable bumbler. Tony Randall's the young man who uncorks a sly old genie in this one.

On SUNDAY, Dec. 3, treat yourself to the Tennessee Ernie Ford Special on CBS Sat. 9 p.m. It's the good-natured singer-comedian's first telecast of the year and features Andy Griffith, Danny Thomas and The Supremes. All the dance crazes from the hoedown to the bugaloo will be illustrated and the good old days will be recalled by Ford Griffith and Thomas with blowups of pix from their family albums.

Sunday Night Movie on ABC at 9 p. m. has "King Rat," the 1965 film starring George Segal as a cold blooded con-man who wheels and deals his way through life in World War II. . . And NBC at 10 o'clock has America and the Americans, based on John Steinbeck's book of that title, with Henry Fonda narrating the myriad images of U.S.A. life from the lowest to the highest.

TRIO OF FAMOUS FACES will be seen on the Tennessee Ernie Ford Special to be televised on home screens during the coming week. All top favorites in the video business, they're (l-r) genial Andy Griffith, Ole Ern himself, and comedian Danny Thomas.

Highlight for MONDAY, Dec. 4, is — of course — Hallmark Hall of Fame's "St. Joan," previewed in this column lask week. It's on at 9 p. m. on NBC; stars newcomer Genevieve Bujold, Theodore Bikel, James Daly, Maurice Evans, Raymond Massey and others.

TUESDAY, Dec. 5, features "If a Man Answers" on Tuesday Night at the Movies over NBC at 9 p. m. Any claim to fame it might have had was lost on us when we learned it stars Sandra Dee and Bobby Darin.

We will be on hand, though — along with upwards of 50 or so million other viewers—when CBS offers the 1967 National Drivers Test at 10 o'clock. A new version of last year's effective audience-participation-analysis of driving knowledge and aptitude, it'll feature winter driving information.

One for the Kids

WEDNESDAY night's pickings on Dec. 6 include: "Aladin" with the Prince Street Players at 7:30 on CBS; Jack Paar and a Funny Thing Happened Everywhere at 9 p. m. on NBC; and "Casanova's Big Night," starring Bob Hope, Basil Rathbone and Joan Fontaine on Wednesday Night at the Movies at 9 p. m. on ABC.

THURSDAY, Dec. 7, is not for the selective or the intellectually prone. Ironside does have Victor Jory on NBC at 8:30 as a man who escaped from prison 17 years earlier and

"He starts out as a little rancher who gradually becomes the most powerful cattle baron in the world — raising the beef price tenfold! It's an adult western!"

Local Glee Club in 'Messiah'

Kingston's Mendelssohn Glee Club and the Community Mixed Chorus, which also has members from this area, will join forces with the Hudson Valley Little Symphony for a special holiday program next Wednesday. Both musical groups, with Albert G. Hunter Jr. directing the Glee Club, will appear at the First Baptist Church, Mill Street, Poughkeepsie, Dec. 6 at 8:30 p. m., when that unique and stirring oratorio, "The Messiah," is presented.

Those who know their oratorios know The Messiah has become a national institution over the years since it was written by George Frederic Handel in 1741. Historians say Handel sat at his desk in a tiny room in Hanover, England, never leaving his house once as he put notes for the oratorio on paper with astonishing speed. Although food was brought to him regularly, he rarely touched it; spent 23 days staring vacantly out the window or writing furiously. He was so moved by his own "Hallelujah Chorus" that tears streamed from his eyes when he finished this section.

So popular is The Messiah today that it has almost been forgotten that it was rejected in the beginning. Clergymen of the time were aghast at this oratorio, the only one of 20 which spilled from Handel's pen which had any connection with the Christian religion. Handel worked for its success, however, and persisted in giving an annual performance of The Messiah for the benefit of the Foundling Hospital, an institution for the poor and unfortunate to which he devoted much time and money.

CLAUDE MONTEUX CONDUCTS

Paralleling Handel's charitable leanings, the 120 members of the Community Mixed Chorus and the 45 male members of the Mendelssohn Glee Club will raise their voices in song to pay tribute to the achievements and ever-glowing importance of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society. The Poughkeepsie performance will benefit the Society's maintenance deficit fund.

This blending of generous spirit and superb musical contribution should make for a fine evening of theatrical entertainment. The fact that Claude Monteux will conduct can only add to its lustre.

Soloists will include Joan Mey, soprano and a graduate of Eastman School of Music who has appeared with the Robert Shaw Chorale, the Inter-Racial Chorus Concert Choir, and in Haydn's "Creation" with the Hudson Philharmonic last season. Also soloing will be Anne Graff, a native of Catskill and product of Juilliard School of Music, who has sung with the Albany Symphony Orchestra, Capitol Hill Choral Society and Troy Vocal Society, and has such appearances to her credit as soloist at the Center for the Performing Arts in Buffalo and with that city's productions of Amahl and the Night Visitors and Missa Solemnis.

The third soloist will be Martin Lies, who has appeared in more than 150 concerts in the U. S. and Canada and on the CBS-TV special, "If Not Higher," and oratorio by Sholom Secunda. Adept at oratorio or opera, he has sung with the New York Choral Society in Carnegie Hall and Lincoln Center, with the local Philharmonic in "Creation," and in such musicals as Student Prince, Song of Norway, The Most Happy Fellow and Show Boat.

The final solo performer will be John Anthony, who has appeared with Cleveland, Pittsburgh and New York symphonies and philharmonics. Seen locally in High Tor Opera's "The Jealous Husband," he has also performed with the Robert Shaw Chorale, Lake Erie Opera Company and the Chappaqua and Lake George operas.

Tickets for "The Messiah" may be purchased by calling the Hudson Valley Philharmonic.

'Life' To Have Special Effects

Residents of Kingston, Stone Ridge, High Falls, New Paltz, Highland and Poughkeepsie, who chanced to take the morning or afternoon sun one recent November Saturday in various waterfront locales in those communities, seemingly couldn't believe their eyes. Down the road came a caravan of cars, piled high with cameras and crews, and waving signs which bore the legend, 90 M.O.B. "on location."

The motorcade, usually more native to Hollywood than to Ulster or Dutchess County, marked another milestone in theater with Ninety Miles Off Broadway which was, just as the signs said, on location.

The man-behind-the-camera was Yura Karageorge, filming director, who's currently with the Actors Studio Playwright Unit, and who was bringing his troupe into area neighborhoods to entice locals to star in the special effects for "The Time of Your Life."

JOE RUNNER

This William Saroyan comedy, as announced in a previous issue of TEMPO, will be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 7, 8 and 9, at the Duzine Elementary School in New Paltz, as the latest thespian venture of Ninety Miles Off Broadway.

The volatile Joe Runner is directing "The Time of Your Life" and he comes to 90 Miles Off Broadway with 15 years of legitimate theater experience. Runner, sometimes known as "Canada Joe" around his own High Falls cabaret, is a graduate of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York City. He holds the enviable distinction of being the first actor to win the Ford Foundation Grant to actors.

In the past, he has been associated with the Cleveland Playhouse, the Alley Theater in Houston, Texas, and has trod the boards on the Arena Theater stage in Washington, D. C. In 1961 he toured with "Broadway U.S.A." to Greece, Turkey and Africa. Additionally, he has toured with the Carol Channing company in "The Millionaires."

New Yorkers have seen him in several off-Broadway shows and he starred on Toronto television in the program, "Sunshine Town." His directing stint with the New Paltz group will be added to a list of directorial tasks in all major U.S. cities, and he is handling it while also being involved in starting his own Clove Valley Theater in High Falls.

Runner's experience, complemented with the professional acting abilities of Time of Your Life's cast and the fact that the Saroyan play is an all-time American favorite, should make the Paltz production at the Duzine School next week a "time to remember."

Dance Concert

Vassar College Dance Theater will present a concert in Avery Hall on the college campus at Poughkeepsie tonight at 8:30 p. m. Area residents are cordially invited and no tickets are necessary.

Dances to be performed were choreographed by students who are members of the Dance Theater and by Mary-Jean Cowell, dance instructor. Fred Behringer, assistant in Drama, and Warren Tillou and Jim Ballinger, local dancers, will take part, as well as Vassar students.

Touring Exhibit Is Truly Original

TEMPO went south of Ulster this week to view a collection of original illustrated stories and poems by fourth grade children now on display at Mount Saint Mary College, Newburgh, through Dec. 17. The exhibition THINGS AND OTHER THINGS was selected from the works of children at the Laboratory Schools, University of Chicago, and is touring the United States under the auspices of the Smithsonian Institution, a fact which attracted us more than anything else.

There is a wide variety of literary subject matter and mood, augmented by strong, accomplished illustrations in crayon, watercolor and pen-and-ink. The title poem "Things," accompanied by a well-drawn portrait of a pensive little boy, reveals the author's inner joys in the discovery and contemplation of the world around him, we felt. "The Young Raccoon," a droll poem in the manner of Ogden Nash, is carefully illustrated with four drawings that would do credit to a children's book illustrator. The poem "Fog" has an abstract illustration that effectively complements its sensitive imagery. A disturbing poem about war injects the most serious note into the show — an intense work in free verse, strengthened by misspellings that are the only reminder that the author is a nine-year-old child. In some cases, the child illustrated his own work; in others, another child contributed the drawing. This exhibit will be on display in the college library from 1:30 a. m. to 9 p. m. Monday through Friday, 1-5 Saturday, and 12:30-4 Sunday. (T. G.).

In Major Role

Miss Veronica Culver, of Kingston and a member of the Senior Class at Mount Saint Mary College, Newburgh, had one of the leading roles in a recent stage production on campus. She appeared with the Roblore Players in a performance of Riders to the Sea, by John Milington Synge, staged as a "coffeehouse" production this past Wednesday and Thursday evenings in Aquinas Theater.

Miss Culver was cast in the part of Bartley and appeared with other cast members at a "Kaffeeklatch" informal discussion of the play with cast and audience before the curtain call in the college dining hall.

In the past, he has been associated with the Cleveland Playhouse, the Alley Theater in Houston, Texas, and has trod the boards on the Arena Theater stage in Washington, D. C. In 1961 he toured with "Broadway U.S.A." to Greece, Turkey and Africa. Additionally, he has toured with the Carol Channing company in "The Millionaires."

New Yorkers have seen him in several off-Broadway shows and he starred on Toronto television in the program, "Sunshine Town." His directing stint with the New Paltz group will be added to a list of directorial tasks in all major U.S. cities, and he is handling it while also being involved in starting his own Clove Valley Theater in High Falls.

Runner's experience, complemented with the professional acting abilities of Time of Your Life's cast and the fact that the Saroyan play is an all-time American favorite, should make the Paltz production at the Duzine School next week a "time to remember."

Dance Concert

Vassar College Dance Theater will present a concert in Avery Hall on the college campus at Poughkeepsie tonight at 8:30 p. m. Area residents are cordially invited and no tickets are necessary.

Dances to be performed were choreographed by students who are members of the Dance Theater and by Mary-Jean Cowell, dance instructor. Fred Behringer, assistant in Drama, and Warren Tillou and Jim Ballinger, local dancers, will take part, as well as Vassar students.

Touring Exhibit Is Truly Original

TEMPO went south of Ulster this week to view a collection of original illustrated stories and poems by fourth grade children now on display at Mount Saint Mary College, Newburgh, through Dec. 17. The exhibition THINGS AND OTHER THINGS was selected from the works of children at the Laboratory Schools, University of Chicago, and is touring the United States under the auspices of the Smithsonian Institution, a fact which attracted us more than anything else.

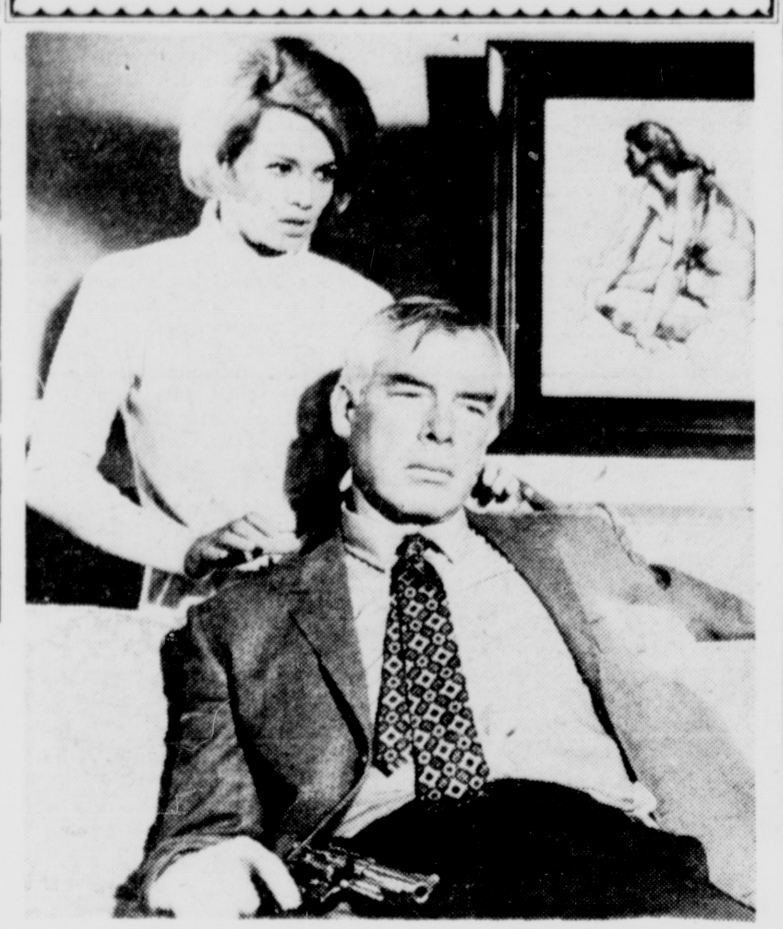
There is a wide variety of literary subject matter and mood, augmented by strong, accomplished illustrations in crayon, watercolor and pen-and-ink. The title poem "Things," accompanied by a well-drawn portrait of a pensive little boy, reveals the author's inner joys in the discovery and contemplation of the world around him, we felt. "The Young Raccoon," a droll poem in the manner of Ogden Nash, is carefully illustrated with four drawings that would do credit to a children's book illustrator. The poem "Fog" has an abstract illustration that effectively complements its sensitive imagery. A disturbing poem about war injects the most serious note into the show — an intense work in free verse, strengthened by misspellings that are the only reminder that the author is a nine-year-old child. In some cases, the child illustrated his own work; in others, another child contributed the drawing. This exhibit will be on display in the college library from 1:30 a. m. to 9 p. m. Monday through Friday, 1-5 Saturday, and 12:30-4 Sunday. (T. G.).

In Major Role

Miss Veronica Culver, of Kingston and a member of the Senior Class at Mount Saint Mary College, Newburgh, had one of the leading roles in a recent stage production on campus. She appeared with the Roblore Players in a performance of Riders to the Sea, by John Milington Synge, staged as a "coffeehouse" production this past Wednesday and Thursday evenings in Aquinas Theater.

Miss Culver was cast in the part of Bartley and appeared with other cast members at a "Kaffeeklatch" informal discussion of the play with cast and audience before the curtain call in the college dining hall.

MOVIES



ANGIE DICKINSON AN LEE MARVIN start in "Point Blank," film drama revolving around a crime syndicate and now playing at Saugerties' Orpheum Theatre. Movie utilizes flashback techniques and psychedelic color with strob lights to keep up with fast pace set by Marvin as he hunts down a faithless wife and the mob that left him for dead and stole his money. Marvin is pluperfect in his role and fans should get a large boff out of the fact that the gangsters this time around are not Mafia types—but Nordic characters with Anglo-Saxon sounding names.

POITIER AND STUDENTS OF TO SIR WITH LOVE have moved from Kingston, where they broke box office records for three weeks, to the Rosendale Theatre and the Lyceum in Red Hook. It's been said that "everybody loves Sidney Poitier," and—if so—th[illegible] love him anew as a "cool" teacher in a "tough" London school. Racial prejudice gets raked over the coals, and music, humor and sentiment abound. Reading, geography and arithmetic take a back seat to lessons in manners, rock and roll dancing, how to make salads sans mayonnaise, and a trip to a museum that rates this year's Oscar for best color photography.

About the Cover

The cover photo for TEMPO this week was taken by Freeman staff photographer Bob Haines. Our lensman took his camera down to the shore of Rondout Creek, zeroed in on the site of a popular summertime swimming hole below the familiar span in Eddyville.

Light frost and left-over snow dotted the trees and banks and dappled the ropes slung over branches by local youngsters—ropes used for swinging, diving and falling into the water during the humid days of July and August. Only diving that's done today at the spot is done by the temperatures . . . and the now ghostly remnants of rope will have to wait out the months until the joyful yells of vacationing kids are heard throughout the land again next year.

Dean Honored

Harold L. Hodgkinson, Dean of Bard College, has been named an Honorary Member of the Executive Board of Delta Tau Kappa International Social Science Honor Society, by Dr. Joseph S. Roucek, its president. Dean Hodgkinson's nomination was made partly in recognition of the excellence of his recent book, Education, Interaction and Social Change, which Dr. Roucek calls "one of the best critical and sociological analyses of America's education." He is their youngest nominee.

Dean Hodgkinson has been away from the campus recently, speaking at St. Olaf's College in Northfield, Minn., where he had been invited to address a meeting of Woodrow Wilson, Kent and Danforth Fellows in the midwest, and also in Stillwater, Minnesota, at a meeting of the Midwest Dean's Association.

Marks to Hawaii

Jetting across the Pacific, Dr. Alfred H. Marks, professor of English at State University College, New Paltz, flew off to Hawaii recently to direct a study group on the literature of Asia and the Pacific.

The meeting was held Nov. 20-22 immediately preceding the Honolulu convention of the National Council of Teachers of English on Nov. 23-25. Dr. Marks had assistance from professors of Boston College and the University of Hawaii during the Study Group's daily five-hour sessions.

Dr. Marks is editor-in-chief of the periodical Literature East and West, published on the New Paltz campus. He has studied the Japanese language and has taught Japanese literature at Ohio State, Ball State and Indiana University, as well as at New Paltz. His translation of the novel Forbidden Colors, by Yukio Mishima, Japan's foremost author, will be issued by Alfred A. Knopf, Inc., in April of 1968.

Cantor Here

The holiday season is a musical season and concerts are taking over a large portion of TEMPO's pages these days. To a lengthy list of upcoming musical entertainments between now and Christmas, readers should add the appearance of Cantor Ritter at Kingston's Ahavath Israel synagogue on Dec. 10 at 8 p. m.

Cantor Ritter, who will be sponsored locally by the Men's Club, is a regularly featured performer on radio stations WPIX, WTTG and WEVD, and has been praised for "one of the finest tenor voices in the country today."

"Who's Who in the World of Music" has this to say about Chaskele Ritter:

"Born on the Lower East Side of New York and at the age of 18 acclaimed one of the most promising of American Cantors. During World War II served in the armed forces in the Philippines. Has sung at New York World's Fair, Madison Square Garden and New York's Town Hall as well as in many cities in the United States. Has appeared on the stage with Jackie Mason, Theodore Kikel, Alan King, Corbett Monica, Ed Sullivan and Anthony Quinn. Also appeared at the Levittown Arena with Senator Robert Kennedy."

Cantor Ritter, who is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Jacobs, 215 Ten Broeck Avenue, Kingston, will bring his chorus of 10 voices to Kingston this month. The Ahavath Israel concert will offer songs of Israel and Ireland, as well as several operatic and popular selections.

Tickets for the concert are currently available at Rafalowsky's men's shop and the Smart Shop in Kingston, at Paramont Pharmacy in Saugerties, and at Langer's Pharmacy in West Hurley.

GUNDARIS PONE

Concerts and lectures in Western Europe have marked the past several months for musician-composer Gundaris Pone, associate professor of music at State University College, New Paltz.

Pone is now in Venice working with Italian composer Luigi Nono and writing a new work for four symphony orchestras. The Paltz composer's primary interest is in "new" music.

In Belgium and Sweden this summer he performed his composition "Montage-Demontage" at public concerts with pianist Robert Mumper, also of the College music staff. Pone also delivered a public lecture in Stockholm on "Silence-Time-Sound" and a radio talk in Munich on "New Problems in Musical Composition."

Press reviews in Belgium, Sweden, and Germany, and other articles about his theories and compositions have followed his performances on the Continent.

Several Pone works have been presented at New Paltz as well as in metropolitan areas and at universities throughout the United States.

His "Klavierwerk II" was performed by Robert Mumper at the College Theater recently. The composition was written last year and incorporates aleatoric and serial composition techniques. It requires two players, one of whom plays "inside" the piano on the strings.

In 1931, 279 kidnapings were reported to have taken place in the United States, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Engaged by Met

The Metropolitan Opera recently released a roster of its newly engaged singers and the list includes several operatic stars who are present or former members of Turnau Opera Players of Woodstock.

Among those who have been heard in Turnau performances in the past and will now be heard on the Metropolitan's stage:

Soprano Mary Ellen Pracht, mezzo-sopranos Rosalind Hupp, Shirley Love and Nancy Williams, tenor George Shirley, and baritone Theodore Lambrinos. Turnau is also proud of the fact that many current members of its company are now with the Metropolitan Opera Studio and the New York City Center.

The Enchanted

An absorbing and humorous adventure of citizens who live in a community where it is no longer respectable to be unhappy will enliven the stage of Harkaway Theater at Millbrook's Bennett College tonight. Slated for an 8 p. m. performance is "The Enchanted" by Jean Giraudoux, and this evening's show will mark the final production of the play, which was also seen Thursday and Friday nights.

Trying on a Precedent

One of the most unique concerts to ever establish a local precedent will be presented tonight when Ars Choralis, of Woodstock, offers a program of music and poetry. It is the aim of the art colony choral group to point the way toward similar future productions of the same type, both locally and regionally, with this offering.

What will make the concert different is the fact that the general atmosphere and style of presentation is designed to reproduce that which held sway during the period in which the music and poetry on the program was created. This would be the Renaissance Era and, as was done then, the concert will feature a relaxed atmosphere of tables, candlelight, refreshments and, sometimes, audience participation.

Madrigals will be sung by the full chorus, directed by Beatrice Bright, in a manner rarely used in contemporary concerts, which many feel are marked by rigid performance and rigid listening. In addition to works by the full chorus, other music on the program will be sung in quartet and sextet to the accompaniment of piano and recorder. John Kehrl, whose excellent speaking voice has been heard on other occasions in the area, will read from Renaissance poetry, which will be correlated with the music to be sung.

Tonight's concert offers an unusual evening—and one hopefully prophetic of things to come. The public is invited to attend this innovational performance tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the auditorium of St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, Route 212, Woodstock. Tickets will be available at the door.

Theatre School

Hudson Valley Repertory School of the Theatre announces its second session of the year to begin Saturday, Dec. 9.

Harold Baldridge, artistic director of the area company, will teach classes in basic speech development, acting and movement. Classes are offered to both adults and children and rates charged per class are considered inexpensive. The second session will consist of 10 weekly classes, and no previous experience or training is necessary. Popular demand could also guarantee a once-a-week evening Scene class in Kingston, in addition to the classes at the Woodstock Playhouse.

Those interested should write to Hudson Valley Repertory Theatre, School of Theatre, PO Box 268, Woodstock, or telephone the box office of the Woodstock Playhouse during business hours.

Pops Concert at Paltz

A "Pops" concert featuring the 55 piece Wind Ensemble, the 19 piece jazz Band and smaller ensembles of State University College, New Paltz will be presented for the public Thursday, Dec. 7 at 8:30 p. m. in the college's newly named McKenna Theater.

Works ranging from the pops library of Henry Mancini to jazz tunes of Duke Ellington will be presented under the leadership of W. Larry Brentzel, Conductor of bands at New Paltz.

Brentzel came to the college in 1966 and since that time has built the Wind Ensemble from 15 to 55 pieces and formed the College Jazz Band, which became the first instrumental ensemble to accept an off-campus engagement. The band played at Sullivan County Community College last winter and its performance has resulted in numerous requests for the appearance of this and other college music groups.

The college recently announced that the State University of New York Board of Thustees had approved the naming of the College Theater in honor of Rebecca McKenna, dramatics teacher at New Paltz from 1931 to 1952 and founder of the New Paltz Players and the College's Ushers Guild. Miss McKenna died this spring

RVCS Creates Art Committee

A newly created committee, on Arts in the Curriculum, has been set up this year in Rondout Valley Central School District, and has established three initial goals for 1967-68. Specifically, the committee aims to: introduce or expand the effect and importance of the performing and visual arts in the curriculum; create an exchange of activities throughout the district; and involve the community both in viewing and in participating.

It is felt that children's creative activities and teacher productions often go unrecognized in the district. In order to bring these efforts and accomplishments into proper focus, all teachers in the district are being requested to fill out survey sheets, listing their creative projects for the year. They are also asked to give opinions as to whether any projected activity would be of benefit to students outside of the particular class or building, or of interest to the community.

Nine teachers comprise the Arts in the Curriculum Committee: Mrs. Kay Oates, Mrs. Jessie Carr, Miss Jeanne Frick, Mr. Dixon McGrath, Mr. Lee Herrington, Miss Evelyn Voss, Miss Sherry Smith, Mrs. Linda Plain, and Mrs. Kay Wagenfohr.

Things begin looking up again on FRIDAY, Dec. 8. The G.E. Fantasy Hour presents "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer," with Burl Ives on NBC at 7:30. NBC has an American Profile on "The Forgotten Peninsula" at 10 p. m., with noted naturalist Joseph Wood Krutch touring the 800-mile-long Mexican stretch. And, from 10:45 to 11:15, CBS previews Lynda Bird Johnson's nuptials in "A White House Wedding."

Viewers who tune in regularly for telecasts on educational channels would check their local stations for NET Journal, which will present "A Conversation with Richard Nixon," and for Your Dollar's Worth, which digs into the difficult subject of "Medical Care: Where Does It Hurt?" New York's factory-like Bellevue Hospital is scrutinized, as is the personal touch of a general practitioner in a small Massachusetts community. (T. G.)

THIS RECENT PAINTING by Woodstock artist Leo Garel is one of 35 watercolors and gouaches which will be exhibited in his one-man show at New York's Cober Gallery from Dec. 5-20. Entitled "Storm," it illustrates why Garel has been praised for his creativity, vision, feeling and intuition. A seer of sensitivity and discpline, Garel uses broad, sometimes blocky strokes of a thick brush to endow his pictures with deep mystery and a magical sensuous presence. A long-time Woodstock resident, he teaches art at the Austen Riggs Center, Stockbridge, Mass., and has had seven previous one-man exhibitions. Among other works which will be seen at the Cober are Quarry at Sunset, Near Hudson River, Moon over Snow and Mountain Autumn.

Woodstock's Guild Fascinates

Only those who have never been to the Guild will be amazed at how very versatile the stock of gifts really is. Both men and women find many articles displayed which appeal to them. Males are intrigued by fireside benches and tables, wrought iron fireside fittings and book ends, by wooden boxes and desk sets, enameled jigger glasses, or a rare cobbler's bench. And the Guild is one place that writes finis to that old joke about Christmas neckties, for no man can resist the famous handmade neckties offered here — neckties without which no Woodstocker, man or boy, can consider himself well-dressed . . . or dressed at all, for that matter.

For the delight of the ladies, the Guild has ceramic vases, planters, tiles and sculpture. Also, cheese trays, cutting boards, lazy susans and place mats. Or stained glass in window plaques, hand knit socks for the men in their lives, and Christmas decorations for the home. Any woman would want to send her husband back for any one of the items in the jewelry cases . . . and most are not above hinting they'd like a ring or necklace from Guild under their Christmas tree. The shining display of ornaments in gold, silver, ceramics and enamels by the Guild's highly original craftsmen never fails to draw a response from any woman who visits the Woodstock shop.

After you've bought those rock records for your teenage daughter elsewhere, you'll want to try the Guild for sweaters, bags, scarves and ski hats. Nor has the Guild forgotten the younger generation, for there is a profusion of unique toys everywhere on its counters and shelves, including felt animals, bean bags and beautiful books.

The Guild is ready for Christmas shoppers and it specializes in unique wrappings to attract the eye when a Guild gift shows up under a family tree for the Yule ceremony. Since the season of Noel is not far off and is approaching at a fast reindeer's trot, the Guild is one place that should be added to every shopper's prospective list of bargain sources.

lish translations, using simplified, portable scenery and lavish costumes, and supported by piano accompaniment — have helped to persuade over 350,000 young people that opera can be both understandable and entertaining; and the experience and confidence gained in repeated performances of a few roles have helped thirteen young singers to find places on the Metropolitan's own roster of principal artists.

Highlights in the brief history of the Studio include, in addition to performances with orchestra of two productions at Philharmonic Hall, a tour of the mid-West under sponsorship of Life magazine, two tours of New York State supported by the State Council on the Arts, and an appearance in the White House at the request of Mrs. John F. Kennedy to inaugurate her Youth Series for children of Washington's diplomatic corps.

The opera seen in Kingston, The Barber of Seville, is the most popular of Rossini's more than 30 operas. It was premiered in Rome in 1816, the year after Napoleon's defeat at Waterloo.

The libretto is taken from the successful 18th century play of the same name by the French playwright, Beaumarchais. The sequel to this play, The Marriage of Figaro, was set to music by Mozart. The story of The Barber of Seville is typical of the stylized and formal comedies of this period and relies heavily on disguise and lighthearted intrigues.

Prolific Rossini

Giacchino Rossini was one of the most prolific composers of opera in history. He wrote this masterful opera in the astonishingly short period of thirteen days. Rossini was born in 1792 (the same year that George Washington became first president of the United States), the son of an Italian horn player who was the town trumpeter. He lived his early life in Bologna Italy, hwere his father played the horn at the town theater and his mother sang. Rossini's first opera, La Cambiale di Matrimonio, was produced in Venice when he was only 18. Rossini moved to Paris shortly after he achieved success in 1815 and remained there until his death in 1868.

"The Barber of Seville" had its American premiere in the Park Theater in New York iCty. in 1819 and was included in the opening season of the Metropolitan Opera House in 1883.

Student reaction here in Kingston varied only in selection of what was most appealing about the performance. Humanities' course students interviewed members of the audience after the performance and drew such responses as these: "I liked the whole opera—the Barber was really a sharp guy...The happy ending was just the thing to set the opera off . . . This is going to be the best year I've ever had in school—I just love this stuff . . . I liked the main character, the Barber. The singing was great and it was easy to understand . . ." When asked whether they would like more of this type of presentation, students were unanimously affirmative: "Of course. The reaction of the students in the audience should speak for itself in this matter . . . Yes, definitely . . . Sure, it was great." More than any set of quoted remarks, the attention and response of the student audience was visible evidence of the success of the performance.

The Humanities Course, a new program at Kingston High School, was instrumental in bringing the opera to Kingston. The course presents opportunities for students in the Humanities to experience art forms "in the flesh." The opportunity to work with Lincoln Center has made it possible to extend the experience to all Kingston High School students. Mr. Leonard Zimet, who teaches the Humanities in association with Mr. Richard Schaefer and Mrs. Diana Stigbert, made these comments on the opera and other plans for the future: "We hope that this opera and the other performances we have planned will give many students an enrichment of experiences undreamed of a few years ago. "In the next months we are to have a ballet, a piano recital, a string quartet and a repertory theater performance, all of which are made possible by the support of the Kingston Board of Education."

THIS RECENT PAINTING by Woodstock artist Leo Garel is one of 35 watercolors and gouaches which will be exhibited in his one-man show at New York's Cober Gallery from Dec. 5-20. Entitled "Storm," it illustrates why Garel has been praised for his creativity, vision, feeling and intuition. A seer of sensitivity and discpline, Garel uses broad, sometimes blocky strokes of a thick brush to endow his pictures with deep mystery and a magical sensuous presence. A long-time Woodstock resident, he teaches art at the Austen Riggs Center, Stockbridge, Mass., and has had seven previous one-man exhibitions. Among other works which will be seen at the Cober are Quarry at Sunset, Near Hudson River, Moon over Snow and Mountain Autumn.

Woodstock's Guild Fascinates

Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen has opened its annual Christmas Show at the picturesque old Guild Shop by the art colony's Village Green. As usual, the show is not only a fascinating exhibit of art and handcrafts, but offers an unusually interesting atmosphere in which to shop for Christmas gifts of distinction.

Only those who have never been to the Guild will be amazed at how very versatile the stock of gifts really is. Both men and women find many articles displayed which appeal to them. Buyer Beware! Lefkowitz Lists Six Good Rules

Holiday shoppers who buy merchandise from street corner venders or from firms operating out of store fronts rented only for the Christmas season may find that they have no recourse for exchange or return of merchandise, Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz warned today.

He cautioned shoppers that many thriving pre-Christmas businesses may close their doors before Christmas Eve and leave no forwarding address—only disappointed purchasers.

"The Christmas season is filled with all too many cases of frustration, delay and outright loss of money by consumers who have been the victims of a calloused breed of cheats who cash in on the rush of Christmas shopping and gift giving," The Attorney General said.

In urging holiday shoppers to use extra care in dealing with questionable firms and individuals, particularly those who operate through mail order schemes or vend the merchandise on street corners or in store fronts rented only for the Christmas season, the Attorney General said he has alerted the Bureau of Consumer Frauds and Protection of his office to be particularly watchful of any invasion of the Christmas market place by a get-rich-quick band of swindlers.

Shoppers who indiscriminately send money to out-of-town mail order firms without being certain of their reliability can be in for a big disappointment on Christmas because of the poor quality merchandise which is received or in undue delays in delivery, he said. "Some mail order firms have even failed to make any delivery at all," he added.

Among others in the army of fly-by-night operators who capitalize on the spirit of goodwill at Christmas for their own profit are the sharpies who solicit for "charity" by mail, over the telephone, or on street corners with placards asking for donations.

"Under a law passed last year on my recommendation, anyone who receives such goods may plead as a complete defense in an action brought against him that the merchandise was not ordered," he said.

The Attorney General listed six rules of "consumer common sense" for holiday shoppers:

Don't be misled by the dealer who lures you with offers of one article and then tries to sell you a higher priced or off-brand article.

Don't allow a door-to-door salesman to leave merchandise and an "on approval" receipt with you. He may not come back and you will find that the "receipt" you signed was a binding contract requiring you to pay for an article you do not want.

Don't use an article delivered to you if you find it not the same as ordered. Return the article and notify the dealer immediately.

Don't make financial commitments which you cannot possibly meet. When buying on the installment plan, remember that if you fall behind in your payments, the seller usually has a legal right to repossess the merchandise and often can enter a deficienty judgment against you.

Don't deal with persons or firms you do not know. Deal with reputable stores and mail order firms who rely on your business not only at Christmas time but throughout the year.

Don't hesitate to investigate before buying. Check with the Bureau of Consumer Frauds and Protection of the Attorney General's office, 80 Centre Street, New York City, the Better Business Bureau in your area, your local Chamber of Commerce or other community organization which work to protect the consumer and the legitimate businessman.

Ways to Sparkle This Yule Season

Because it's almost Christmas, you're certain to want to dress up and make up as you probably never do any other time of the year. The festive spirit somehow boasts your enthusiasm and puts a sparkle in your eye. But how about those clever extras that add a glitter and glamour to your whole person?

Could be the 'Midas Touch' is for you. Here are several beauty suggestions. Use a loop of gold tinsel and twist it through a French twist or use the gold tinsel for a clever and original hairband. You can also sprinkle gold over your hairdo or match a gold evening purse with gold evening sandals.

Get into the holiday spirit by wearing a small sprig of holly or mistletoe in your hair, on your shoulder, or pinned to your evening bag. Thread glittery sequins, shiny beads or small pearls on to hairpins before you use them to anchor a fall or hair piece or to coil a chignon into place. Your hairdo will look very elegant under bright lights.

Remember to keep your complexion pretty as well. The most wonderful beauty aid—at holiday time or any other time—to preserve skin beauty is a tropical moist beauty oil with a tremendous potential for preventing wrinkle-dryness and other skin deteriorating signs from developing on the skin. Oil of Olay should be smoothed over your face and neck as a protective, beautifying base beneath makeup and again at night before retiring. It's your best insurance that come rain or shine, come sleet or now or icy winds, your skin will retain its smoothness and youthfulness.

Once you've applied your oil and tinted foundation, use a light dusting of blusher to give your cheeks color and highlights. Wondering how to keep your lips kiss-proof all evening? Dab a little lemon skin freshener over your lips after applying your lipstick.

Perfume is an invisible sparkle-inducer, too. It can give you much pleasure and confidence and impress the aura of your fragrance as well as your personality on all who come close to you. So—Happy Holidays!

Watercolors, Smithsonian Exhibit

A watercolor exhibit of Miss Cecil K. Jennings, Glen-Lily, Newburgh, is currently on display at Mount Saint Mary College. Miss Jennings' art work is being shown in the college Library on the Newburgh campus.

The 17 paintings included may be purchased, according to Library director, Sister Francis Joseph, through whom arrangements may be made.

An exhibit under the auspices of the Smithsonian Institute has now opened, also in the college Library. This display is a collection of original illustrated stories and poems by fourth grade children.

Miss Jennings' exhibit is the third this year by local artists to be shown in the college. The works of Hazel Brill Jackson were shown in October.

Yule Around the World

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

Several weeks before Christmas little boys and girls of Liberia are startled to find themselves facing a masked creature who calls himself Santa Claus and who speaks to them through a terrifying mask. In a hard voice he promises them no sweets or Christmas stocking surprises unless they mend their ways.

In Italy, the "presepio" or miniature representation of the manger is the holiday symbol and on Christmas Eve the Italian family sits down to enjoy the "cenone" or Christmas Eve supper.

In England it's the Wassail bowl, in Spain the gala day is really January 6 and Yuletide festivities get started in Germany with St. Nicholas Eve, Dec. 6.

The world is filled with rich Christmas traditions and a look behind these customs jogs us into realizing how similar are the roots from which they originated.

Let's look at a few countries with interesting Yuletide customs.

Jolly England

Part of the beauty of the Christmas season in England is the wassail bowl, plum pudding and the yule log. In the olden days, the wassail bowl, mixture of hot ale, spices and toasted apples was prepared for friends. Before drinking, this greeting was exclaimed: "Love and joy come to you . . . and to your wassail too."

Although most of the brilliance of the Christmas holidays in Great Britain has been lost, there are many traditions still observed. One of them is the plum pudding. Plum puddings have always been associated with British Yuletide feasts. One superstitution declares that a pudding eaten before Christmas brings bad luck. After the holiday, however, it brings good luck.

Every locality has its own traditional foods. In Ireland — or at least in some parts, they still indulge in drinking what is known as Lamb's Wool. It is made by bruising roasted apples and mixing the juice with ale or milk. This drink, together with apples and nuts is considered indispensable on Christmas Eve.

At Queen's College, Oxford, the boar's head is carried in with the traditional carol: "The boar's head in hand bear I bedeck'd with bays and rosemary. And I pray you, my masters, be merry."

Another old folk belief is that "Twelve Days" between Christmas and Epiphany are a mirror of the next year's 12 months. Some people will eat a mince pie or plum pudding on each of the fateful days to insure good fortune and prosperity for the coming year.

Generally speaking, however, the British celebrate Christmas much the same way as we. The Christmas tree is popular, having also been introduced to England by the Germans. Christmas Eve is a time for children's parties and the high point of the evening is when Father Christmas rushes in with presents.

The day after Christmas in England is known as boxing day. This is the day when folks gather to make up packages and baskets for the poor. A custom which, in a sense, is comparable to our Christmas baskets.

Ireland, Scotland, Wales still retain some of their own peculiar customs but they, too, are not observed to any great extent. January 1 is Scotland's great national holiday.

An Italian Holiday

It's difficult to write about the Italian Christmas since each mountain hamlet and coast village possesses characteristic ways of celebrating that are worthy of note.

The "presepio" or miniature representation of the manger is the holiday symbol found in every Italian home. Long before Christmas, little clay figures of the Holy Family, angels, shepherds and kings are on sale in every market and village fair. The settings for the manger are built at home with cardboard, moss and bits of twig or with more professional properties.

When the presepii are finished friends and relatives visit each other to view them. The visitors come and gaze at the shrines or to kneel and pray. The occasion affords an excellent opportunity for visiting and adds new social life to the village.

On Christmas Eve, the tapers are lit and the family sits down to enjoy the "cenone" or Christmas Eve supper. The dinner begins about 8 p. m. and lasts until the people go to Midnight Mass.

Thirteen dishes are served in memory of the 12 diciples and Christ. They consist mainly of fish prepared in many elaborate ways, smelts, eels stewed in wine and macaroni. In some parts of the country and in Rome, a delicious currant loaf not only accompanies the holiday meal but is given to relatives and friends.

Christmas Day in Italy is a sacred holiday celebrated with solemn religious ceremonies in all the churches. The holiday is one of the greatest festivals of the church but it is not as much of a family fiesta as in other countries. The exchanging of gifts is of little or no importance. In many parts of Italy, however, children receive gifts on January 6 (Epiphany) in memory of the Three Wise Men.

Yuletide in Spain

The holiday season in Spain finds delicious fruit, golden oranges, sober-hued dates and indispensable olives in abundance. Also cheese of all shapes and kinds, sweetmeats of all sorts, choice candies that are brought from various provinces and quaint pigskins of wine.

Actually, the gala day in the Christmas season is January 6, Epiphany Festival. The Magi are credited with visiting the various homes and leaving presents.

Religious Theme Leading in '67

This year it looks as though the Partridge in the Pear Tree is about to be toppled from his lofty perch, to be replaced in popularity by Christmas cards with a religious motif. Of all the familiar and well-loved images that adorn the new Christmas cards, the favorite is one that recalls the Christmas story with its message of hope.

This is evident in the current Norcross collection. Their new collection includes even more versions of the Christmas story than in previous years, according to Mrs. Peggy Gilbert, head of the Design Studio.

Whether a card is illustrated in the formal style of a Renaissance painter, or with the simplicity of primitive modern art, the manger in Bethlehem strikes a responsive chord wherever it is seen.

Legends of the Christmas season from all over the world emerge from the themes drawn on Christmas cards. Their beauty is enriched this season with vivid, contemporary colorings and three-dimensional textures.

From Mexico to the United States comes the tradition of the poinsettia, called by Mexicans the "Flower of Christmas Eve." A new version is a stylized scarlet bloom, spattered with gold and outlined in magenta. A magenta-lined envelope heightens the contemporary effect.

Every country has its tradition of burning candles at Yuletide to symbolize the "Light of the World." Richly carved and painted candlesticks in blue and green, accented with purple and gold, ornament a distinctly modern card.

The charming English carol, The Twelve Days of Christmas, is represented in a brilliantly-colored, art nouveau design. Each figure is accented with delicate embossing.

The most decorative Christmas symbol is a gift from Germany, the Christmas tree its evergreen branches a promise of Eternal Life. A festive red card has a tree laden with colorful ornaments, fruits and candy canes, all sculptured in lifelike detail.

If that someone is a child, the choice may be a "Shake-A-Boo," a jumbo-sized cut-out with a movable head in the likeness of Santa Claus or other favorite characters.

The holiday party-giver will find a selection of invitations, place cards and bridge tallies to fit her needs also. Decorative holiday note paper will make it easier to be prompt with thank you notes when Christmas is over.

Tiny Tips

If you like to offer hearty servings of stew, count on a pound of boneless meat making two portions.

* * *

Christmas—Around the World

shoe on the balcony. The shoe is filled with hay for the three camels. In the morning, the hay is gone and in its place are Christmas presents.

At dinner on January 6, the "King's Cake" is served. It is round and contains a tiny doll. Whoever finds the doll in his piece of cake becomes King and it's all considered good luck.

Christmas itself, like in Italy, is a church festival and is observed in a more religious manner. On Christmas Eve, the people of the Catholic faith attend midnight mass. After mass, the family and friends gather for feasting and dancing.

On the Christmas menu in a Spanish home one may expect to see chickens, capons, bacon, mutton, beef, pig's feet, famous almond rock, almond soup, truffled turkey. Nuts of all kinds are abundant.

A Polish Christmas

The Wigilia (Vigil of the Nativity) is the outstanding feature of a Polish Christmas.

It begins when the first star appears in the heaven on Christmas Eve. The father, or head of the family, blesses the traditional Oplatek (communion wafer) which symbolizes Christ, brotherly love, peace and forgiveness. Tradition holds that the Oplatek be made in white and pink. Taking the white Oplatek, the father in a Polish family breads it and shares it first with the mother and then with members of the family, friends and neighbors. In the olden days, the pink wafer was fed to the animals for they, too, were to share in the blessing of the Christmas season.

The Polish Christmas Eve dinner is also steeped in traditions. The Oplatek is placed on the table in such a way as to symbolize the Christ Child in the manger. According to old customs, straw is placed under the wafer and 12 different foods symbolic of the 12 apostles are served at the supper. The dinner can consist of various types of fish, Polish beet soup, usually served with mushroom patties, wheat or rice with honey sauce, noodles with poppy seed, fish, many kinds of small honey and seed cakes and other dainties. Also served is a variety of nuts, plums and Christmas pastry (strucle akoa wnnim .dnki) try (strucle and makowninki).

A lovely custom is the setting of a special place for anyone who might knock at the door that night.

After supper, presents are distributed and all join in singing carols and songs until it is time for the Midnight Mass. The mass is called the Pasterka, which means Mass of the Shepherds.

Christmas day is spent visiting relatives, friends and neighbors.

Yuletide in Germany

Christmas Yuletide festivities begin with St. Nicholas Eve (Dec. 6) when in many small towns and rural districts the good saint "puts in an appearance" and makes his annual call on children.

In many German homes the first preparations for Christmas begin with Advent. Gifts are not exchanged until Christmas with the arrival of the Weihnachtsmann, the Christmas Man, or of Christ Kindle, The Christ Child.

The Christmas tree and giving of gifts are an important part of every German Yuletide. The holiday begins with Christmas Eve church services followed by festivities and family gatherings. There's singing and general merrymaking and the Christmas day meal will boast of a roast goose, Christstollen (long loaves of bread bursting with nuts, raisins, citron and dried fruits) and marzipan. We understand that Berliners eat carp at Christmas.

The Christmas tree lights are turned on for the last time on January 6, Festival of the Three Kings. In Catholic Germany people chalk over their doors the initials of the Three Kings to prevent evil from entering their homes.

"Casper, Melchior, Balthasar protect us this year from all danger of fire and flood," is the legend peasants from the Bavarian Forest write above the lintel.

Russian Christmas

The great dignity and magnificance of the stately religious festivals of Christmas were, of course, in evidence during the pre-revolutionary days in Russia. But the official holy days of the Eastern Orthodox Church, we must remember, are observed by members all over the world and these traditions are still in evidence.

The three most sacred holidays of the Eastern Church are Christmas, Epiphany and Easter.

In many Russian-American homes traditional Christmas foods are still eaten. On Christmas Eve a meal of "koutia," a dish of rice or wheat in honey, "ouzvaar," a compote of dried fruits and nuts, candy and 'pryanik" round form of cookies may be served.

Santa Claus in Russia is "Diad Moroz" (Grandfather Frost.) Although a myth, children believe that Grandfather Frost brings the Christmas tree with all the trimmings. This is one reason why the tree is not set up until the children have gone to sleep. Russian children picture Grandfather Frost as an elderly gentleman complete with long white beard and red clothes — sound familiar?

Christmas Day (Rozhdestvo Khristovo) is usually observed with family reunions and a holiday dinner at which roast goose is the main course. Children's parties, masquerades, and balls formerly made the Russian Christmas a brilliant social season.

One important thing — some Russian families still observe the Orthodox Church calendar which means that their Christmas Holiday actually comes 3 days after ours. It seems, as far as we can learn, that after the revolution, the government had everyone observe the same date as the rest of the world—even though there was a time in Russia when it was unlawful to have a Christmas tree in the house.

But whether we call him Santa Nikolaus, Pere Noel, St. Nicolaas, Kriss Kringle, Diad Miroz or just Santa Claus, to children the world over, the holiday is excitement, generosity, surprise and fun, all wrapped up in one jolly package.

MODERN METHOD BETTER

How would you like to clean your skin with sand? The ancient Sumerians, who lived in a desert climate in 2800 B.C. did just that. Then, to counteract the drying effects of that corrosive cleansing, they smoothed their skins with oils. Today, nearly 5,000 years later, we don't indulge in sand facials but dry skin is still a problem. More than two out of every three American women suffer from dry skin condition.

KEEP SKIN FROM DRYING

Your skin is constantly under attack. Sun, wind, dry indoor heat, household chores and extremes of weather all steal moisture from the skin. And, of course, it is the skin's ability to produce natural oils that keeps it young, elastic and supple. Defend your skin against drying elements by keeping it lubricated, and always apply an emollient lotion before exposure to inclement weather.

EARLY Christmas SHOPPING is SOUND and CONSIDERATE

There are many sound reasons for both shopping and mailing early for the Christmas holidays that we are pleased to note herewith:

You avoid the last - minute crush at the stores and at the post office . . .

When the work is spread over several weeks rather than the final period, life is much happier for these willing workers who want to give us the kind of service we prefer.

EARLY Christmas SHOPPING is SOUND and CONSIDERATE

There are many sound reasons for both shopping and mailing early for the Christmas holidays that we are pleased to note herewith:

You avoid the last - minute crush at the stores and at the post office . . .

The choice of merchandise is in greater abundance and the service is faster . . .

When the work is spread over several weeks rather than the final period, life is much happier for these willing workers who want to give us the kind of service we prefer.

The stores in the community also are open evenings for the convenience and the satisfaction of the needs of Christmas Shoppers.

The local stores operate when the people want them to operate.

Greet Callers With Homemade Decorations

There is still time to make a truly beautiful wreath for your door or mantel, using the inexpensive and versatile medium of gift wraps.

A Wreath of Roses is a good family project. More experienced hands are needed to form the textured gold foil roses, but the smallest fingers can cut out the leaves, using blunt scissors and a paper pattern.

The wreath and other Christmas decorations are designed to be made at home from gift wraps and ribbons, plus common household items, such as cardboard boxes, wire hangers and pipe cleaners.

Instructoins for the Desk Set and the Advent Wreath are included in a FREE booklet on Christmas decorating, "Christmas Tales and Treasures" by Norcross. Send a postcard request to Norcross Inc., Dept. B, Box 250, Old Chelsea Station, New York, New York 10011.

"Christmas Tales and Treasures" includes many more ideas for decorating the home at Christmas, based on the legends and customs of the season.

The tradition of the Yule Log is represented as a centerpiece, easily made from two salt boxes covered in textured gold foil. A little known, ancient symbol of Christmas is The Good Ship, Merry Christmas, its pennants flying and laden with bright Christmas packages.

A custom still practiced is the ringing of bells on Christmas morning to signal the birth of the infant Jesus. The Medieval Bell Tower commemorates the first Christmas in a stately ornament of blue, gold and green.

The Saga of Old Saint Nikalaus

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

In his 1600 years on earth . . . Santa Claus has grown a long, white beard, moved from a small village in Asia Minor to a toy factory at the North Pole, and changed from flowing robes into a red and white furry suit. He's gotten shorter, rounder and much, much merrier.

The original Santa Claus was born in Patras, Asia Minor, according to historians. Young Nicholas—instead of being interested in games and play—devoted himself to the study of the Scriptures. Because of his remarkable boyhood, he was later accepted as the patron saint of children.

Being of very rich parents, Nicholas was able to share his wealth with others. He found particular joy in providing gifts for children, or the dowry necessary to start a needy young woman on the road to a happy marriage. His travels brought him to the large city of Myra where he was consecrated Archbishop.

St. Nicholas died on December 6, about 341 . . . but not before he had saved a ship from a threatening storm with his prayer, found a way to feed all the people of Myra during a famine, and deposited three bags of gold upon the doorstep of a poor merchant.

Today, there is hardly a seacoast city in any Catholic country that does not have a chapel dedicated to him. He is the patron Saint of bankers, pawnbrokers, maidens, children, mariners, scholars . . . and even thieves!

Europe has always celebrated St. Nicholas Day on December 6 and this is the traditional day of gift giving. But in the New World, St. Nicholas gave up his own day and became a well-loved part of the Christmas celebration.

Dutch settlers brought Santa Nikalaus to New Amsterdam. At first he appeared to look like Father Knickerbocker. American history researchers at a leading insurance company tell us that Thomas Nast, famous cortoonist, periodically dressed his Santas in suits of red, white and blue for patriotism's sake.

Washington Irving described the merry gift-giver as a tubby little fellow with a jolly manner who sped through the air on a reindeer sleigh.

From this interpretation came the basis for Clement Clark Moore's beloved "A Visit From St. Nicholas." Dr. Moore, Professor at a New York Theological Semi-

Gingerbread Yule Men

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food Editor

When you whiff that wonderful smell of gingerbread men shaping up in the oven, it's time to deck the halls with boughs of holly. So let's begin.

GINGERBREAD MEN

3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ cup brown sugar
¼ teaspoon baking soda
¾ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons ground ginger
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
¾ cup butter or margarine
1 cup light molasses
Confectioners' sugar and water frosting

Sift together flour, sugar, soda, salt and spices. Cut in butter with pastry blender or fingers until mixture resembles coarse meal. Stir in molasses. Mix well. Chill dough until stiff enough to handle, about one hour. Roll quarter of the dough at a time to ⅛-inch thickness on a lightly floured board. (Keep the dough not in use in refrigerator.) Shape with a gingerbread man cookie cutter. Bake on lightly greased cookie sheet in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees) 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Decorate with raisins, chocolate bits, red cinnamon candy and with confectioners' sugar and water frosting. Yield 2½ dozen.

Wonderful, jolly gingerbread men.

CONFECTIONERS' SUGAR AND WATER FROSTING

Madrigal Singers Will Star

A free Winter Concert and tea will be presented at Orange County Comminity College on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 3, at 3:30 p. m. in Orange Hall auditorium. The public is invited to the program given by the college's music department and the Leona Miner Music Club.

Taking part in the Middletown concert will be the OCCC Mixed Chorus, directed by Mrs. Ruth Curtis; the Madrigal Singers, led by V. Robert Heisey and the College Band, conducted by Dr. Feman. Seasonal music will be featured by the choral and instrumental groups.

Selections by the Mixed Chorus will include "Frostiana" by Thompson; "Gloria in Excelsis" by Vivaldi-Martens; "In the Night" by Brahms; "Rock-a-m-Soul" arranged by Howorth and "Gloucestershire Wassail" arranged by Scott.

The Madrigals will sing three Elizabethan selections, "Come Again! Sweet Love Doth Now Invite" by Dowland; "Shoot, False Love, I Care Not" by Morley and "In Going to My Lonely Bed" by Edwards. Seasonal songs will be "Carol of the Drum by Davis; "Lo, What a Beauteous Rose" by Praetorius and "A Merry Christmas," a traditional British Christmas favorite arranged by Worrell.

The band will play "Joi" by Logan; "A Christmas Festival" by Anderson; "Havah Nagilah Fantasy" by Lang; "Winter Carnival" by Stuart; "White Christmas," by Berlin and "Chapada" by Johnson.

Rough Treatment

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — When an elderly New Mexico couple arrived at an El Paso hospital so the husband could receive treatment, a man they thought was an attendant told them their car was blocking the ambulance entrance.

The couple quoted the man as saying that if they would give him the keys he would move the vehicle for them. The couple did so and the man disappeared with their car, authorities said.

Art Is for Everyone; Artists, Connoisseurs

Art isn't just for artists and connoisseurs—it's for everyone; and some of the freshest and most inventive young artists at one of our country's leading museums are children. They, along with their parents, are students at a special program at the Museum of Modern Art in New York.

Victor D'Amico, director of the Museum of Modern Art's education department, explains the purpose of these classes in the December issue of Parents' Magazine. They were designed to encourage children to retain their creativity and ability to see beauty around them. The children are, in a sense, their parents' teachers in the classes, showing by innocent example how to be free, and bold with line and color.

Children of all ages attend the Modern Art studio, sitting at low tables in the center of the room with parents around them at higher tables. This makes the children's work visible to parents without having to peer over shoulders, possibly inhibiting the children.

D'Amico points out that children need not attend art school to achieve these things. Parents can help them to build on their natural creativity and to remain sensitive to beauty in the world by encouraging the habit of museum-going . . . by making children aware of the art forms beyond painting and sculpture — photography, landscape and interior decoration . . . and by giving him a a corner of his own where he can freely work with paints, clay and various construction forms.

Cottekill

COTTEKILL—Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Osterhoudt Jr., of New Paltz had their infant son Christened at the worship service in the Cottekill Reformed Church Sunday morning. Both their parents and some grandparents were in attendance. After the service all went to the Osterhoudt home in New Paltz for dinner.

Among the hunters to bag their deer this season are Fred Bell and Ralph Temple Jr.

Mrs. Arthur De Puy is spending a few days with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John McGrane in Kingston.

John Wood, a student at Rutgers University, spent the holiday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wood.

Gingerbread Yule Men

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food Editor

When you whiff that wonderful smell of gingerbread men shaping up in the oven, it's time to deck the halls with boughs of holly. So let's begin.

GINGERBREAD MEN

3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ cup brown sugar
¾ teaspoon baking soda
¾ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons ground ginger
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
¾ cup butter or margarine
1 cup light molasses
Confectioners' sugar and water frosting

Sift together flour, sugar, soda, salt and spices. Cut in butter with pastry blender or fingers until mixture resembles coarse meal. Stir in molasses. Mix well. Chill dough until stiff enough to handle, about one hour. Roll quarter of the dough at a time to ⅛-inch thickness on a lightly floured board. (Keep the dough not in use in refrigerator.) Shape with a gingerbread man cookie cutter. Bake on lightly greased cookie sheet in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees) 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Decorate with raisins, chocolate bits, red cinnamon candy and with confectioners' sugar and water frosting. Yield 2½ dozen.

Wonderful, jolly gingerbread men.

CONFECTIONERS' SUGAR AND WATER FROSTING

Art Is for Everyone; Artists, Connoisseurs

Art isn't just for artists and connoisseurs—it's for everyone; and some of the freshest and most inventive young artists at one of our country's leading museums are children. They, along with their parents, are students at a special program at the Museum of Modern Art in New York.

Victor D'Amico, director of the Museum of Modern Art's education department, explains the purpose of these classes in the December issue of Parents' Magazine. They were designed to encourage children to retain their creativity and ability to see beauty around them. The children are, in a sense, their parents' teachers in the classes, showing by innocent example how to be free, and bold with line and color.

Children of all ages attend the Modern Art studio, sitting at low tables in the center of the room with parents around them at higher tables. This makes the children's work visible to parents without having to peer over shoulders, possibly inhibiting the children.

Parents report that youngsters attending the Museum of Modern Art's classes have a sharpening of perception and a greater interest in everything around them.

D'Amico points out that children need not attend art school to achieve these things. Parents can help them to build on their natural creativity and to remain sensitive to beauty in the world by encouraging the habit of museum-going . . . by making children aware of the art forms beyond painting and sculpture — photography, landscape and interior decoration . . . and by giving him a a corner of his own where he can freely work with paints, clay and various construction forms.

Cottekill

COTTEKILL—Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Osterhoudt Jr., of New Paltz had their infant son Christened at the worship service in the Cottekill Reformed Church Sunday morning. Both their parents and some grandparents were in attendance. After the service all went to the Osterhoudt home in New Paltz for dinner.

Among the hunters to bag their deer this season are Fred Bell and Ralph Temple Jr.

Madrigal Singers Will Star

A free Winter Concert and tea will be presented at Orange County Comminity College on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 3, at 3:30 p. m. in Orange Hall auditorium. The public is invited to the program given by the college's music department and the Leona Miner Music Club.

Taking part in the Middletown concert will be the OCCC Mixed Chorus, directed by Mrs. Ruth Curtis; the Madrigal Singers, led by V. Robert Heisey and the College Band, conducted by Dr. Feman. Seasonal music will be featured by the choral and instrumental groups.

Selections by the Mixed Chorus will include "Frostiana" by Thompson; "Gloria in Excelsis" by Vivaldi-Martens; "In the Night" by Brahms; "Rock-a-m-Soul" arranged by Howorth and "Gloucestershire Wassail" arranged by Scott.

The Madrigals will sing three Elizabethan selections, "Come Again! Sweet Love Doth Now Invite" by Dowland; "Shoot, False Love, I Care Not" by Morley and "In Going to My Lonely Bed" by Edwards. Seasonal songs will be "Carol of the Drum by Davis; "Lo, What a Beauteous Rose" by Praetorius and "A Merry Christmas," a traditional British Christmas favorite arranged by Worrell.

The band will play "Joi" by Logan; "A Christmas Festival" by Anderson; "Havah Nagilah Fantasy" by Lang; "Winter Carnival" by Stuart; "White Christmas," by Berlin and "Chapada" by Johnson.

Rough Treatment

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — When an elderly New Mexico couple arrived at an El Paso hospital so the husband could receive treatment, a man they thought was an attendant told them their car was blocking the ambulance entrance.

The couple quoted the man as saying that if they would give him the keys he would move the vehicle for them. The couple did so and the man disappeared with their car, authorities said.

The Saga of Old Saint

nary, composed the poem for his children who first heard it on Christmas Eve, 1822.

"He was dressed all in furs from his head to his foot and his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot . . . he was chubby and plump, a right jolly old elf, and I laughed when I saw him in spite of myself."

This was how Dr. Moore saw Santa Claus, and thanks to his vivid characterization, this is how children all over America have pictured him ever since.

The laughing man with the big heart adds to the joy of Christmas for children everywhere . . . but what happens to the child who huddles on the stairway watching for Santa till his eyelids drop? Or the child who doesn't see footprints in the snow on Christmas morning? Or the child who has been told, there is no Santa Claus.

For him, Christmas becomes a sad time. A little girl named Virginia once wrote, to a newspaper editor, asking him to help solve the puzzling problem of Santa's existence. Virginia received an answer that has become a classic in American journalism.

The French remember him as Pere Noel, the Germans as Saint Nicolaas who fills shoes with goodies, and the Norwegians as Kriss Kringle. To children, he is excitement, generosity, surprise and fun, all wrapped up in one jolly package. The Saga of Santa is one they never tire of hearing.

Winter Concert By Glee Clubs

Haverford College Glee Club, under direction of Professor William H. Reese, will join Vassar College Glee Club for its annual winter concert tonight at 8:30 o'clock in Skinner Recital Hall, Poughkeepsie. Albert J. van Ackere, Associate Professor of Music at Vassar, is director of Vassar Glee Club. Area residents are welcome.

Included in the program will be large excerpts from Christoph W. von Gluck's opera "Orpheus and Euridice," with Sandra Browne '68 and Sylvia Hummel '70 as soloists.

In addition to this large-scale work, the combined Glee Clubs will present a series of choral songs from the German choral repertoire, including works by Brahms and Wolf. Of special interest will be excerpts from Hugo Distler's Morike-Chorliederbuch. Rarely performed in the U.S., these songs rank among the most refined and beautiful in the contemporary choral repertoire. Hugo Distler, a 20th century German composer driven to suicide in 1942 by the Hitler Nazi regime, wrote almost exclusively choral compositions. Another group of these Distler songs will be performed later in the year by the Vassar College Madrigal Singers.

Accompanists for the Vassar College Glee Club in tonight's concert will be Jane Strong '68 and Sue Miller '70.
